FUTURE OF NEWTON

Alderman Blakemore Warns Against School Expenses

At the Unitarian Church, Newton Centre, Wednesday evening, the last meeting in the series of "Know Your Own City" was held. Mr. Frederic G. Melcher gave an interesting talk on the History of Newton and Alderman A. W. Blakemore spoke on the Future of Newton.

Mr. Blakemore said in part: The future of our beautiful city can be forecasted in part by its past, and in part by the experience of other similar cities. If our present rate of growth is maintained we shall be in fifty years, which is a short time in the life of a municipality, a city of 75,000 inhabitants, and it behooves us now to prepare for this future growth. At that time we shall be equal in size to the present cities of Lynn, New Bedford, Springfield, Lawrence and Somerville, and we should attempt to so plan our development, that we avoid the mistakes which they have made.

Our building laws should be so framed as to prevent the type of construction now prevalent in parts of Somerville and East Cambridge and wherever possible we should plan to widen existing thoroughfares. Main thoroughfares like the present Walnut street with a width of 46 feet between curbs, Hammond street with a width of 20 feet; Kendrick Bridge 22 feet; Weston Bridge 20 feet; Gale street in Nonantum square 40 feet, and Chestnut street in West Newton 27 feet, not only are a menace to traffic, but tend to throttle civic development and the waste to the community through such conditions will grow as the city grows.

The statistics of our population show that in the five years from 1906 to 1910 the city grew less than at any other period of five years since 1880, and it is also noticeable that during that period our tax rate has been higher than ever before.

While the city of Newton in the ten years from 1900 to 1910 grew 18 per cent, Brookline with a tax rate of half ours grew 39 per cent, Wellesley 7 per cent, Watertown 33 per cent, Needham 25 per cent.

Our greatest problem is that of financing necessary public improvements. We would all like to see a great group of municipal buildings on Clavin Field, and we would like to have our fire and police protection improved and our street lighting made adequate, as it is not today, and in fifty years we hope the city will have solved these problems. The only obstacle is the lack of funds and the danger of increasing our high tax rate.

The lavish expenditures in the school department are largely to blame for the impossibility of beginning needed improvements. We are robbing other departments which are now actually being granted less money than they were ten years ago. Our public buildings have been neglected, the city hall not having been painted for seven years, our roads are going behind, our streets are insufficiently lighted, and needed public improvements like the widening of Weston Bridge and of Walnut street have to be postponed to give the money to the schools.

A careful examination shows that the percentage of school expense compared to other expenses has increased during the last fifteen years at the rate of 5 per cent every five years. Our per capita school expense is now about twice the average and exceeded by no other city in this country. The expense per pupil is between twice and three times the

VETERAN DEAD

Mr. George E. Johnson, Senior Vice-Commander of Charles Ward Post

Mr. George Edward Johnson, a veteran of the Civil War, and one of the best-known residents of Auburndale, died at his home, 51 Hawthorne avenue last Friday afternoon, following a shock of paralysis the previous week.

Mr. Johnson was born in Boston, September 13, 1842, but went west when a lad and enlisted at Alton, Ill., in April 1861, as private in Co. G, 8th Ill. Vol. Infantry. On expiration of his three months' service, he entered the transportation department under Gen. Fremont, later serving as dispatch courier and scout. In July, 1862, he joined the secret service army police under Gen. Rosecrans, participating in the battles of Pine Ridge, Ark., and at Chickamauga, Tenn. At the close of the war he returned to Alton, where in 1865 he married Miss Anna M. Hyatt. He came to Auburndale in 1882 and entered the grain business, which he conducted until his death. He was also at one time interested in the express business in the village. He was deeply interested in Charles Ward Post, G. A. R., which he joined in 1884 and was its senior vice commander at the time of his death. He is survived by a widow and four children, Mr. Edward S. Johnson of Burlington, Vt., Mrs. Charles E. Almy, Miss Mabel and Mr. Harry Johnson of Auburndale.

Funeral services were held at his late home on Monday afternoon and were attended by a large number of friends, and many Grand Army associates. Rev. Charles E. Spaulding of the Centenary Methodist Church officiated and the usual impressive burial ritual of the Grand Army was given by Chaplain S. P. Putnam. The burial was at Newton Cemetery and the body was escorted by a detail from the Post.

NORTH GATE CLUB

The ladies of the North Gate Club brought their bowling season to a most successful close by a dance on Monday evening.

The winning team was composed of Mrs. Joseph Symonds, Capt., who also won the high average, Miss Nellie Symonds, Mrs. Ernest Sheldon, Mrs. C. E. Quinn and Mrs. Ernest Cushman.

The high single was won by Miss A. Louise Dix, while Mrs. C. E. Quinn and Mrs. F. A. Frost tied for high 3 strings. This tie will be rolled off on April 8th, when the winning team has been challenged to roll against a team of men handicapped by skirts. Mrs. F. A. Frost took charge of the season and made it a success socially.

DIED

CURRIER—In Newburyport, Mass., April 2, 1912, Karl Castelhuus, son of John Atkinson Currier, aged 30 yrs., 5 mos. Funeral services will be held at his parents' home, Friday, April 5, 1912, at 2.30 o'clock P. M., No. 27 Ashland street, Newburyport, Mass. Burial in Belleville Cemetery.

average expense in Massachusetts of cities of our size. Politically the future of Newton will be broader than its past. The time has gone when a few men can dictate public office in this city, and the time is coming when the best among the honest men in all elements in the community must combine to save the city from conditions which have obtained with some of our neighbors.

NEWTON SCHOLARSHIP

Harvard Alumni Offer $150 Scholarship to Newton Youths

A scholarship of $150 for Newton boys was the announcement made by the Harvard Men of Newton at its first meeting held last Tuesday evening at the Brae Burn Club, West Newton. The meeting was attended by a large gathering of Harvard men of this city, as well as several members of the senior class at the high school, who are preparing for college and the success of the meeting was both gratifying to President A. Lawrence Lowell, who was the special guest of the evening and the organization committee.

Dr. George L. West '80, chairman of the organization committee made the introductory address and introduced the presiding officer, Mr. Robert S. Gorham, '85. Cheer after cheer was given when President Lowell was introduced and an equal demonstration was given when he concluded. Several instances were recited by the speaker in regard to the term which is often given to the university as being "The Rich Man's College," stating that the struggling students today are being helped in every possible way by the faculty. President Lowell insisted on the democracy at Harvard, saying: "A democracy is where all kinds of people are gathered, and there are all kinds at Harvard. Of course we have rich men, but there is also much poverty."

In speaking about the new system of entrance examinations, disproving the assertion that this system results in the lowering of Harvard standards, he cited 43 per cent of rejections under the new, as opposed to 24 per cent under the old system. "It has resulted in getting into touch with high schools throughout the country, 12 states, not before reached are now represented at the college and that it aims to be a national university."

Sydney R. Curtis, assistant secretary of the Alumni Association, spoke for some length on the work which is being done by the athletic committee to bring out every student in the college, that he may also be made strong in body. Following the speeches, the men gathered about the piano and the old Harvard songs echoed throughout the building.

UNIQUE MINSTREL SHOW

By wireless—"Steamer St. Paul," Capt. H. Whitmore, will arrive on Friday night of next week, from a 6 weeks' practice cruise, landing at Lincoln Hall. The ship's company to celebrate their arrival are preparing to entertain their friends on the night they land and the following evening, with what they report will be the most unique minstrel and vaudeville show ever given on the South Shore of Newton.

All spare time during the cruise has been spent rehearsing under the direction of Chief Engineer Robinson and the chorus of nearly 50 sailors and midshipmen, with the ship's "submarine band" are ready to cast off and set sail on the most difficult song at a moment's notice.

Nor will the fun be lacking with "Stew" Bosson, the brothers Johnson, Herb Colby on the ends, and Ralph Menard of the Toy Theatre Co. and Ex-Cadet star, Harry Ayer, Ed. Brown and many others not forgetting Harold Collins, Jamie Ginter and Johnnie Lowell. All the fun which Neptune furnishes will be reproduced. Friends of the crew who desire passports should notify Mr. Harold Newell.

TWO MEN HURT

In Automobile Accident on Commonwealth Avenue, West Newton

Two men, Edwin H. Rouillard of Malden and F. L. Davis of Boston were thrown from an automobile about noon last Saturday on Commonwealth avenue just west of Chestnut street, when the machine left the roadbed and struck the reserved space in the center of the avenue.

Eye-witnesses of the accident state that the machine was being driven at a rapid rate of speed and after the front wheel struck the soft ground and was imbedded to the hub, the rear wheels kept on with full driving power which switched the machine around until the wrenching finally released it only to have the plunge into a tree where it stopped and the occupants of the car were thrown through the air as though they were shot out of a catapult. By actual measurement Davis was thrown 33 feet and during that time he held his pipe firmly gripped between his teeth and it was still lodged there when he was dug out of the soft ground. Davis had a badly cut head and may have received a fracture of the skull and his face was skinned and his chest injured.

Rouillard was thrown about 30 feet, tearing out the steering gear as he went. He turned a complete somersault and landed on both heels. The shock was so great as to break both legs in two places.

They were both taken to the Newton Hospital in the new police ambulance.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB ORGANIZED

About fifty gentlemen were present last Friday night at the Newton Club when preliminary plans were formulated for the organization of the Newton Automobile Club. Remarks were made by President Lewis R. Speare of the Massachusetts State Automobile Association, Mr. Benjamin Richardson, president of the Brookline Automobile Club, Mayor Charles E. Hatfield and Hon. Samuel L. Powers. A committee consisting of Mr. Powers, Mr. Mitchell Wing and Mr. George W. McNear were appointed to prepare a constitution and by-laws and these officers were elected: President, Hon. Charles E. Hatfield; vice president, Mr. E. Ray Speare; secretary-treasurer, Mr. G. A. Strachan; directors, Mr. Samuel W. French, Mr. Mitchell Wing, Mr. James Lawson and Mr. George M. Nash; director to the A.A.A., Mr. Herbert D. Forbes; director to the U.S.A.A., Mr. G. W. McNear. One of its main objects is to aid in proper enforcement of automobile laws and ordinances, to advocate and obtain local, state and Federal aid in the construction and maintenance of good roads, to encourage touring and secure, prepare and disseminate information relative thereto, and to support sportsmanlike contests and other movements that will advance motoring interests. Such a club will prevent prejudiced ordinances and compel fair treatment by the police.

Good Money After Bad.

It is a curious fact that many men, level headed enough about other things, seem to lose their wits entirely when they become involved in lawsuits. In one case recently concluded in the German courts a Berlin merchant paid out over $600 to recover the value of a five cent postage stamp. He had written a letter asking for an address and inclosing postage for reply. Failing to get an answer, he sued for the stamp.

The famous Missouri watermelon case was just as trifling and even more disastrous. The seed was planted on one farm, but the vine crept through a crack in the rail fence, and the melon grew on the other side. Both farmers claimed it, and instead of perceiving the humor of the situation they went to law. To add to the puzzling features of the question of ownership there was the further complication in that the fence stood on a county line, whereupon a question of the jurisdiction of the courts came up. The farmers bankrupted themselves without obtaining a decision as to the ownership.—Green Bag.

Liquid Dynamite.

The Mexicans have a native brandy called aguardiente, which is a species of liquid dynamite, as palatable as corrosive sublimate and as full of potential devilry as an egg is of meat. When you find a Mexican gentleman adorned with a belt full of deadly weapons decorating and deluging his interior with aguardiente it is the part of prudence to retire to a bombproof. There is another tippie, a white, innocent looking fluid called mescal, which is distilled from a cactus of the same name, which has in it all the combined energy, activity and homicidal possibilities of a volcano mixed up with the gable end of a mule. In former days the Apache Indians made a crude distillation of the same stimulant, which they called tis-wia, and as a preliminary to a raid among ranches and settlements it was a great success from an Indian point of view.—Boston Herald.

The Crocodiles Dived.

The cunning of wild animals in concealing themselves in moments of danger is well known. A party, spending a week on the Nile, were watching eight or ten crocodiles sunning themselves on the surface of a small lagoon. It was determined to trap these monsters, if possible. The water was breast deep, including about two feet or more of heavy mud. Four nets were tied together, so as to make one long enough to reach across the lagoon, and this was weighted on the bottom. This net was drawn with long poles from each shore, and behind the net came a line of men a yard apart, prodding the mud with poles. The scheme looked like an admirable one, but the crocodiles sleepily dived, and that was the last seen of them. The water was dragged backward and forward, but they had burrowed so deeply in the mud that not one could be found.

A Political Genius.

Congressmen sometimes adopt queer expedients to gain the good will of their constituents. Years ago a member from a western state was afraid that his first term would be his last, as he had not managed to make himself a power in congress. While he was debating what he should do a friend said, "You live near the center of the United States, don't you?" "Yes." "Then why don't you introduce a bill to have the capital moved to the principal town in your district?" The congressman introduced the bill, and the people of his district at once concluded he was a great man and sent him back for another term. He reintroduced the bill in the next congress, and, although it was promptly pigeonholed in committee, his constituents gave him a third term as a reward for his genius.

The Blushing Octopus.

The octopus frequently changes in color like a marine chameleon. It would appear, from studies of this creature, that the colored pigment whereby this change in color is effected is contained in envelope in its skin, in the tissue of which are muscular fibers actuated by nerves. Should these fibers become relaxed a dark pigment appears. The phenomenon is said to be analogous to blushing.—Harper's Weekly.

Corrected Him.

A reporter was once interviewing Thomas A. Edison. "And you, sir," he said to the inventor, "made the first talking machine?" "No," Mr. Edison replied, "the first one was made long before my time—out of a rib."

Three Not of a Kind.

Sir Henry Maine's famous political diagnosis is worth quoting. The king of England reigns, but does not govern. The president of the United States governs, but does not reign. The president of France neither reigns nor governs.—Boston Herald.

Usual Reason.

"He used to be a straight enough young chap. What made him get crooked?" "Trying to make both ends meet, I believe."—Toledo Blade.

His Strong Face.

"Billkin's is a strong face or I'm no judge of physiognomy." "It ought to be. He and his whole family are living on it."—Buffalo Courier.

Obedience is not truly performed by the body of him whose heart is dissatisfied.—Baudr.

Sure It Was His Wife.

Three o'clock was the very earliest the man could get up to the store, so his wife asked him to meet her then. "I don't know in what department I shall be at that time," she said, "but just before 3 I will telephone to the clerk at the information bureau near the main entrance, and if you will just step over and ask him he will tell you where I am."

At two minutes past 3 the man sought information as to the whereabouts of his wife.

"I have a message," said the clerk, "from a woman who said her husband would inquire for her about 3 o'clock. Maybe it is for you. She said to tell you that she has gone to Blank's store, over on Sixth avenue, to finish her shopping because the clerks in this store are impudent, the place is ill ventilated and she couldn't find anything she wanted here anyhow and never has been able to find anything here and this is positively the last time she will ever try to find anything here. Of course that might have been your wife."

"Oh, yes," said the man; "that was her all right."—New York Sun.

Cochineal Insects.

Before many years cochineal scarlet will have become a thing of history only, like the Tyrian purple of antiquity. That is the conclusion of M. Leon Digue, who has been studying the state of the cochineal industry in Mexico. The first specimens of cochineal were taken to Europe by the Spanish adventurers in the sixteenth century. The Indians had cultivated the coccus caeti, from which the color is derived in pre-Columbian times, and after the Spanish conquest the industry developed rapidly. The city of Oaxaca was the center of the cochineal country in the days of Humboldt, but only a few plantations of the nopal cactus, on which the insects are fed, now remain. The female insects only are used to form a dye, and they are gathered by brushing the branches of the nopal as soon as they begin to lay their eggs. They are then desiccated in ovens or killed with boiling water.

Duel With Horsemanship.

A novel but brutal form of duel between two carters took place at Baja, Hungary. Behg both in love with the daughter of the farmer who employed them, they decided to fight for her with their heavy horsewhips. The girl agreeing to act as umpire and accept the winner. In order to insure that there should be no running away, they first fastened themselves to two posts in the ground. The girl gave the signal to begin, and the two men, who were stripped to the waist, began to belabor each other with such fury that long bleeding welts soon covered their faces, arms and bodies. Unable to bear the horrible sight, the girl ran away for help. When she came back with some of the neighbors they found the two men lying on the ground covered with blood and exhausted. The duel was declared a draw.

A Luscious Morsel.

A speaker at a literary dinner in New York said: "He who writes for posterity can only expect the approval of posterity. To his own generation his work will be as unpalatable as German carp—and you know the recipe for cooking German carp?" "No? Well, then, this is it: 'Catch a German carp in a stagnant and muddy stream. Clean it immediately and hang it in the sun three days to dry. After it is thoroughly dried nail it to a spruce board and cover it with a paste of salt and mud. Let it stand two days longer. Now bake it forty-eight hours. Remove the nails, scrape off the salt and mud paste carefully and then eat the board—never eat the carp.'"

Why the Head of a Lion.

A custom there is in most parts of Europe to adorn aqueducts, spouts and cisterns with lions' heads, which, though no illaudable ornament, is of an Egyptian genealogy, who practiced the same under a symbolical illusion. For because the sun being in Leo, the flood of Nilus was at the full and water became conveyed into every part, they made the spouts of their aqueducts through the head of a lion.—Sir Thomas Browne, "Vulgar Errors."

Eskimo Beliefs.

Eskimos believe that earth and air are filled with spirits. The one drags men into the earth by the feet, from which they never emerge, the other strikes men dead, leaving no mark. They often stop and listen and say that Tuna of the wind is passing by, imagining that the air is full of voices.

Did His Best.

The Clergyman—Do you mean to say that your wife goes to church every Sunday without you? Husband—Well, it isn't my fault. I can't persuade her to stay at home.—Stray Stories.

An Even Thing.

Mistress—Bridget, how long would you stay with me if I couldn't pay you? Maid—As long as you'd keep me. If I couldn't cook, mum.—Harper's Bazar.

Immortality.

How We Promote Efficient Service

In order to keep up the efficiency of its staff of workers to the highest pitch, this bank pays for the active membership of each of its clerks in the American Institute of Banking, an organization for the specialized training of bank men. Moreover, each of our clerks regularly attends the meetings of the Institute and faithfully carries out the educational work required.

This is only one feature of the constant efforts being made by this company to perfect its banking service.

THE DELUGE

The higher criticism of the Bible is rendering clear much that, heretofore, has not been understood and some of the supposed miracles are shown to be the result of natural causes. Many events or supposed events were not recorded for thousands or tens of thousands of years after the occurrence and the history of them was transmitted, verbally, from one generation to another till they were recorded in hieroglyphics and later by the translation of these into written characters.

As a natural consequence errors, additions, eliminations must have taken place and the modern version doubtless often differs from the original history, narrative, legend or myth; and fact and error doubtless would be mixed and confused in the transmission from one to another during the long ages through many different tongues and languages.

Even the modern translations of the scriptures differs in many places from that of a few centuries ago. This translation or version is only from the Hebrew, Greek and Latin into English.

If these discrepancies show so clearly in a few modern languages, how immensely more variations must of necessity have occurred during the long ages before there was a written language. And then the established fact must be taken into consideration that the early peoples were not civilized as we reckon civilization today and the vocabulary of their language was very meagre.

The geologist would describe the formation of the earth according to the theory of La Place—the molten globe—the vapory clouds that surrounded the earth, that later condensed and falling upon the earth constituted the primeval ocean which swept round and round in one continuous tide unbroken by island or continental shore—the cooling of the globe by the radiating heat into space till a crust or shell formed and later the folding of that crust as the globe contracted, the upfolds rising above the ocean, giving the first dry land and the down folds in which the ocean settled.

Eons of time passed as the continents were outlined beneath the water and finally were upheaved somewhat as they appear today. During all this time earthquakes were taking place and often parts of the earth were deluged by floods and large areas of the continents were covered by water at different times.

The Babylonian and Hebrew descriptions of the Noachian Deluge are remarkably vivid and thrilling. Every nation, in all parts of the earth, however low in mental development has a record, mythological it may appear, of a flood that, in the distant past, swept over and engulfed the dry land destroying peoples and land animals except a few preserved in a large vessel that floated them safely till the flood subsided and they went forth on the mountain top and later into the valleys and re-peopled the land.

Naturally the question arises, are there any geological evidences of a Flood—a Deluge? Science says "Yes." Are there evidences of more than one flood?

Geological investigations lead to the belief that floods have occurred in various parts of the earth and at various times.

"Where are the evidences of a modern flood most pronounced?" "In Asia, extending up to the Arctic Ocean."

Do these evidences tend to confirm the Biblical account of a flood, at that time, known as the Noachian Deluge? Science gives an emphatic confirmation to it.

"Was that a universal Flood, covering the whole earth?"

On this there is a diversity of opinion, some believing the Deluge was universal covering the entire dry land; others that it was local and covered only a part of the earth. The reasons for the latter belief are many, a part of which are the following. The primeval oceans resulted from the condensing and falling upon the Earth of the vapory envelope surrounding it.

In the earlier stages of the life history of our earth, the upfolds were low, in the latter they were more elevated and the higher mountains are of more recent elevation.

At the time of the Noachian Deluge there were high mountains on all the continents. The higher mountains of today are thirty thousand feet—more than five miles high and the deep ocean abysses extend down about the same. The average depth of the oceans is about two and a half miles, at the present time, and these cover only three-quarters of the globe.

The configuration of the Earth doubtless corresponded, then, very closely with that of today. If that was the fact, the falling water must have more than quadrupled the amount of water on the globe, to have covered the higher mountains. Was it possible for the surrounding air to have held so much water?

Science describes "impossible"—even if "The foundations of the deep were broken up" and the ocean floors elevated miles, unless there was a corresponding subsidence of the whole dry land which would be improbable—in fact a scientific improbability.

A Middle Aged Courtship

By ANDREW C. EWING

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

I was thirty-five years old and becoming tired of myself. The summer was coming on, and I went to the seashore, thinking that I might shake off ennui.

There were boys and girls at the hotel who excited my envy by the friendly way or the love-like way or any kind of a way they mingled.

There was a young woman apparently a year or two past thirty who, on my arrival at the hotel, seemed to regard me with something more than an ordinary interest. She was sitting on the porch as I entered the house and fixed her eyes upon me with a peculiar expression. I would have liked to believe—as I would have believed ten or fifteen years before—that I had made an instantaneous conquest, but that day was past. I simply inferred that there was something about me that reminded her of some one she knew or had known. I had no remembrance of ever having met her before.

The next morning I joined a group of ladies commonly called the knitting brigade sitting on the porch, and Miss Brown, the lady I have mentioned, being among the number I was introduced to her. Drawing a chair beside hers, I entered into conversation with her. She had the faculty of placing a man on unconventional terms with her at once, a valuable gift in a woman—that is, whenever she cares to exercise it—and I felt at once as free with her as if I had known her for years. The other ladies one by one withdrew and left Miss Brown and me by ourselves. We chatted till luncheon was announced and wondered what had become of the morning.

That was the beginning of it. There was nothing between us that could be called a flirtation. We had passed that age. We simply found companionship in each other and spent much of our time together, or, rather, all our time that we were not in our rooms. Miss Brown treated me not as a stranger, but as one she had known a long while. Every now and again she would indicate that there was or had been at some previous time something between us, but gave out nothing that I could get hold of—nothing that I could even question her about. So we drifted from day to day, I every now and again running up against this vague something she seemed to have on her mind.

And here I will remark that there are circumstances, episodes, happenings—call them what you like—that a man will forget, but a woman will remember so long as she lives. It is the large things that interest a man—his career, the interests of his country or those questions which pertain to the ongoing of the world. A woman will treasure a note, a button, anything connected with some scene or person near to her heart.

Finding Miss Brown companionable, it occurred to me that here might be a chance for me to get away from my lonely bachelorhood, to exchange club life for home life, to settle myself for the rest of my days. Whether I could do so was very easy to discover. All that was needed was for me to propose to Miss Brown.

But here was a difficulty. When I was a young man I could make love for fun, as I regarded it, by the hour. I knew a flirt by instinct, or thought I did, and there were no boundaries with such to my loveliness. But now in middle age to do the same thing, and to do it seriously, seemed impossible. In vain I attempted to say something "soft" to her. The words wouldn't come out. And how could I propose "in cold blood"? There must be some approach to a declaration of love coupled with an invitation to the woman to be my wife.

By dint of perseverance I managed to bring forth several hints as to what was coming. Then, having prepared the lady, the next thing was to make the proposition. I took her out for a long walk on the beach, hoping to gain inspiration from what the waves were saying. The waves seemed to say, "You old baldheaded coot, what sort of a fellow are you to tell a middle aged woman you love her?" I kept her on her feet for two hours vainly trying to screw up my courage to the required point. The worst of it was that I knew she was aware of what I was endeavoring to bring out and was getting tired of waiting for it—not only tired mentally, but bodily, especially in her legs. But I couldn't do it. I marched her back to the hotel.

I made several more unsuccessful attempts, but finally while we were sitting in a corner of the piazza by ourselves, with no one about, I made a final attempt and won. Then I listened breathless for a reply.

"You are not as glib at this sort of thing," she said, "as you were four teen years ago."

I started. "What do you mean," I asked.

"Don't you remember sitting in the moonlight at another hotel just before returning to college for your last year there proposing to a girl?"

"What name?"

"Madge Brown."

"The flirt of the White Mountains, so called?"

"Yes."

She unclasped a locket she wore on her neck and showed me some pained strands of hair.

"Whose is it?" I asked.

"Yours."

Booth and trios for organ, violin and piano by Mr. Arthur H. Ryder, Mr. R. E. Booth, and Mrs. E. W. English. The school has been fortunate in securing Mr. Arthur H. Ryder, until recently organist at Grace church, Providence, to preside at the organ at this service. All parents and friends of the school are invited.

—The idea of a Newton Centre historical pageant seems likely to be realized by another year. At a meeting held last week at the house of Mrs. Shedd, a plan was outlined by Prof. and Mrs. Burton was thoroughly discussed by representatives from the Improvement Society, Women's Club and Playground League and it was believed by all that the town would give the pageant enthusiastic backing. There is ample material of real historical interest in our local annals to make scenes of great interest and it is believed that by starting in the matter a year ahead that the work can be systematically planned and wide attention given to it in the public schools and local clubs. The playground will be a perfect place for such a performance. Anyone who can make suggestions as to the best local historical incidents for such a pageant will confer a favor by writing to Mrs. Alfred E. Burton, Webster place. Committees will be organized before the first of June.

—The idea of a Newton Centre historical pageant seems likely to be realized by another year. At a meeting held last week at the house of Mrs. Shedd, a plan was outlined by Prof. and Mrs. Burton was thoroughly discussed by representatives from the Improvement Society, Women's Club and Playground League and it was believed by all that the town would give the pageant enthusiastic backing. There is ample material of real historical interest in our local annals to make scenes of great interest and it is believed that by starting in the matter a year ahead that the work can be systematically planned and wide attention given to it in the public schools and local clubs. The playground will be a perfect place for such a performance. Anyone who can make suggestions as to the best local historical incidents for such a pageant will confer a favor by writing to Mrs. Alfred E. Burton, Webster place. Committees will be organized before the first of June.

—The anticipated trip to Jamaica, planned by Mr. and Mrs. S. B. H. Bravo of Devon road has been indefinitely postponed on account of an accident. While out riding last week, their horses became frightened and ran away, throwing the occupants out, slightly injuring Mrs. Bravo; but Mr. Bravo was less fortunate as he severely wrenched and sprained his ankle.

—The Easter Concert of the Bible School of the First Baptist Church will be held next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The program will include interesting innovations, and in addition to the exercises by the children of the several departments, there will be selections by the Junior Chorus, violin solos by Mr. R. E. Booth and trios for organ, violin and piano by Mr. Arthur H. Ryder, Mr. R. E. Booth, and Mrs. E. W. English. The school has been fortunate in securing Mr. Arthur H. Ryder, until recently organist at Grace church, Providence, to preside at the organ at this service. All parents and friends of the school are invited.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

St. Paul's Church, Newton Highlands, which on Advent Sunday celebrated the 2d anniversary of the inauguration of the first vested choir in Newton, on Easter day, passes a far more notable milestone, for the church building, now clear of debt, will then be consecrated. The Rt.
Rev. Wm. Lawrence, Bishop of the diocese will officiate and also administer the rite of confirmation and preach the Easter sermon. Thus the morning service is to be a three-fold celebration and an elaborate musical program has been arranged, the choir of 30 voices being augmented by a string quartet and special soloists.
Admission to the church will be by card only.

Old Time Trade Signs.
On nearly all street corners even in the largest metropolis of Europe may be found relics of the middle ages and of the earliest times. Take, for instance, the wooden image of a shoe, which every cobbler hangs out above his door. It goes back for its origin to the Rome of the pre-Christian era.
In the ruins of the lava buried cities of Herculaneum and Pompeii many shop signs of stone and terra cotta have been discovered, the forerunners of those that for centuries adorned the highways not only of Europe, but of the new world. Among them was the emblem of the shoemaker's trade,
a cupid carrying a dainty pair of women's shoes. But the Romans did not stop there. They used the image of a goat to indicate the dairies, that of a mule driving a mill to point out the bakers' shops and a bush of evergreen to direct the thirsty traveler to a taverna. This particular sign gave rise to the English proverb, "Good wine needs no bush."

The View From an Aeroplane.
It is a great surprise to the unin-tiated to see how uniform the surface of the earth appears when viewed from a great altitude. Although individual objects are hard to identify,
such things as rivers, lakes and railroads are easily recognized by their contour, direction or some slight individuality or characteristic which can readily be shown upon a map, especially if the maps are made or corrected by men who fly above the earth and get an accurate and literal bird's-eye view of its surface. Objects which seem to loom up with the greatest clearness to one standing on the surface of the earth appear very different and quite insignificant when viewed from above, while a patch of colored soil which would not be noticed at all by a person standing on the ground is a most valuable landmark to the air sailor. —Columbian Magazine.

Jumping Coccoons.
Many visitors to the southwestern states and Mexico have amused themselves by watching the queer motions of "jumping beans," the seed vessels of a plant, each of which contain the pupa of an insect whose spasmodic movements cause the bean to hop and roll about.

More remarkable are the "jumping coccoons" found in South Africa. The cocoon is formed by the mother insect and is very hard. The pupa when ready to emerge must cut its way out.
The front of its head has a sharp, chisel-like edge, and by driving this against the inside of the shell it gradually makes a hole. The violent motions of the pupa within cause the cocoon to leap so that one has been seen to spring out of a small glass tumbler.
—St. Louis Republic.

Saved Storage Charges.
Young men with meager salaries evolve financial makeshifts abhorrent to the moral and physical sensibilities of their opulent elders. Said one young sprig of boarding house gentility to another who expected to seek new quarters upon his return from a two months' trip on the road:

"What are you going to do with all this personal truck that is cluttering up your room? It will cost you anyhow a dollar a month for storage."
"Not the way I am working things,"
said the man who was going away.
"I have purposely refrained from paying board for four weeks, and the landlady will hold my stuff. Of course I shall square up when I come back and get it again, and in the meantime she will give it free storage." —New York Times.

Lawyers on a Strike.
Over 300 lawyers ago one of the most unusual strikes ever recorded took place in Paris, when all the lawyers walked out, so to speak. A law or ordnance was issued and promulgated by the French king Henry III.
ordering all lawyers to sign their pleadings and to state the amount they were charging their clients for their services. This was done so that the lawyers could be properly and sufficiently taxed on their income.
The lawyers objected, and the strike,
preceding an entire stay of judicial proceedings, followed. Peace was restored by the nonenforcement of the ordinance, though it was not repealed.

The Better Job.
The Inquisitive Guest—I suppose,
now, you would like to get a job in a restaurant patronized by millionaires where you'd get big tips. The Obscure Waiter—No, sir. I'd rather have a job in a restaurant where fourflushers on $12 a week salaries bring the girls they are trying to make a bit with. —Toledo Blade.

Work and Worry.
"Worry wears out more people than work does," said the ready made philosopher.
"Of course it does," replied Mr.
Growcher, "for the simple reason that so many of us would rather put in our time worrying about work than doing it." —Washington Star.

Violent Language.
First Deaf Mute—So when he heard
the report he got furious about it.
Second Deaf Mute—Furious? Why, he was so mad that the words he used almost blistered his fingers. —Exchange.

Curious.
Mayme—Sure I used to go with him.
Did you tell him I was going to be married? Gracye—I sure did. Mayme
—Did he ask how soon? Gracye—No;
he asked how long. —Toledo Blade.

My liberty leaves off where the rights of another begin.—Victor Hugo.

OLD RESIDENT DEAD

Mr. James Watson Hill, for fifty years a resident of Newton Centre, died at his home on Pelham street,
last Saturday at the age of 90 years from an attack of apoplexy, two days previous.

Mr. Hill was born at Norridgewock, Me., coming to Boston just after his marriage. Residing there for four years, he then removed to Newton Centre, where he entered the coal business, which he continued until the time of his death. He was first associated with the firm of Trowbridge and Hill, and later the Warren and Hill Company. He has also been in business at Brookline and Newton Upper Falls.

Mr. Hill has been a member of the Masons since 1863 and was one of the oldest members of Dalhousie Lodge. He was also a member of Trinity Church.

He married Miss Helen Jewett at Norridgewock and she has been dead for some years. He is survived by two daughters, Miss Caroline Hill of Newton Centre and Mrs. C. W. Turner (Kate Hill) of Nashville, Tenn.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at Trinity Church,
the rector, Rev. Edward T. Sullivan, officiating, and the remains were cremated at Mt. Auburn.

DR. ATWELL BURIED

At Grace Episcopal church Monday morning funeral services were held over the remains of Rev. Dr. Benjamin W. Atwell, who died last Friday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. E. Dearborn, 90 Washington street. The services were attended by a large gathering of laymen and were conducted by Rev. Laurens Mac-Lure, rector of Grace church, assisted by Rev. Samuel J. Babcock, Archdeacon of Boston and Rev. John Gragson of Cambridge.

The full choir, under the direction of W. G. Hambleton, rendered "The Laborer's Task is Over," and "Resurrection Morning." The remains were taken to Springfield for interment, the committal services being conducted by Rev. William Bennett.

The honorary bearers were Rev.
Simon P. Blunt of Dorchester, Rev.
Preston Everts of Cambridge, Rev.
Francis B. White of Lower Falls,
Rev. Louis S. De Corinla, Rev. Robert
Murray and Rev. Dr. Hague of Worcester. Many beautiful floral remembrances were received, including pieces from former parishioners of the minister in Lynn, Camden, Me., and Pottsville, Penn.

For Wedding and Anniversary Gifts, a pair of Andirons, Fire Set and Spark Guards, as shown by McKenney
& Waterbury Co., No. 181 Franklin St., corner Congress, make a lasting remembrance. The largest line of these goods to be found in the country in their show rooms.

THEATRES

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.—
After an interval of five years, "Romeo and Juliet" is to be given next week at the Castle Square. It will be given in response to an emphatic demand, and it will offer the best of opportunities both to actors and producers. "Romeo and Juliet" will have an elaborate scenic production, and in beauty of stage settings and costumes it will appeal both to the eye and the mind of the audience. As for the acting, Mr. Craig will be seen in the role of Romeo, which he has acted on many occasions with great success, and Mary Young will bring her personal beauty and artistic skill to the charming character of Juliet.

LODGES

The Ladies' Newton Home Circle
held a very successful whist party
Friday evening in Norumbega Hall, Auburndale, 150 being present. The hall was tastefully decorated with a variety of flowers, kindly loaned to the circle by a local florist. The committee in charge of the affair were Mrs. Fred W. Jones, chairman; Mrs.
William Brown, Mrs. E. D. Mansfield,
Mrs. George M. Flske, Mrs. W. F.
Hadlock, Mrs. H. R. Glasier. Following the whist refreshments were served.

A very enjoyable costume party,
under the auspices of Tennyson Rebekah Lodge, No. 119, was held last Tuesday evening in Odd Fellows Hall, West Newton. The members, attired in costumes representing many nationalities and ages, added greatly to the success of the evening. During intermission refreshments were served. The affair was under the direction of Mrs. Mary E. Manter, P. N. G.

Newton Lodge, No. 92, I. O. O. F.,

RECITAL

The Young Musician's Class, composed of pupils of Miss Helen Douglas, gave a very enjoyable recital at her studio, No. 20 Foster street, Newtonville, on Saturday evening. There were twenty-nine numbers on the program, which were admirably presented by the pupils, and were received with much enthusiasm by the large gathering of friends numbering eighty, which assembled to hear them. They were assisted by Mrs. William Otis Hunt, who gave a pleasing recitation, with violin accompaniment by Mrs. Irving O. Palmer.

Mrs. Palmer also sang with excellent effect several solos, accompanied on the violin. The program included, Mrs. C. A. Hurst, Gladys Somes, Perry Allen, Harold Flynn, Wallace Richmond, Donald Leonard, Josephine Hurst, Read Colgan, Elizabeth Bridges, Raymond Leonard, Wm. O. Hunt, Jr., Hazel Somes, Elizabeth Thurgood, Richard Leonard, Mrs. William Otis Hunt, Gertrude Barry, Frances Rimbach, Florence Stephens, Evelyn Burnham, Marjorie Palmer, Veronica Barry, Gladys Wilson, Scott Hurst, Hazel Cunningham, Mary Barry, Carleton Smith, Mrs. Irving O. Palmer.

POLICE NOTES

In the Police Court yesterday morning before Associate Justice Bacon, Miss Constance Smythe, employed as a waitress at the Nye Park Inn, Grove street, Auburndale, was sentenced to two months at Sherborne on the charge of larceny of goods amounting to $125. The police also arrested Charles A. Johnson, alias Charles A. Bruce, alias Charles A. Jordan, an attendant at the Massachusetts Insane Hospital at Northampton, on the charge of being an accessory before the fact, and a sentence of three months at the House of Correction was imposed by the court.

The alleged larceny was committed last Tuesday, when the defendant was seen in the act of breaking into a trunk by another employee of the house and placing the goods into her trunk. E. A. Robinson, the proprietor of the Inn, was told of the affair and a search warrant was sworn out, after the guests at the house had notified him of their loss.

Inspectors Fletcher and O'Halloran took the young woman into custody and in looking over her effects discovered several letters written by Johnson, informing her of the best way of doing the deed. A warrant, charging him with being an accessory before the fact was sworn out and Inspector Fletcher arrested him at Northampton.

Among the articles found in the woman's possession were several pieces of linen, owned by Mr. Robinson, lady's coat, sweater and other articles, which were taken from the trunks of the guests in the store room.

We cordially invite you as customer or friend to inspect our New Woolens and Silks for Spring and Summer Wear, styles designed and fitted under the personal supervision of Mr. Wm. J. Brodil.

EDITORIAL

For President,
WILLIAM H. TAFT

The following extracts from a recent editorial in the Boston Transcript should be carefully considered by our school authorities.
"One of the most recent acts in Superintendent Brooks's Boston career will be accepted by many thoughtful citizens as one of the most creditable deeds marking his term of service. We refer to his admission that the teaching of arithmetic is one of the weak points in our public school system, and his supplementary suggestion—adopted by the School Committee—that Professor of Detroit be summoned to test the classes and look into the methods of instruction. Professor Curtis has so standardized results that educators as a body seem prepared to admit that he can determine the speed and accuracy with which results should be reached and the elements of weakness, if any, that delay the success of processes. If the event shall justify these claims, even in a measure,
the money that may be paid the expert will be wisely expended.
We have encountered the elementary schools with studies that belong to special schools, and have committed the pupils to inadequacy and confusion instead of training them in the essential things that every boy or girl needs to know. Perhaps Professor Curtis will advise us to lop off much of the ornamental and get back to the practical. Somebody needs to do so—frequently."

One fact should not be overlooked in the general sympathy given to the two men who were hurt last Saturday by being thrown from an automobile on Commonwealth avenue, and that is, that the automobile must have been moving at a very high rate of speed, to throw the men over thirty feet when it struck. Besides endangering the lives of these men, these men were a source of danger to every person who might have had occasion to use Commonwealth avenue at the same time. A high rate of speed, particularly at cross streets, should not be allowed and indeed is prohibited by a law which is seemingly not enforced in this city. The action of the city government, therefore, in calling a public hearing next week, on the matter of establishing a speed limit on Commonwealth avenue is to be highly commended. A reasonable speed limit of possibly 25 miles an hour, with an officer on a motor cycle to obtain evidence, and some cooperation from our police court, would be welcomed by every decent citizen of Newton.

Mayor Hatfield has appointed an admirable Playground Commission.
Mr. Brewer, the chairman, is head of the Newton Centre Playground and Social Service League and largely responsible for the excellent results obtained on the Newton Centre playground during the past few years thru supervised play. Mr. Albert P.
Carter has always been interested in the boy problem. Mr. Johnson was one of the prime movers in obtaining the new playground at Newton Hilllands. Mr. Garcelon, himself a prominent athlete during his college days, is still in close touch with organized athletics at Harvard and Mrs.
Wilkins has been one of the leaders in the work among the girls of the city. The supervision of our playgrounds is surely in competent hands.

The increase of pay given the captains and lieutenants of the fire department tardily recognizes the responsibilities which go with the rank and title.

Saturday, April 6

The widening of Margin street and the improvement to the approach to the West Newton railroad station, are advocated by some of the most substantial residents of the city, and the arguments in favor are sound and reasonable. The city government has improved the approach to the Auburndale station by a contribution towards the purchase of Nye Park, and at the Newton Centre station by a contribution towards Cousens Triangle, so that there are ample precedents for the proposed improvement on Margin street.

In granting the petition of the police officers for one day off in every fifteen, the board of aldermen has granted the half loaf, where the real desire was for an increase in pay.
The additional time given the men will not aid in meeting the family expenses, and it would seem as if the expense of the two additional men required to give this vacation, would have gone a long way towards granting all the men a salary of $1200 per year.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

Some of the important matters of legislation are beginning to come to the surface and roll calls in both branches are rather frequent.

Woman's suffrage was beaten by an adverse vote of 86 to 106. Mr.
Ellis and Mr. White voting with the majority and Mr. Bothfeld not recorded. As an amendment to the constitution requires a two-thirds vote possibly the leaders in this movement will be forced to consider the method advocated in this column some weeks ago. Begin with a bill to allow municipal suffrage for women, which only requires a majority vote and when the good results of that legislation are apparent, as they certainly will be, then the constitutional amendment can be properly presented. It is a waste of time and energy to continue the present tactics of the woman's suffrage leaders.

All three of our representatives were against the bill for taxation of railroad corporations and telephone companies and the bill to require sittings of the Superior Court at North Adams, both of which passed the House.

Mr. Ellis has been appointed a member of the sub-committee of the Railroad Committee, to draft a general bill under which the Grand Trunk Railroad will be allowed to enter Boston. Mr. Ellis is also on a sub-committee to consider the various electrification bills which have been presented.

Mr. Bothfeld has introduced the resolutions mentioned here last week which will authorize an investigation of the water rights on the Charles River and from which favorable legislation to dredge the river may be expected next year.

The so-called Ellis Milk Bill has been given an adverse report, and a favorable report given the bill to create a state board of milk. The milk question will never get out of the legislature unless the consumers interested get busy and demand the right legislation. With the producers and the milk contractors, both trying to get all they can out of this necessity of life, the future will surely bring higher and higher prices and slipshod methods of production and handling.

A bill has gone thru both branches giving veterans of the Spanish War
the advantage of an additional five per cent on any civil service examination they may take in the future.

The bill for appointment of dental nurses was defeated in the House.
Mr. Bothfeld spoke in favor, saying he had found as a member of the School Committee in his city that hundreds of school children are suffering with teeth which are not properly cared for, but the school nurses are not permitted by the law to give them any relief. He believed the bill would do much to improve the health of the school children.

MR. YOUNG DEAD

Mr. Charles S. Young, for forty years prominent in the oil trade of Boston, died at his home at Newton Centre, Wednesday night from paralysis. He was a native of Jersey City, N. J., and was 66 years of age. As a boy, Mr. Young lived in Roxbury, afterwards when a young man removing to Newton Centre, where he has since resided. He first entered the employ of Fowle & Carroll, the old-time shipping merchants, making one voyage to Buenos Ayres as supercargo.

He was afterwards with the Mt.
Washington Glass Works and in 1872 became connected with the firm of J. R. Bartlett & Co., oil merchants, and in 1875 the firm of Masury, Young & Company was formed, the business having been founded by Addison C. Masury in 1857. On the incorporation of the business in 1907,
Mr. Young became the president of the Masury-Young Company, which position he has held up to the present time. He was also a director and former treasurer of the Woodley Soap Mfg. Company, Roxbury, and the India Alkali Works.

He was a member of the Boston
Chamber of Commerce, the Appalachian Club, and the N. E. Botanical Club. Being very much interested in flowers, especially orchids, he wrote a book on this subject a few years ago.

He was a constant attendant and member of the First Baptist Church at Newton Centre, and was very much interested in all benevolent work to which he was always a free contributor. He is survived by a widow, one son, Mr. Allen Jewett Young, and two daughters, Misses Anna M. and Rhoda Young. Funeral services will be held from his late residence, 37 Crescent avenue, Newton Centre tomorrow at two P. M.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The last entertainment of the season at the Association on Thursday evening, April 18th, will be one of the best. It will be given by teachers and pupils of the New England Conservatory of Music. Those who take part are F. Morse Wemple, baritone; Miss Eva Johnson, pianist;
Mrs. Victoria Sordani-Gilbert, soprano; Mr. Samuel A. Blackburn, violinist; Mr. Hugh Towne, reader, and Mr. Herbert Jenny, accompanist (pianoforte). The Association is fortunate in securing Mr. F. Morse Wemple who has been a teacher at the Conservatory for nine years and has studied in Paris and America with some of the greatest teachers. The pupils who take part are among the best at the Conservatory and have already achieved success in concert work.

The Board of Directors voted to issue a summer membership ticket at very reasonable rates. This will afford ample opportunity for men and boys of the city to use the tennis courts and recreation field. For particulars apply at the office.

CITY HALL

The civil service examination for janitors, engineers and foremen assigned for Friday, April 12, has been postponed until Wednesday, April 17.

WANTED

A young man, 18 to 20, to learn the real estate business. Apply to John T. Burns, 383 Centre street,
Newton.

MR. DAVIS DEAD

Mr. Walter Davenport Davis, a native of Gardiner, Me., and a well known resident of Newtonville, died at the Newton Hospital last Friday.

A serious operation was successfully performed on the previous day and his friends were encouraged to hope for his speedy recovery, but he passed away suddenly on Friday afternoon. His gentle manner and kindly disposition had won for him many friends who sincerely mourn his loss.
He is survived by a widow.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Richard T. Loring at his home in Omar terrace on Sunday afternoon, and on Monday his remains were taken to Oak Grove Cemetery, Gardiner, Me., for burial, where the committal service of the Episcopal church was read.

Upper Falls

—Mr. Lewis Dillman of Oak street has moved to Newtonville.

—Mr. William Day and family of Beverly have rented a house on Chilton place.

—The alarm from box 622 yesterday afternoon was for a grass fire in Petee's woods.

—Mrs. Wilbur Halliday of Chilton place has returned from a four weeks' stay at Pawtucket, R. I.

—Mr. David Mathews of Abbot street is seriously ill with pneumonia
at the Newton Hospital.

—Mr. Wilbur Halliday of Chilton place was called to Pawtucket, R. I., this week on account of the death of his mother.

—The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. Church met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs.
L. P. Everett of High street. A very interesting program was arranged by Mrs. O. E. Nutter, the subject being "Christ the only Light."

—Miss Nellie G. Leonard passed away Thursday morning at her home on Chestnut street, after two weeks' illness with pneumonia. Miss Leonard was 19 years of age and was a member of the senior class at the Technical High School. She was of a joyful, kindly nature and will be greatly missed by her young friends.
Funeral services will be held from St. Mary's Church Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

—On Monday evening the Young Ladies' Aid Society of the First Methodist Episcopal Church held their annual banquet and election of officers at the home of Miss Elsie Dyson of Pennsylvania avenue. The dining-room was tastefully decorated and the center place was a log around which were placed tulips, daffodils, chickens and rabbits to represent spring. Covers were laid for twenty.

After the banquet Mrs. Thomas E.
Lees, president of the society, in behalf of the members, presented Miss Elsie Dyson and Miss Mary Wilde with a cut glass fern dish and plateau mirror in honor of their coming marriage. At the business meeting it was voted to withdraw from the Ladies' Aid Society and form under a new head. The newly elected officers are Miss Mary Wilde, president; Mrs. Moubay Truax, vice-president; Mrs. Frederick Cobb, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. S. Cutler, work committee. The committee in charge of the banquet were Mrs.
Thomas E. Lees, Mrs. S. Cutler, Mrs.
Moubay Truax, and Mrs. Samuel Fisher.

S. E. K. DANCE

The last in the series of successful dancing parties by the S. E. K. Society which have been so popular during the winter, was held Saturday evening in Norumbega Hall, Auburndale, about 50 couples being in attendance. The hall was attractively decorated for the occasion and the handsome and elaborate costumes of the ladies added much to the brilliancy of the scene. The younger society set of Auburndale was well represented. Music was furnished by Lutz' Orchestra of Jamaica Plain and at the close of the evening, refreshments were served. The committee in charge were Miss Dorothy Gore, Miss Eleanor Eaton and Miss Esther
Day. The matrons were Mrs. Choate, Mrs. Eaton and Mrs. Dame.

PI ETA SHOW

The annual show of the Pi Eta Club of Harvard University will be given next Tuesday evening at Players' Hall, West Newton. The original comedy in two acts, entitled "The Imposter," will be the attraction and is said to have catchy music and amusing situations. Many prominent Newton ladies are the patronesses and the affair promises to be a great success socially.

Following the usual practice of the Players, no seats are reserved.

Her Recommendation.

A woman prominent as a social worker was in the city to engage a new girl the other day. She visited an employment agency which makes a specialty of finding places for country housemaids and was much pleased with one from the country.

"Why did you leave your last place?"
asked the woman.

"I didn't have no last place," answered the girl. "Because I ain't had no last place to leave, and I'm still working at it, being for myself that I've been working, and I'm sure I'm a good servant, and I can recommend myself to you, ma'am."—Exchange.

Melodramatic.

A dramatist was condemning two melodramas that had had an unbrersuccess among the less cultivated portion of the public.

"The first," said the dramatist in his epigrammatic way, "was all blood and thunder, and the other was all thud and blunder."

Proof Positive.

Mrs. De Prety-Horror! That woman who just passed is a young man in disguise! Husband—Well, well! How do you know? Mrs. De Prety—She looked at my face instead of my dress.

SUDDEN DEATH

The many friends of Miss Carrie I.
Soule were shocked to learn of her sudden death which occurred early Monday morning at her home on Lexington street. Miss Soule, who had been in poor health since the death of her aunt, Mrs. Enoch Soule, two weeks ago, had been staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George E.
Keyes on Rowe street. Her health had apparently been so much improved that Sunday she was able to accompany Mr. Keyes' family on an automobile trip. On their return she insisted on going back to her home on Lexington street, although her friends were anxious to have her remain longer with them. Monday morning she was found by her friends seated in a chair fully dressed, just as they had left her the night before.
Miss Soule had been a resident of Auburndale for more than twenty years and will be sadly missed by a large circle of friends.
She was born in Cumberland, Me., and was 53 years of age. The body was taken to Yarmouth, Me., on Wednesday, where funeral services were held in the Baptist Church. The burial was in the family lot in that town.

CAMP UTOPIA

Boyhood days must pass away.
Years of work must follow play.
But in the years that are to be
Our hearts, Utopia, will turn to thee.

Chorus:
Utopia, Utopia, thy sons in legion sing,
Utopia, Utopia, long shall thy praises
ring.
At thy fair name our hearts shall beat,
Utopia, that knowest not defeat.

See, now beneath thy banner old,
Thy sons are forming true and bold,
And come what may on land or sea,
Our hearts, Utopia, will turn to thee.
And when we face life's bitter fight,
And when around us is the night,
Then thy fair banner ever bright,
And thou, Utopia, shalt be our light.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Miss Grace M. Burr, Editor.

It was voted by the Executive Board of the Massachusetts State Federation at its meeting last week to accept the invitation of the Wellington Club of Templeton to hold the annual meeting of the Federation in that town during the first week of June. The exact dates are to be decided later. It seems to be an ideal place in which to hold the meeting, the beautiful Inn providing such comfortable quarters and the country is always at its best at that season of the year before the spring freshness is gone. There could be no better time for a trip into the country, so it is hoped that many will decide to attend. This annual meeting is becoming more and more of an occasion each year. There is much more to be gained from it than the mere information submitted in the reports. The travelling together, the living for a day or two under the same roof and the pleasant acquaintances made are well worth the expenditure of time and money, to say nothing of the benefit derived from a few days away from home amidst new people and new surroundings. This convention comes two weeks before the party starts for the San Francisco Biennial, so it ought to accommodate those who wish to go to both. May the April showers hasten to bring the May flowers, that perfect days may greet a large company at Templeton in June.

Local Announcements

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. will meet with Mrs. Arthur Burnham of Waban on Monday afternoon, April 8, at 2.30.

The Monday Club omits its meeting on the 8th and instead makes a trip to the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock when it will inspect the Greek exhibits under the direction of the docent.

"An Afternoon with Jane Austin," including dialogues and music has been arranged by a group of members of the Waban Woman's Club for Monday afternoon, April 8, in Waban Hall.

The Parliamentary Law Club will hold its annual meeting on Tuesday morning, April 9, at 10.15, at the home of Mrs. W. D. Tripp of Boyd street.

Mrs. William A. Knowlton will entertain the Auburndale Review Club on Tuesday morning, April 9.

Rev. Harry Lutz will speak before the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning on "Life in Literature." Guests may be invited.

On Monday, April 15th, at 2.30 P. M., a bridge and whist will be held at the Allen School on Waltham street, West Newton, under the auspices of the West Newton Women's Educational Club. The whist is being given under the direction of the educational department, for the benefit of the scholarship fund, which the club desires to establish. All who are interested are invited to attend.

The Newton Centre Woman's Club will observe its Twenty-Fifth Anniversary in connection with its annual meeting on Thursday, April 11, at the Brae Burn Club. There will be a luncheon and the charter members of the club are invited as special guests on this occasion.

Local Happenings

At the last meeting of the Pierian Club held at the home of Mrs. Lizzie T. Billings, Mrs. Charles Mills gave a most interesting paper upon "Ralph Waldo Emerson." The paper was exceedingly well written and included many quotations from his essays and poems and was much enjoyed by all who heard it. The usual social hour with refreshments closed a fine afternoon. The next meeting will be held on the 10th.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands held its regular meeting with Mrs. Moore of Chester street on April 1st. After the reports and the monthly business session Miss Cushing gave a paper on "What Greece has done for Civilization." This was followed by quotations illustrating Greek wit read by different members of the club.

Mrs. William T. Logan of Forest street, Newton Highlands, was the hostess for this week's meeting of the C. L. S. C. The Browning subjects for the afternoon were "Rabbi Ben Ezra," "Prospice," and "Prelude to La Salsala."

On Monday afternoon the Mothers' Club had a rare treat in the address by Mrs. Florence Kelley of the National Consumers' League on "Child Labor." Massachusetts, she said, began to right things so early that at the present time it is in something of the position of the bare of the familiar tale, for other states have been moving ahead faster in the matter of child labor regulations than she has, until at the present time ten states have better laws. While Massachusetts has the 54-hour week, ten others have the 8-hour day. South of Baltimore legislation is of an illusory nature. With laws restricting the day in North Carolina, there is also an exception made for "apprentices." As a result it was discovered that in fifty mills of the state during the busy season these young children were working nights. The laws of Louisiana are an oasis in the desert of southern legislation. They are largely the result of the energy of one woman, a member of the New Era Club. The state is not a large manufacturing state, but they have gone ahead and forestalled the possibility of child labor. The Northwestern states have the tradition that their children don't work.

Of the kinds of work done by children under proper age to work are included almost every kind of thing sold to women, everything to wear, baby clothes in particular, the food we eat and the things with which we decorate our houses. If women really cared, she said, it would not be true. It is possible to know what we set out to know. We are ready to know things that are far away, but are not so ready to know of things close at hand. In speaking of the Federal Children's Bureau bill she said it is hoped to get it through this year, but it has taken six years to accomplish it. If the women's organizations had really cared, we might have had it at work three years ago.

Mrs. Kelley went on to describe various instances of child labor going on in New York city today and they were heartrending. From what she told there seems to be no relation between the price of an article and tenement house work, so that if one is buying an expensive article she is not assured by that fact that it has not been made in a tenement house. The only efficient remedy suggested is a searching legislation backed up with public opinion. Illinois has redeemed itself from the curse, but Massachusetts has gone to sleep in the matter of hours. She stated that it is impossible to get an 8-hour law in the South so long as Massachusetts does not have it. She was listened to with close attention and everyone who heard her felt that something must be done to arouse the slumbers.

A social hour followed when the members and guests had opportunity to meet and talk with Mrs. Kelley. On Tuesday the Newtonville Woman's Guild had a most enjoyable afternoon with Dickens. Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden was in charge. Scenes were presented from the following novels: Oliver Twist, David Copperfield, Christmas Carol, Nicholas Nickleby, and Old Curiosity Shop. In which a large number of the members and children had part. The costumes were very good indeed and there was a large and most appreciative audience. Mrs. Irving Palmer added to the pleasure of the afternoon by her songs.

The Social Science Club held its regular business meeting on Wednesday morning. The reports from the various committees were heard with interest. Mrs. F. H. Tucker reported the Food Sanitation Conference held last week at the Dorchester Woman's Club House and spoke of work along Conservation lines. Mrs. F. B. Hornbrooke spoke regarding legislation pertaining to the protection of birds and Mrs. L. S. Drake, chairman of the Education committee of the Newton Federation, of the necessity of instruction in sex hygiene.

State Federation Conferences.

The closing conferences of the season with the exception of one or two local ones were held last week. One by the Music department at Fitchburg, a local Public Health at Woburn on Friday and a Food Sanitation at Dorchester also on Friday. That these conferences are meeting the approval of the club women is evident by the large attendance, which has been universal during the year.

Music Department

By invitation of the Fitchburg Woman's Club, the music committee of the State Federation held a local conference in Wallace Hall, Fitchburg, on Wednesday of last week. About three hundred attended, including members of the club and guests of neighboring towns and cities. The program was divided into two parts; the subject of the first was "Folk Music." The second part was a program of music furnished by members of the Fitchburg Club, each number founded on a folk-song, or influenced by it.

The president, Dr. Cordelia Whittier, welcomed the guests and presented the chairman of the State music committee, Mrs. Edward R. Newton of Somerville, who outlined the course of study for club use, as planned by this committee, and asked for the interest and support in bringing this outline to the attention of their members. Mrs. Newton said the replies to the circular letter sent out by this committee in January showed great interest in the musical part of their work, and many valuable suggestions were given of ways of developing music to good advantage in the programs. In no instance had any reply shown where a club had catered to the conception of the un-musically trained person, and so far as known no club has undertaken the study of musical discrimination and appreciation—and that she considered the very foundation of musical intelligence.

She showed why the subject of folk-music is appropriate for the development of such an appreciation. By way of illustration, folk songs of different countries were sung by Mrs. Frank Morrill, a member of the music committee. Mrs. Morrill's interpretation of these songs was finished and delightful, and added much to the interest of the talk. Mrs. Bennett, chairman of music in the hostess club, had arranged the second part of the program. This included a piano duet, a group of Indian songs, piano solos and two songs by a ladies' quartet. Tea and a social hour followed.

State Federation

By invitation of the Woburn Woman's Club the public health department held a local conference in Lyceum Hall Friday afternoon. The meeting was opened by Mrs. Alice B. Winn, president of the hostess club, and after selections by the Schubert Trio, Mrs. Lila Folger, chairman of the department, was presented. Dr. Evangeline W. Young spoke upon "Sex Hygiene." She said the expression stands for only a small part of the subject and when rightly understood it involves a great vital principle. Serious consideration is being given it and as a result there is beginning to be a great awakening; the Church, the State and individuals are taking a hand towards its solution. Dr. Young stated that the age of consent in Massachusetts is sixteen years. Thirty years ago it was only ten. It should be extended to at least eighteen, and twenty-one would be better. The girl's property is protected until she is twenty-one, but her life only until sixteen, which would leave it to be inferred that the State considers her property of more value. With so many immigrant girls there is a fearful problem. She explained in detail some of the reasons for the movement to secure women physicians among the medical inspectors of Boston, and suggested that it is a matter which mothers should consider seriously. California has taken a great step in advance in being the first to make certain venereal diseases reportable. The State of Washington has already passed a radical marriage act. The Church should teach the dignity and beauty of the marriage relation and emphasize it in the training of ministers in the divinity schools. The minimum wage bill now before the Legislature has a strong bearing on this subject, for so many self-supporting girls receive so little recompense for their labors that they are easily lured to immorality through the money held out to them. There are two methods of treating this problem, one the repressive, that is, by passing laws and enforcing them; but a far better way is the constructive, through educational work, through the preventing of unit and the encouraging of fit marriages. A great responsibility rests upon the parents of the present generation of children. So long as boys see women treated as inferiors, just so long will they so regard them as they become men. The boy should be taught to honor not only his mother and sister, but every woman and every girl. Example is a potent factor, but no one should overlook the dangers lurking in many of the present-day books and songs. The slurs on the home and the married relation in humorous papers was called to attention. Young people are not sexually safeguarded merely by good influence, they must have instruction. The mother, the friend or the teacher is the one to give it. But the solution of the social evil must come from setting aside false traditions and establishing one moral law for men and women.

Dr. Charles E. Simpson of Lowell told of the work of medical inspection in factories. In 1907 the State was divided into fourteen districts, and physicians skilled in hygiene and sanitation were appointed to inspect the factories and to have supervision of the health of the employees in the factories. All minor workers are spoken to personally, and if upon inspection any are found to be suffering from any physical infirmity, their parents are communicated with that they may have proper treatment from the family physician. These inspectors also look into conditions of light, air, cleanliness, the dangers of the particular industry, and make suggestions to employers when conditions can be improved. Dr. Simpson expects to see great strides in the matter of cleanliness. A report concerning the travelling health library stated that it has been engaged by seven towns and will be in circulation up to August 15 as now engaged.

Food Sanitation Department

By invitation of the Dorchester Woman's Club the Food Sanitation department held a conference in the Club house at Dorchester on Friday, March 29th. The meeting was opened by Mrs. Ella C. R. Whiton, president of the hostess club, who presented Mrs. Alice A. Clarke, chairman of the department. The first speaker, W. H. Meier, treated "Bacteria in Cooked Foods." He showed many illustrations including the harmless form, which makes butter sweeter and cheese richer, as well as those, which cause putrefaction and which upon entering the human system carry with them ptomaine and other poisons.

Dr. C. F. Hodge of Clark University presented a practical plan for the extermination of the house fly by trapping them at their breeding places. After showing graphically that they are disease carriers and the consequent necessity of their extinction, he exhibited a trap, which may be obtained of any dealer, which, he declared, had made the use of screens in his own home needless.

The Milk Problem from Three Points of View was the other subject considered. Albert Lombard, speaking for the producer, said that the efforts of the State Board of Health toward cleanliness in producing milk should be heartily indorsed by every milk producer, but the consumer should realize the extra cost necessary for new sanitary equipment, and there should be a sentiment created, whereby the public would be willing to pay a price that would compensate the farmer. He advocated better pay for better milk, instead of better inspection. Charles F. Whiting for the Dealer believed in thorough inspection, supplemented by pasteurization as a safeguard. The fact that milk is brought from a long distance does not make it less good with the modern facilities for transportation, and he stated that just as much certified milk could be produced as the consumer is willing to pay for. Rev. W. B. Geoghegan spoke most interestingly for the Consumer, giving an account of a "plant" which he established in New Bedford. Under his personal supervision pure milk was produced and was sold at ten cents a quart. Through his efforts infant mortality in New Bedford has been decreased. From his small beginnings other and larger sanitary establishments have grown and there has been a demand for the milk, even though agencies have taken the position that there would not be. Discussion followed in which many, including Mrs. Mulligan, president of the State Federation, took part. A social hour over the tea cups closed a most interesting and valuable conference.

LASELL NOTES

The annual pupils' musical rehearsal was given by the students of Lasell Seminary in Auburndale Wednesday evening.

An attractive program consisting of both vocal and instrumental music was given by the young ladies. A large number of friends and relatives of the students were present. The program consisted of pianoforte selections by Annie F. Merrill, Georgina Fankbender, Grace Lindsay, Clara Parker, Ruth G. Vollrath, Annie May Armstrong, Pauline M. Cook, Mary C. Goodwillie and Rosalthe Williams, vocal selections by Marion Joslin, Mary L. Cummings, Florence Myers, Frances Allen, Winifred Whittlesey, Nora Cox, violin selection by Miss Dorothy Payne.

The Lasell Dramatic Club presented "Pygmalion and Galatea," a mythological comedy in three acts, before a large gathering in the gymnasium of the school Monday evening. As Pygmalion, Jeannie McKay won much applause for her clever acting and she was ably supported by May Joseph as Galatea. The play was given under the direction of Mrs. Blanche C. Martin. In the cast were Jeannie McKay, Ruth Stokes, Josephine Clapp, Edna Mathias, Isabella Collins, May Joseph, Etta MacMillan, Ethel McKelg and Myrtle Ellis. The manager of the performance was Clara Trowbridge and the violinist was Mary Cummings. The ushers were Mildred Westervelt, Mary Goodwillie, Florence Myers, Florence Wallace and Marion MacArthur.

An orator is credited with a peroration in which he spoke of "all ranks, from the queen sitting on her throne to the cottager sitting on his cottage." —The Christian Advocate.

WIDENING OF MARGIN STREET

Strongly Advocated by Prominent Citizens of West Newton

West Newton had a hundred representative men present Monday evening at the meeting of the board of aldermen to advocate the widening of Margin and Chestnut streets in connection with the building of the new Congregational Church at that point. On the wall was a large plan showing the proposed improvement and nearby was an architect's sketch showing the completed work.

Mr. James Richard Carter conducted the case for the petitioners and said that he had been interested in this matter ever since the depression of the tracks in 1885. He had been instrumental in having the West Newton railroad station lowered and at that time it was recognized that Margin street should be widened. The increase in automobiles makes it absolutely necessary to keep them out of the lower roadway as the danger of accident is always present. Mr. Carter thought the improvement would cost the city from $7000 to $8000, figuring land damages at $5000, construction at $5000 and some income from betterments. He believed that now was the time to make this improvement at the least cost, and it would be a wise move to beautify the railroad approach to the village. He also thought that West Newton was entitled to some recompense for the right of the water tank at the Martin factory. A letter was then read from Ex-Mayor Hutchinson heartily favoring the plan.

Ex-Alderman B. S. Palmer said it was a novel situation for West Newton to ask for anything, but they have waited for this widening ever since the tracks were depressed. In those days, he said, it was simply an inconvenience, now it is a positive danger, which can be avoided by making a proper approach to the station for the automobile. He called attention to the narrow bridges and narrow streets and the many accidents which had taken place on such account. He believed that while the widening would be a benefit to the church, it would be a far greater benefit to the entire community. In reply to questions Mr. Palmer said that while he knew there were urgent calls on the city treasury, he had always taken the position when a member of the board that while he felt that West Newton still needed a fire station to protect the large amount of property in that section, he had recognized that other projects had stronger calls than West Newton. Now he was of the opinion that West Newton had the first claim. As to the tax rate, he would far rather pay $20 and have the proper needs of the city looked after, than pay a rate of $10 and have things neglected. He would not take the amount from the school appropriation, but believed it was more important than the widening of Walnut street. Mr. Palmer said that West Newton had given its playground to the city without expense. He closed with glowing words of appreciation for Mr. Henry B. Day who was behind this project.

Mr. Henry B. Day said that in obtaining options on this land for the church he had found that another gentleman intended to erect a building for public purposes in that locality. They had worked together and all the land had been obtained. The church was to be placed on the Highland street corner, and the other improvement, on the Chestnut street corner. These improvements would call for the widening of Margin street, and he had taken up the matter of a better approach to the station in connection with the whole project. The railroad company was ready to construct an overhead approach to the station, with covered platform on Margin street and the necessary stairs within the building. The city authorities had also suggested that Chestnut street should be widened to avoid the present dangerous corner at Margin street. While this had started as a church scheme it had developed into a public scheme. If necessity demands the widening of Margin street, Mr. Day did not see why the aldermen should give more than the rest of the public. The acquiring of this property had been an expensive proposition and he was willing to accept any fair award for land damages or betterments. About 12,800 feet of land would be taken with an average valuation of 25 cents a foot. He believed the church would be a great improvement to the village. In reply to questions, Mr. Day said that West Newton was the only section of the boulevard to give both land and money for that improvement and West Newton today is the only section paying back in taxes more than its share of the cost of the boulevard.

Representative George H. Ellis said that West Newton had asked but little of the city and now was the time to make this improvement, the expense of which was fully justified. Mr. Vernon E. Carpenter, a member of the first city government of Newton, said that now was the cheapest time to make this improvement and recalled the time when Margin street was first widened and 50 cents a foot was paid for the land taken. Mr. Henry Whitmore said that the safety and convenience of the traveling public demands this improvement and he was sick and tired of contributions for what the public should do for itself. West Newton hill was one of the most profitable parts of the city and the present approach is wholly inadequate. He did not find that people objected to the tax rate when they know that they get a dollar's worth for every dollar spent. Dr. F. M. Sherman, trustee for land affected by the widening of Chestnut street said that half his front lawn would be taken and the property damaged. He realized that it was a public improvement, however, and should only ask a fair award for the land taken. Mr. Sumner Robinson said that they had a right to expect and possibly to demand this improvement. He stated that there was hardly an estate on the hill which would bring its as-essed valuation and if we pay those stiff taxes we have a right to ask that the approach to our homes shall be made safe. This improvement will come some time and now is assuredly the best time to do it.

In the absence of President Gray, vice president Moore was in the chair and the other absentees were Aldermen Bonis, Heard, Jamieson and Williamson.

Hearings were also held on petitions of the Edison Co. for underground conduit and for one pole on St. James street and of the Geo. W. Bush Co. to keep gasoline at 52 Elmwood street. No one appeared and these matters were subsequently granted. Mr. W. C. Weatherbee appeared in favor of concrete sidewalks on Winona street under the betterment act and Emma C. Bancroft spoke in favor of concrete sidewalks on Ware road. There was no opposition.

Mr. M. C. Brush appeared in favor of the Boston Elevated Co. petition to alter locations of car tracks in Centre street to the Watertown line and Mr. Brush said that Cambridge and Watertown had already given permission for this work which was necessary to allow the company to run the semi-convertible cars from Nonantum square to Arlington Heights and to make proper connections with the new Cambridge subway. Mr. Brush was sharply questioned and said that the company was now at work on plans for a physical connection of their tracks in Nonantum square with those of the Middlesex and Boston Co. The company had only one reason for standing cars in Nonantum square and that was to start cars for Boston on time. If the people would wait for the cars to arrive from Boston, there would be no need of standing cars in the square.

The mayor sent in the appointments of William C. Brewer, chairman, and Albert P. Carter, Charles F. Johnson, Jr., William P. Carpenter, Mr. George H. Wilkins as members of the new Playground commission and the appointments confirmed under suspension of the rules. The mayor also sent in the recommendations of the Public Buildings Commissioner for $18,000 for extraordinary repairs to public buildings and for $1000 for purchase of an automobile.

Petitions were received from W. T. Farley on account of personal injuries received on Sterling street, of the Edison Co. for attachments on Woodland road, Washington street and Mill street, of Mrs. C. M. Briggs and Mr. J. W. Gas Light Co. for sewer in East Side Parkway, of Currier et al for widening of St. James street, of Peck et al for sewer in Adams avenue, of Lacroix et al for laying out of Los Angeles street under the betterment act and of Quinn et al for the same action on Allison street. Petition of the N. & W. Gas Light Co. to lay a main in Waldorf road was granted. The various applications for licenses for the coming year were also received.

On recommendation of committees, leave of absence was granted on the widening of St. James street, on the widening of Dunster road, a hearing was assigned for April 15 on concrete sidewalk on Beacon street under the betterment act, the Telephone company was granted attachments on Jackson road, the pay of precinct officers was established for the year, $13,000 was voted for making extraordinary repairs to public buildings, polling places established for the national primaries on April 30, $1347 added to the Elections appropriation for precinct voting at the national and state primaries, $450 added to the Fire Department salaries and pay of captains fixed at $1250 and of lieutenants at $1200, chapters 210 and 625 of 1911 accepted to give police officers one day off in fifteen and $1375 appropriated to provide for the two additional police officers, thereby required and a grant of $11,571.34 made for certain city expenses. An order was also adopted allowing soldiers relief to be paid to Catherine Delaney at some public institution, after explanations had been made by Alderman Murphy and the city clerk, that this woman, who now received $2 a month from Soldiers relief had been ordered sent to Westboro and no money could be paid for her support there from Soldiers relief without the consent of the board of aldermen.

The board adjourned at 9:45.

Do We Sleep Too Much?

Perhaps, on account of popular opinion and personal habit, we waste much time in a jellidish condition that could be more profitably spent in active pursuit of our ambitions. The answer, of course, depends upon the nature of our occupation. If there is much muscular effort involved, with a corresponding large amount of waste in the cells and blood, eight hours or more are probably necessary. But if our work is of a sedentary nature and mainly of the brain there is naturally a smaller quantity of accumulated waste, and less time is required for its removal. Many are the instances of great men, past and present, who have lived healthfully and worked unceasingly and strenuously on only four or five hours of sleep, or half the laborer's portion. Surely we are not to suppose that those men were or are physically different from others, but rather that by inclination or necessity they have developed a habit of sleeping intensely for a short period instead of lightly for a longer period, with resulting gain of time and efficiency.—Atlantic Monthly.

Kings Are Useful.

A king is a hand embroidered gentleman trimmed with metals, faced with whiskers and drenched with a metal roof that would never keep off the rain. Nominally he is the head of the nation; actually he is a figure-head, and that is figuratively speaking only, for he is generally too fat to claim a figure and seldom has much of a head—except on the morning after a celebration.

Once upon a time the king was the big tuba of the band. Now he is merely an oboe—until there is a revolution, and then he becomes a real live hobo.

However, a king has his place, although he is rarely finding it more difficult to stay in it.

Kings are found to be very useful in poker games, and by society ladies who wish to be presented to somebody they can brag of having met when they get back home to their long left loved ones.—Detroit Free Press.

Light and Sound Waves.

With reference to our ability to tell the direction from which sound proceeds, attention may be called to an interesting difference between the eyes and the ears in relation to the size of the waves that strike them.

The average wave length of light is about one ten-thousandth of the diameter of the pupil of the eye. On the other hand, according to Rayleigh, the waves of sound proceeding from a man's mouth are about eight feet long, whereas the diameter of the passage of the ear is quite small and could not well have been made a large multiple of eight feet.

One consequence of the minuteness of light waves in comparison with the size of the eyes is that the lenses of the eyes are able to concentrate rays of light upon the retina with great efficiency.—Scientific American.

According to Orders.

In employing men to work at his Palo Alto farm in California the late Senator Stanford gave strict orders that they were never to strike, kick or whip a horse. On one occasion, while at dinner, one of the drivers insisted that he must see the senator. He was ushered in, with blood over his face, which was badly cut. "John knocked me down," explained the man, referring to one of the trainers. "What did you do?" asked the senator. "Nothing," replied the man. "But you must have done something. I want the truth," persisted the senator. "Well, I only kicked a horse," growled the man, "and John knocked me down."

"Those were John's instructions," said the senator emphatically, "and he did just right."

Gallant.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt once told of a gallant to whom she had been introduced. "His compliments," she said, "were so glowing that at last I cried out:

"But, monsieur, remember, I am sixty-four years old!"

"Madam," he replied, "to me you are just thirty-two, for I, secured as I have been by scandal, am too charitable ever to believe more than half of what I hear."

Some Squeeze.

A judge was questioning an old Irishman.

"He took you by the throat and choked you, did he?" asked the judge.

"He did, sor," said Pat. "Sure, sor, he squeezed me throat till I thought he would make cider out o' me Adam's apple."—London Telegraph.

Her Aim.

Mr. Binks (after an absence)—And so you shot a burglar while here and unprotected. You are a brave little woman. What became of him? Mrs. Binks—The other burglar carried him off. Mr. Binks—Which other burglar? Mrs. Binks—The one I aimed at.—Puck.

Experience Teaches.

She—Dearie, shall I learn to make blouses the way your mother used to make them? He (with a shudder)—No, darling. She used to beat 'em, and my poor father always thought that was how she developed her muscle.—Exchange.

No Touches For Moods.

Fogg—Well, you know the old saying, "Contentment is better than wealth." Fogg—That's so. People don't try to borrow it from you.—Boston Transcript.

The fear of being found out is often mistaken for the prickings of conscience.

Extremes of Temperature.

Science reasons that the lowest temperatures at the earth's surface are not found directly at the poles, but at some distance to the south of the north pole and to the north of the south pole. Likewise the greatest degree of heat is not, as might be supposed, to be found at the equator, but prevails at some distance to the north and to the south of that imaginary line. The coldest place on the earth's surface of which there is authentic record is in Siberia. The lowest temperature ever recorded in the open air was 80 degrees below zero F. at Verkhansk, central Siberia, on Jan. 15, 1885. The highest temperature of which there is an authentic record is 121 degrees above zero F. in Algeria, northern Africa, on July 17, 1879. These places of extreme heat and extreme cold give a range of temperature covering the whole inhabited world of 211 degrees, or two degrees more than from zero to the boiling point.

Don't Breathe Lazily.

"If you are consumptive, if you think you are drifting into consumption, sing," said a medical man.

"Of course singing alone will not save you from consumption of any kind. Besides singing you must have plenty of fresh air and good food. And speaking of fresh air, I must say that not one person in a hundred knows how to inhale it. People seldom breathe deeply enough. They seldom properly ventilate their lung cavities, which resemble stuffy, insanitary apartments, where all germs thrive undisturbed. Acquire the habit of taking the big, deep breath which is a primary requisite for any kind of singing, bad or good, and the physical joy derived from it will never allow you to relapse into lazy breathing. Furthermore, the mere effort of singing compels the singer to stand straight and to throw out the chest, a good corrective for the bad physical habits of weak chested people."

Killed by a Shout.

A joyful shout thoughtlessly given by an Italian smuggler on having eluded the customs guards on the Swiss frontier was the cause of his six companions being killed by an avalanche. The party, coming from the Grisons, had, with a thousand precautions, successfully negotiated the Forcola pass on the Swiss-Italian border. Five of the men were loaded with valuable contraband goods, and two acted as guides and scouts. When they were all safely on Italian soil one of the guides named Maretti gave vent to a joyful yell. In the still air the least sound causes a vibration which may set enormous masses of snow moving. This is what occurred here. A quarter of a million tons of snow detached itself from the mountain side and came thundering down upon the party, who were swept in an instant into an abyss. Maretti alone was able to extricate himself.

Checkmate!

In these days, when various schemes are being suggested by which the loser of personal property may recover it without offering an extreme reward, it is interesting to note two advertisements which appeared last summer in a German paper. In these advertisements nothing so bald as a suggestion of reward appeared. They seem merely to present two wits feuding, and the reader forgets the matter at stake:

Berlin, Aug. 5.—The gentleman who found a purse, valuable beyond explanation, in the Blumenstrasse, is requested graciously to forward it to the address of the loser, as he is recognized.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—The recognized gentleman who found a purse, valuable beyond explanation, begs that the loser will call at his house at the earliest convenient hour.

The Green Kind.

A naval officer who has seen considerable service in South American waters once brought home two parrots, one of which he gave to the housemaid and the other to the cook.

For a long time there ensued animated discussions as to the merits of their respective birds. Finally the housemaid said:

"Your parrot may be a better talker than mine, though I don't believe it." Then, with an air of presenting the final clinching argument in her favor, she added, "Besides, you'll have to admit that mine has the most beautiful foliage."—Lippincott's.

Honored the Old Men.

A unique festival occurred in Paris in 1707 in honor of the old men. The idea was the encouragement of the family circle, and the old man who was a happy grandfather was held up to the younger generations to follow in his footsteps. "A gracious Hebe crowned their white locks with garlands of roses, while the soldiers of France presented arms in their honor."

Legislatively Expressed.

"No one can go wrong if he follows the Ten Commandments," said the sincere citizen.

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum, "the only trouble about the Ten Commandments arises from the amendments people try to tack to them."—Washington Star.

THE EXCHANGE OF SALIVA

We are asked to print the following letter, recently published in the Boston Herald:

To the Editor of The Herald:

Letters have recently been sent to superintendents of schools and to anti-tuberculosis societies throughout the state of Massachusetts, calling attention to the indecent and unsanitary habit of moistening the fingers from the mouth in turning the leaves of books and in handling tickets, cards, circulars, sales slips, paper bags, wrapping paper, money and many other things.

Ask a clerk why he does it, and his usual reply is: "Why, I didn't know I did." That is the whole trouble. It is necessary that he should know when he does it. In public schools, books with thousands of annotations of saliva are passed on from one class to another. There is no other unsanitary habit which is practised so frequently by people who are in other respects well bred. It is constantly done in postoffices all over the country.

What is needed is a campaign against it on the part of all schools. Usually the act is involuntary and unconscious, but a postmaster with whom I remonstrated because he used saliva very freely on all the letters he handled, instead of the cups and sponges provided by the government, replied, "I have used spit all my life, and I always shall."

The time is coming when any postmaster or postoffice clerk who does this will be considered far too ignorant for his position. Ladies do it when putting on their gloves.

An offer has been made to furnish cards calling attention to this habit to every public school in Massachusetts. Many superintendents sent for these cards at once and expressed much interest in the movement. One of these writes to the Boston Association for the Relief and Control of Tuberculosis: "I believe heartily in the purpose of your letter, and believe that if every teacher will co-operate in starting a campaign along these lines it will do incalculable good."

I think it safe to say that any teacher who will take the matter up sympathetically can stop the practice in his or her room in a very few weeks.

At the beginning of the school year, through the co-operation of Dr. Harrington, director of school hygiene, and the Association for the Relief and Control of Tuberculosis, cards were placed in every public school room in Boston and in some of the parochial schools. What is needed is hearty co-operation on the part of teachers and pupils.

Dr. Symons, health officer of Bath, Eng., in his municipal report speaks of the universal habit of moistening the fingers in the natural way when turning the leaves of books, handling paper bags and other objects, and of the practice of putting pencils and penholders in the mouth which comes under the same class of offences against decency committed by almost every one, and adds: "I am convinced that the practice is responsible for the transmission of many diseases, particularly common colds and influenza. As millions of germs are in this manner regularly passed from the mouth to mouth, in case of disease it is exceedingly difficult to trace the precise channel of infection."

It is to be regretted that there are still some superintendents of schools in Massachusetts who have not yet replied to letters sent out late in January offering the cards free to all public schools in the state. Can it be that they like their books and packages contaminated with saliva?

Boston, March 9. J. M. LeB.

POINTERS FOR THE MOTORIST

Skidding is so frequent a cause of automobile accidents both slight and serious that every motorist must decide on some form of protection against it. It is however difficult to select from the many devices offered the one which will be most effective and economical.

Anti-skid devices may be divided into two main classes, the detachable and the non-detachable. Steel chains, leather straps and removable steel-studded leather treads are perhaps the best known of the first class. All these are widely used, but tire manufacturers are agreed that all detachable anti-skid devices are expensive in the end because of the wear and tear which they put on tires and machinery.

If chains be fastened tightly to the wheels so that they have no freedom to slip back and forth, it will be quickly noticed that the cross pieces are biting away the tread beneath them and when removed will show the tire marked with deeply gouged cross lines. Experience has proved that the best way to use chains is to attach them as loosely as possible.

We do not always meet misfortune; quite as often it overtakes us.

MILITARY "HIKE"

Captain Spaulding and Corporal Nason of the Butler Boys' Club, took a "hike" in uniform last week thru Lowell and Fitchburg returning home by way of Carlisle and Concord. The trip, covering 123 miles, 30 of which were travelled thru a pouring rain-storm, and two miles of swamp knee deep with water and mud, was completed in three days, the boys counting many exciting adventures. While passing thru Lowell the strikers were attracted by the natty service uniform of Captain Spaulding, and the uniform glittering with gold lace worn by Corporal Nason, and mistaking them for militia, would have handled them roughly, had they not been held at bay by a display of arms, until the officers were enabled to board a passing car. On the last day of the trip, the boys had to find their way across country for thirty miles thru deep woods, solely by the aid of a map. The total cost of the trip was forty cents and several blisters, and the boys have felt no bad effects from the trip but are planning to make a longer one just as soon as the opportunity presents itself. Both boys are students at the Newton Technical High School.

POLICE NOTES

In the Police Court Monday Gerald M. Robottom of 49 Kent street, Brookline, was fined $10 by Associate Justice Bacon on the charge of operating an automobile without a license. Although the defendant had held licenses for over 12 years, he had failed to have it renewed in December.

The new motorcycle arrived last Saturday and will be put into effect as soon as new men are appointed to the Police Department. The appointments will be made by Chief Mitchell as soon as he can obtain the percentage received by those who took the examination last month from the Civil Service Board. The motorcycle is a twin-cylinder Indian and can develop seven horse power.

BURT-SHAW

Miss Lella Root Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton Shaw of Boston, and Mr. Frank Allen Burt (Amherst, 1908), son of Mr. Frank H. Burt of Newton, were married Tuesday evening at the Harvard Congregational Church, Brookline, by Rev. Ambrose W. Vernon, D.D., pastor of the church. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Florilla Howe Shaw, as maid of honor, and Edwina Woods of Brookline as flower girl. The best man was Mr. Philip H. Burt of Newton (Amherst, 1908), brother of the groom. The ushers were Messrs. Walter W. Dubreuil of New York, Myrle D. Graves of Cambridge (Harvard Law School, 1912) and George E. Rawson of Sumfield, Conn., classmates of the groom; Allen D. Eldred of Springfield (Amherst, 1909), Carlton L. Shaw (Boston University, 1905), a brother of the bride, and Philip V. R. Ellis, of Brookline (Harvard, 1906). The bride, who was escorted by her father, wore a Paris gown of white satin and poplin, embroidered in silver and silk thread. The maid of honor's dress was pink satin with tulle of beaded lace, and the flower girl wore pink tulle and carried a basket of pink roses. The altar was decorated with Easter lilies. Immediately after the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents, on Mountfort street, Boston. In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Burt, Mrs. Henry M. Burt, Miss Grace M. Burt and Mr. Frank H. Burt. The house was decorated with smilax and Easter lilies. After a short trip, Mr. and Mrs. Burt will reside in Framingham and will be at home Tuesdays after May 1.

CITY HALL

The recently appointed Playground Commission will meet for organization and plan the season's work, next Tuesday evening at the Newton Club. Mr. William C. Brewer of Newton Centre is chairman of the Commission.

FAREWELL PARTY

Miss Miriam Spaulding, president of the Junior League of the Centenary Methodist church, Auburndale, was delightfully entertained at a surprise party given in honor of her fifteenth birthday by members of the League, at their regular meeting last Friday afternoon. It took the form of a farewell party to Miss Spaulding, who is soon to leave for her new home in Mount Bowdoin. The parish house was entirely filled with a large gathering of members and their friends and an afternoon of rare pleasure was enjoyed by the young people, at the close of which an elaborate collation was served. Miss Spaulding, in behalf of the League, was presented with a beautiful pearl-pearl pendant and gold chain, and her mother, Mrs. Charles E. Spaulding, with a cut glass lemon-dish and solid silver fork. The success of the party was largely due to the efforts of Mrs. R. J. Holating, Superintendent of the League.

NEWTON BOAT CLUB

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Newton Boat Club was held Monday evening at the clubhouse, Riverside. The following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: Mr. Robert E. Hille, president; Mr. Fred D. Bond, vice president; Mr. Richard W. Buntin, secretary; Hon. Charles E. Hatfield, treasurer; Mr. William W. Heckman, captain.

VESPER PROGRAM

The last vesper service of the season will be given next Sunday at 4.30 P. M. at Central Church, Newtonville, when the following program will be given: Prelude (from "Parsifal")... Wagner Choral Service... Burdett Anthem, "Lovely Appearance" Gounod Anthem, "He that dwelleth" Bullard Choir Hymn, "The mellow eve is gliding" Holden Offertory, Finale from 1st Organ Sonata... Gullmant

NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL

Base Ball Team to be a Factor in School Championship

That the Newton High School baseball team will be strong contenders for the championship of the Preparatory League again this season was evident by the excellent showing made by the boys against members of the Dartmouth College 'Varsity team last Wednesday on Cabot Park. Although the college boys did not use their pitchers, their infield and outfield comprised some of the leading candidates in the college. This was the first time the collegians took the field for out-door practice, as they started for their spring training trip yesterday.

The Newton team presented its strongest lineup against these opponents and kindly loaned pitchers Litchfield and Higgins to the Dartmouth players, and although they were hit hard, the fast fielding behind them accounted for the small score of 4 to 0. Wilnot Whitney did the slab work for the local boys and held the visitors to four scattered hits. The Newton lineup was: Hyatt, 1b, Nash, 2b, Beal, 3b, Roquemore, rf, King, rf, Terrio, cf, Tucker, 2b, Hyatt, ss, Conroy, c and Whitney, p. The visitors' lineup was as follows: Fahy, ss, Kimball, 2b, Gammons, lf, Eckstrom, 1b, Rollins, 3b, Hallett, cf, Alden, c, Higgin and Litchfield, p and Cullen, rf.

Coach Alfred W. Dickinson has cut the squad down to 46 candidates, and as there is much excellent material among them, has decided to carry a second team this season. The schedule is now being arranged by assistant manager Burnham and will be given out within a week.

The regular season of the team will open this afternoon on Clavin Field and the above lineup will probably oppose the High School of Commerce. In this game the team will miss the services of Warren Tapley, who played an excellent game at short last year, who is laid up with water on the knee, caused by being hit with a baseball recently.

In addition to Whitney for the pitching box, Coach Dickinson has the services of Robert Spaulding, also a winning pitcher of last year's victorious nine, as well as Higgins, Phelps, Coffin, Brooks and Litchfield. A close fight is also on between Wellman and Conroy for first string man in the catching department.

The outfield is expected to make a brilliant showing this season. Hyatt and Terrio of last year's team are again out for their former positions and the fight is hot between King, Kyle, Brady and Cullen for right fielder's berth.

Capt. Henry Nash will again hold down the first bag, Tucker is making a grand effort to secure second, and Beal, who held down second base last year is playing third. Shortstop is being contested among Tapley, Hyatt and Harris.

NEWTON DEMOCRATIC CLUB

A well-attended meeting of the Newton Democratic Club was held Monday evening in Eagle Hall. The Presidential Preference primary was the subject under discussion, and all Democrats of the city were strongly urged to attend the primary on April 30, and express their preference for candidates. Arrangements were made to hold a debate at the next meeting, April 22, on the question, "Resolved, That Newton Be Annexed to Boston." The affirmative side will be represented by T. V. Cannon and T. D. Murphy, and Walter Hodgdon and W. J. Geegan will appear for the negative.

FAREWELL RECEPTION

Auburndale Methodists Honor their Pastor Rev. C. E. Spaulding

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Spaulding were tendered a farewell reception on Monday evening at the Centenary Methodist Church. An attendance of fully three hundred parishioners and friends were present, including guests from other churches. The church and parish house were most attractively decorated for the occasion, with palms and Easter lilies. Dr. and Mrs. Spaulding were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Isaac S. Dillingham, Mrs. Philip A. Butler and Dr. H. C. Sheldon. Much appreciation has been manifested in the work which Dr. Spaulding has accomplished in the parish and he and Mrs. Spaulding were presented with a generous gift of money. Mr. Isaac S. Dillingham made the presentation speech, to which Dr. Spaulding responded in a few well-chosen words. The Butler Boys' Club, Spaulding Girls' Club, and Junior Boy Scouts attended in uniform, and members of the Boys' Club acted as ushers. Refreshments, coffee and punch, were served. Mrs. Robbins poured, and Mrs. Lyman Fletcher presided over the punch bowl and were assisted by members of the Spaulding Girls' Club. Rev. Mr. Spaulding will take charge of the Mt. Bowdoin M. E. Church, Boston.

PI ETA THEATRICALS

The annual play of the Pi Eta Society of Harvard was given Tuesday evening before a large and fashionable audience in Players' Hall, West Newton. The play was entitled "The Imposter," and was a musical comedy in two acts, written by J. L. Hannan, '12, the lyrics and music by H. W. Cheney, '12, and I. L. Blake, '12, with additional music by B. N. Tweedy, '12, and D. H. Bigelow, '13.

The performance delighted a large number of alumni and the well-balanced cast were greeted with much deserved applause for their clever work.

H. W. Cheney played the leading role, that of the lover and imposter, with ease and grace, and I. H. Allen was charming as Marguerite, the heroine of the piece. P. S. Bliss as Alex Battendorff, a real king; C. G. Browne as Silvia and W. W. Leonhauser as a chorus lady cleverly interpreted their roles. The scene is laid in the mythical kingdom of Tulane. Jimmy Caldwell, in love with Marguerite, the daughter of the Duke of Ponce, is rejected by her father, who wished to marry her to one of royal blood. Battendorff, Jimmy's roommate in college, is opportunely called to the throne of Tulane on the extinction of the other line, and Jimmy seizes the chance to win his love by playing the imposter.

He becomes involved in a number of complications while maintaining his assumed royalty, and matters come to a climax when Battendorff, the real King, who insists upon assuming his crown, appears upon the scene. He is arrested, but afterward gains credence and his release. Joining a conspiracy against the throne, he assists in pushing his friend to extremities and discloses his identity only to save the imposter from the executioner. Meanwhile, Marguerite discovers her love for Caldwell, and the comedy ends in the complete happiness of the imposter.

REV. DR. BUTTERS HONORED

Newton Methodist Church Appreciates His Long Service Here.

At the recent fourth quarterly conference of the Newton Methodist Church, a committee consisting of Hon. A. R. Weed, Mrs. F. A. Hubbard, Mr. D. Fletcher Barber, Mr. Frederic D. Fuller and Mr. Charles Lawrence was appointed to prepare suitable resolutions on the pastorate of Rev. George S. Butters, D.D., of that church. The committee has prepared the following appreciation.

In view of the fact that the Reverend Doctor George S. Butters has signified his intention of closing his pastorate of the Newton Methodist Episcopal Church at the end of the current conference year, the members of the Official Board in behalf of themselves and all of the other members of the Church and congregation desire to record this expression of their appreciation of his services as their pastor and of their personal regard for him and for the members of his family.

During the longest pastorate in the history of the Church, Dr. Butters has given increasing evidence that he is a faithful minister of the Word and a devoted follower of his Master. Both in the pulpit and in all of the varied activities of the Church he has shown himself a wise and intelligent leader. His abundant faith, never failing good humor and kindly sympathy have endeared him to all and especially to those whose sorrows and troubles have brought him more intimately into their lives. He has enjoyed the rare distinction for a Methodist pastor of becoming the dean of the Protestant ministers of this section of Newton, and his courtesy and neighborliness have won him an enviable place in the esteem of the whole community. No small measure of the success of his pastorate has been due to the untiring interest and active assistance of his wife and son and daughter in the work of the Church. With them he will carry to his new charge the regret at the parting and the cordial good will and affection of all of the members of the Church and Congregation.

Specialized Banking Service

Many banks look with favor on all classes of legitimate business and endeavor to serve all classes. As competition grows, however, and as related industries gradually center in one locality, banks have begun to specialize in certain lines of commerce.

The Lincoln Trust Company, while it is equipped to handle all classes of financial business, specializes to quite an extent in the banking requirements of wholesalers in the shoe, leather and textile lines, whose business is centered in the section of the city in which this institution is located.

MAKING RAG RUGS A SUMMER FANCY.

Sewing rags for rag carpets is popular as fancywork for women in the country this summer. Everybody knows that rag carpets go with Colonial home furnishings. Now, those rags take pounds and pounds of sewed rags to make. And every rag must be sewed by hand. There must be dozens, hundreds, thousands of strips of material, cut narrow, then sewed neatly together at the ends. Then the long strips are rolled into balls and each ball forms a part of the material needed for your rag rug.

Each color is made into a separate ball. There are balls large and small, bright and dull colored. Getting those balls ready for the weaver means work and also many rags. That is why the begging message has crept into many a letter this summer: "Do save me any old clothes you don't want. I am very busy making a rug." And sometimes the answer comes back: "Sorry, would like to oblige, but I am making a rug also."

The weaver considers only the colors and whether the balls of rags are of wool, cotton or silk. His charges vary according to the material. One farmer's wife in Orange county is busy at a new style of rag rug, using only old stockings and socks. The result is a rug of unusual thickness. It differs greatly from the ordinary cotton rugs. It has been her odd experiment and has proved a success as rag rugs go.

A Colonial rug requires six pounds of rags for each yard of rug. As an occupation for idle hours the rag sewing seems to have become a craze this summer. If you chance along a country road and see women on a piazza busy winding an apparently endless string of bright color, or mayhap just as busily cutting strips of cloth, don't ask what they are doing, for if you do the chances are that they will greet you with "Oh, say, haven't you some old neckties or old waists or skirts? I'm making a rug."

What effect this making of old clothes into balls of material for rug weaving will have upon the Salvation Army donations this fall is not known, but certain it is the family rag bag will be greatly depleted.

NEWTON LAD HURT

Mr. Carl Wells of Putnam street, West Newton, fractured his arm, in an automobile accident which took place on Commonwealth avenue, Boston, last Saturday afternoon. Mr. Wells, with Mr. Charles R. Cabot of Newtonville, and another young man were riding in an automobile owned by Mr. W. O. Putnam of Dorchester and driven by his son, Mr. Irving H. Putnam. The bursting of a tire caused the machine to turn and strike a tree with sufficient force to throw all four men out. The rear of the car then swung around, tipping the machine over, ripping off the rear seat, and badly damaging the chassis. Mr. Wells was the only one seriously hurt, the others being slightly bruised. He was taken to his father's office in the Hotel Westminster and later to the Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital in Boston.

Masquerade Ball on Wednesday a Great Success

One of the largest gatherings of the season assembled at the big clubhouse Wednesday evening, when the masquerade ball was held. It is a long time since a Masquerade Costume Dance has been given, so members and guests entered into the evening's festivities with much spirit.

The various characters were well conceived and carried out, with few being discovered till time for unmasking at 9.30. Dancing was continued till a late hour. The affair was voted one of the best ever given by the club. Mrs. S. B. Whittemore and Mrs. C. H. Vee were the matrons.

There will be special bowling features Saturday evening. The team captained by Mr. W. T. Halliday won the house tournament just closed.

There will be an evening bridge on Wednesday of next week.

Rehearsals are under way for the Club Minstrels to be held on evening of May 1st.

ANNUAL BALL

The 14th annual concert, banquet and ball of the Garden City Mutual Aid Association, composed of the different divisions of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company, was held Monday evening in Bray Hall, Newton Centre, and proved to be a great success, both socially and financially. The affair was attended by upwards of 500 people from all sections of the city, as well as the surrounding cities and towns. The affair was ushered in with a concert by the orchestra, followed by a grand march, there being 150 couples in line. At intermission the banquet was served, after which dancing continued until 2, the company furnishing free cars for their friends at the end of the dance.

The floor was under the direction of J. W. Alexander, assisted by J. McLaughlin, P. H. Duffy, W. U. Fogwill, H. W. Bailey, T. J. Nicholson, A. L. Moriarty, L. O. Richardson, John Cavanagh, B. D. Angelow, W. Shinnick, E. F. Cronin, A. McKenzie, W. B. Taffe and J. Bouchard.

NEWTON MEDICAL CLUB

A meeting of the Newton Medical Club was held at the home of Dr. Joseph Stanton, Washington street, Newton, Monday evening, with twenty-five of the Newton doctors in attendance. A collection was followed by short talks on medical subjects by well-known physicians. Dr. George L. West presided, and a paper was read by Dr. Stanton and an X-Ray diagnosis on "Diseases of the Stomach" was conducted by Dr. George of Boston.

THE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE OF MANAGERS

Representing fifty railroads in the Eastern section of the country, at present negotiating with the locomotive engineers on the subject of wages.

A "fire-side campaign" has been undertaken by the Committee of Railroad Managers, who are in controversy with the locomotive engineers on the subject of wages. Pamphlets containing the demands of the men and the answer of the railroads are being sent broadcast throughout the territory affected.

The railroads' pamphlet is addressed to all railroad employees, railroad shareholders, bondholders, and the public. "Please take this home, read carefully, and let your families read it," is the request made by the roads.

"What the Men Ask, What the Railroads Reply, What the Public Thinks," is the homely title of this unique booklet, which indicates the lengths to which the railroads are going to see that the public and all railroad employees are fully informed of this wage controversy, which the roads say threatens bankruptcy for a number of the lines.

While the engineers are circulating a strike ballot among the employees of the different lines, the Managers of the railroads are putting in the hands of the employees in train service this pamphlet, which, in addition to the demands of the men and the roads' reply, contains editorials reprinted from a number of the country's leading newspapers. It is being sent to the bondholders, shareholders, members of Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, and other commercial bodies in the territory in which the railroads are affected by the engineers' demands operate.

Never before in a concerted wage movement has the side of capital come before the bar of public opinion to plead its case along the unusual lines adopted by the railroads. It was learned yesterday that 100,000 copies of the "fire-side" booklet had already been mailed, and it is expected that more than a million copies will be circulated before the week is over.

LIFE'S MIRROR

There are loyal hearts, there are spirits brave,
 There are souls that are pure and true,
 Then give to the world the best you have,
 And the best will come back to you.

Give love, and love to your life will flow,
 A strength in your utmost need;
 Have faith, and a score of hearts will show
 Their faith in your word and deed.

Give truth, and your gift will be paid in kind;
 And honor will honor meet;
 And a smile that is sweet will surely find
 A smile that is just as sweet.

Give pity and sorrow to those who mourn;
 You will gather, in flowers, again,
 The scattered seeds from your thought, outborne,
 Though the sowing seemed but vain.

For life is the mirror of king and slave;
 'Tis just what we are and do.
 Then give to the world the best that you have,
 And the best will come back to you.

LUCY JACKSON CHAPTER

The April meeting of the Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., was held at the Neighborhood Club, West Newton, on Monday afternoon. The hostesses, Mrs. Henry M. Davis, Mrs. Charles Dennison, Mrs. Arthur Dunmore and Mrs. Edwin Dodge, were assisted in receiving by the Regent, Mrs. Charles Meserve. The State Vice-Regent, Mrs. Charles T. Chick, was guest of honor and addressed the Chapter at the close of the business meeting. She spoke with much interest of the fine new Genealogical Building, in Boston, in which the D. A. R. Society are to have their rooms, and said that the new quarters were promised to be ready for occupancy next October. Here the Society will be "at home" to members every Monday afternoon, and all State meetings will be held in this new building.

Miss Lucy E. Allen, Vice-Regent of the Chapter, read a delightful paper entitled "The Inner Circle of Social Relations." She drew a charming picture of the ideal 20th Century home and made a strong plea for simplicity, honesty and unity in the home life.

Miss Margaret Baker contributed to the pleasure of the afternoon by singing two delightful songs, and the usual "Afternoon Tea" closed the social hour.

NEWTON MAN SUICIDES

Mr. Herbert A. Sawyer, a resident of Rockledge road, Newton Highlands, committed suicide Wednesday night by throwing himself in front of a subway train in the Grand Central station in New York. Mr. Sawyer who is connected with the Gorham Manufacturing Co., went to Muldoon's Camp at White Plains, N. Y., on Monday, on account of a nervous breakdown. Wednesday morning he left the sanitarium and went to New York, where he met his wife and brother. After a talk with them he left, saying he wanted a walk in the fresh air. Going directly to the subway he deliberately threw himself in front of an approaching train. Mr. Sawyer was 32 years of age and had resided in Newton Highlands for the past two years. He was building a new house on Rockledge road, and with his wife he had been rooming in the village.

For President,
WILLIAM H. TAFT

Newton Republicans will be called upon soon to express their preferences for either Taft or Roosevelt for the presidential nomination. I have found a very general expression of admiration for Colonel Roosevelt and his administration as President, but combined with a deep regret that he has announced his willingness to accept another nomination. President Roosevelt did the country a notable service in arousing a public sentiment against the exploitation of the general welfare for private gain.
But to President Taft was left the far harder task of enforcing that public sentiment within existing law. The administration of President Taft will make a fine record in this respect,
when the inadequacy of the statute is thoroughly understood. In addition, President Taft has had a tariff situation to meet, and with one or two slight exceptions, has met that issue in man fashion. The work of the tariff board is meeting with satisfaction with all thinking citizens, and when Congress can be induced to legislate on facts, some relief can be expected. All this leads to the present issues between Colonel Roosevelt and President Taft. The latter is still engaged in enforcing the Sherman statute, he is in the midst of a complicated study of the whole tariff situation, and the entire logic of events, points to the renomination of President Taft. It should also be borne in mind that Colonel Roosevelt has never touched the tariff question in any public manner, has persisted in ignoring that important issue, and it would be the height of folly for the Republican party, or the country, to throw aside the excellent work of the Taft administration at the present moment.

A public hearing will be held next Monday evening by the board of aldermen on the matter of granting sixth class liquor licenses in this city. The recent publication of the figures obtained from all the druggists in the city has apparently given the impression that our drug stores are simply another name for liquor saloons. Efforts are being made to create a public sentiment which will induce the aldermen to reverse a policy, which has satisfied the city for many years, and by refusing to grant such licenses, open up a new, untried and apparently dangerous path in regulating the liquor question. In the first place it ought to be thoroughly understood by every person signing the petitions now in circulation, that our druggists are reputable men. Two of them have given honorable service as aldermen and one is now serving his third term as a representative to the Legislature. To characterize these gentlemen as unscrupulous liquor dealers is slanderous and ought to be resented by every respectable man in the city. In addition the drug stores of Newton are not dram shops,
the amount of liquor sold will not make the druggists unduly wealthy,
and comparisons with our neighboring city of Waltham, are not unfavorable to Newton.

It should also be understood that it is simply impossible to make men good by legislation. With many persons, the placing of obstacles in their path, simply makes them more determined to get what they want.
The true remedy for intemperance is education, supplemented with wise regulation. The present system in my opinion is the best system for this city. It is now under complete control of our police department, persons who abuse liquor cannot obtain it at drug stores, and every restriction of the present laws is observed. To remove this wise regulation, will open the doors to temptation, to subterfuge and to the kitchen barroom, with all its attendant evils.

Every signer to the petitions to rescind sixth class licenses therefore takes a serious responsibility the consequences of which ought to be fully and carefully considered.

As there is a general agreement throughout the city that the reckless automobile driving on Commonwealth avenue should be stopped, the hearing tonight at City Hall on the question of establishing a speed limit, will be well attended.

RECEPTION

One of the most charmingly appointed receptions of the season was tendered Rev. and Mrs. Richard T. Loring on Tuesday evening at the Newton Club by members of the Men's Club of St. John's Episcopal Church, assisted by Mrs.
Edward Kimball Hall and Mrs. Harley W. Thayer. The reception was in the lower hall, which was attractively decorated with a profusion of Easter flowers, Mr. and Mrs. Loring receiving under a bower of Easter lilies. An elaborate menu was served, Easter lilies being used in effective arrangement on the four tables. The pourers were Mrs. John A. Fenno and Mrs.
Henry C. French. Mrs. Pitt Drew served the lemonade. The young ladies assisting as servers were the Misses May Anderson, Bertha Hackett, Ethel Gammons, Sarah Hackett, Vera Rumery, Margaret Edgerly, Glady's Avery, Helen Cunningham,
Margaret Wheaton and Miss Bankhart.
The ushers were Dr. Hartley W. Thayer, Mr. H. R. Lane, Mr. George N.
Bankhart, Mr. Taylor French, Mr.
Keith Warren and Mr. Robinson. An excellent program of music was rendered by a ladies' orchestra. An interesting feature of the evening was the stereoscopic lecture by Mr.
Charles Glidden on "Around the World in an Automobile." This delightful social affair which was participated in by fully four hundred, was given under the direction of Mr. Edward Palmer Hatch, president of the Men's Club. Among those present were Judge and Mrs. Marcus Morton, Hon. and Mrs. John A. Fenno, Mr.
and Mrs. Enoch C. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Warren, Dr. and Mrs.
Charles H. Voe and Miss Dorothy Voe,
Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. French, Mr.
and Mrs. Horatio B. Hackett, Mr.
Chester H. Kepler, Mrs. William P.
Upham and Miss Elizabeth Upham,
Mr. and Mrs. George T. Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Randall, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Eddy, Mrs. Oscar Kyle,
Mr. and Mrs. Hubert L. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Avery, Miss Gladys
Avery, Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Avery,
Mr. Charles Avery, Jr., Mr. Frank T.
Benner, the Misses Benner, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Crocker, the Misses Casey,
Mrs. Isabelle Moir, Mr. and Mrs.
George G. Will, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel
J. Brown, Mrs. Louis N. Voe, Mr. and Mrs. Roland F. Gammons, 2d, Mr. and Mrs. Pitt Drew, Mr. Howard Hackett, Mr. A.
H. Wing and Miss Esther Wing, Rev.
J. T. Stocking and Mr. and Mrs. S.
W. Holmes.

THE ELOPEMENT OF ELLEN

The Hunnewell Club, Newton, will be the scene of a pretty three-act farce-comedy, Tuesday evening, April 16, 1912, at 8 o'clock, when the Immortal Associates of the Immanuel Baptist Church, Newton, will present
"The Elopement of Ellen."

The characters, seven in number,
are all popular young people who,
under the efficient coaching of Mr.
Fullerton C. Vose of Brookline have converted themselves into the characters of the play, and a splendid rendition is assured.

Those who are to take part are Florence B. Burnham, Edith Cor-
ton, Georgia M. Winslow, Fullerton
C. Vose, William H. Cady, Beverly G.
Secord, and Harold Moore.

The play centers about the home of Mrs. Ford, where June Haverhill (a young college student, keenly interested in household economics) offers her services, as a maid in order to get notes for her thesis.

Ellen, as Miss Haverhill is thereafter called, is very successful in her mission, also along other lines—she gets married!

Rector Hume, another character, will show how some ministers make love.

The management have spared no pains in endeavoring to stage a good production, and although it is purely an amateur affair, yet the well balanced cast and constant rehearsing should assure a pleasant evening.

"OUR WIVES"

There was a record attendance at the two performances of the three-act comedy, "Our Wives," which was presented by "The Theatricals" on Wednesday and Thursday evenings in the parlors of the First Universalist Church. Members of the cast maintained their reputation for high class acting, each character being admirably portrayed and the applause of the enthusiastic audiences was well deserved. The cast included the following well-known entertainers: Mr.
Paul Revere Knight, Mrs. Arthur H.
Logan, Mrs. Flora E. Walters, Miss
Bessie F. Hartshorne and Messrs.
George M. Bridges, Frank M. Grant,
Elden H. Jennison, William H. Zoller,
Paul Revere Knight, Arthur H. Logan
and Everett H. Judkins.

UNDER THE GILDED DOME

The principal event of the week at Beacon Hill was the message of the Governor favoring a metropolitan government scheme, advocated by the Mass. Real Estate Exchange. In brief the plan divides the metropolitan district into six boroughs, Newton being in the fourth borough with Waltham, Weston, Watertown, Belmont, Wellesley, Brookline, Needham, Westwood and Dedham. Boston is one borough with three members of the governing board, while other districts have but one member. The president of this governing council is to be appointed by the governor and have a salary of $10,000 a year.
This council will succeed to all the duties now performed by the Metropolitan park and Metropolitan water and sewerage commissions, and in addition will take under its control the fire, police and highways departments of all the cities and towns in the district. It will also have charge of the local charitable work and the trade and vocational schools in the district. The bill goes into effect on its acceptance by a majority vote of the entire district, regardless of the individual wishes of the various municipalities. This project differs but slightly from the so called Kiley bill for annexation to Boston, which was so vigorously opposed at the present session, and is equally vicious in that it violates the principle of home rule which is the basis of our scheme of government. There is but little question that it will be strongly opposed at the hearing assigned on it for next Monday, and there is also but little doubt of its defeat.

The peaceful persuasion bill,
so called, was passed by the House
last week, with our three representatives recorded in opposition. The municipal lighting bill was defeated
the same day by a very close vote, our representatives voting with the majority. The bill to pension court officers was also passed, our representatives being in the minority. Mr.
Bothfield and Mr. Ellis voted in favor of the amendment to the constitution to make women eligible as notary public, and Mr. White was one of a small minority on the bill. Mr. Both-field and Mr. White voted in favor of the bill to fix the price of gas main, which was defeated 93 to 97.
All three representatives voted against the bill to fix the price of electricity sold the city of Boston, and to provide a motor boat for the district police, both of which were defeated. The resolve to pay Mr.
Clinton H. Scovill of this city, $1051 for services last year as one of Governor Foss' experts, was beaten in the House on Tuesday by a vote of 99 to 123. Mr. White voting in the negative and Mr. Bothfield and Mr.
Ellis were not recorded. It is said that Mr. Scovill accepted the amount offered last year by the Governor's council, and this bill was in addition to what he had already received.

Users of electricity will be interested in the action of the House this week in passing a bill, which virtually reduced the minimum charge for meters from $12 to $7 a year. It has still a rocky legislative path to traverse before it becomes a law, however.

The committee on Counties has reported an appropriation of $59,931.52 for the current expenses of Middlesex county, and the committee on Ways and Means has favorably reported the bill to reimburse Newton $3,738.65 for the expenses of the Independent Industrial School at Nonantum.

—Miss Mary Eliza, the daughter of Mr. Eleazer Thompson, and a resident here for the past 28 years, died this morning at her home on Hartford street, after a long and serious illness with arterio sclerosis, at the age of 62 years. Miss Thompson was a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College and taught in a young ladies' seminary in the Middle West for several years, later graduating from the New York Training School for Nurses. She was a member of the Congregational Church. Funeral services will be held from her late home Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

—Home Lodge, No. 182, I. O. O. F.

CAMP UTOPIA

Boyhood days must pass away.
Years of work must follow play.
But in the years that are to be
Our hearts, Utopia, will turn to thee.

Chorus:
Utopia, Utopia, thy sons in legion sing,
Utopia, Utopia, long shall thy praises
ring.

At thy fair name our hearts shall beat,
Utopia, that knowest not defeat.
See, now beneath thy banner old,
Thy sons are forming true and bold,
And come what may on land or sea,
Our hearts, Utopia, will turn to thee.

And when we face life's bitter fight,
And when around us is the night,
Then thy fair banner ever bright,
And thou, Utopia, shall be our light.

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

This is the time when the clubs are beginning to plan for next year. In making out the programs the Club Editor urges, as she has so many times before—for really there is nothing new under the sun—the wise choice of speakers and the sense of proportion that all sides of a subject may have their proper treatment and that the different types of members may have their full share in the program. The Newton clubs are to be congratulated on the thoughtfully planned programs, which they have had during this year which is now closing. A connected series of subjects is often a logical and natural way of working, but variety is also often desirable. Whatever is done, don't get in a rut. The judicious mixture of home talent and outside speakers is a wise provision. Most of the Newton clubs have home talent and they are good things. The club that grows and endures is the one which does some of its own work and does not depend wholly upon being entertained by speakers from abroad.

Local Announcements

May 7 has been selected as the date for the annual meeting of the Newton Federation. The usual business session will be held at the New Church, Highland avenue, Newtonville, during the forenoon, after which luncheon will be served. An attractive program is being arranged for the afternoon session. The club women of Newton are requested to reserve the day and attention is called to the change of place from the Congregational Church to the New Church. This is done in order to have better facilities for the afternoon entertainment. Members are requested to secure their luncheon tickets early.

Mrs. Charles T. Bartlett will entertain the Monday Club at her home, 141 Jackson street, Newton Centre, on Monday afternoon, April 15. Mrs. Callopo Batts will speak on "Greeks in America."

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. will meet with Mrs. Warren White of Rockledge road on Monday, April 15, at 2.30 P. M.

The annual meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Guild will be held on Tuesday, April 16. Luncheon will be served at 1.30. After the business meeting Miss Sarah Drew, a member of the Art Department of the Massachusetts State Federation, will present the work of her department.

The Home Circle Rummage Sale will be held in Players' Small Hall in West Newton on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 16 and 17. All contributions for it will be gratefully received. They may be forwarded to members of the Circle before April 15th or sent directly to the hall on Monday, April 15, before 5 P. M. Every article sent will be very acceptable.

The regular meeting of the Home Circle for April 18 will be omitted and the next one will be held in the usual place on Thursday, May 2d at 2 P. M., when the members are requested to bring their "merry-go-rounds."

Local Happenings

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' Home Circle, held at G. A. R.

Hall, Newtonville, on Thursday, April 11th, the following list of officers was elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. George M. Fliske; first vice-president, Mrs. F. C. Hills; second vice-president, Mrs. A. M. Teulon; recording secretary, Mrs. W. F. Hadlock; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. H. Kimball; treasurer, Miss A. S. Chamberlain.

An unusually entertaining program, "An Afternoon with Jane Austen," was successfully presented by members of the Waban Woman's Club in Waban Hall on Monday, April 8. With the exception of Mrs. Slade, who sang several of "ye old time songs," those who had part were all members of the club. An able paper upon the life of Jane Austen was read by Mrs. Pingree. This was followed by "Mr. Collins' Proposal," the characters being portrayed by Mrs. Isola, Mrs. Rane, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Grain and Miss Rane. Miss Jane Bacon gave a reading and dance and then followed "Mrs. Eaton's Formal Call," in which Mrs. Marsh and Mrs. Kimball shared equal honors.

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. met with Mrs. Arthur W. Burnham of Waban on Monday afternoon. The subject for the afternoon was "Fetters of the Fancies," by Robert Browning, a work consisting of twelve poems, each dealing with some profound question touching the relations of man with the divine. This work was published in 1884. The same subject will be continued for the next two meetings.

On Tuesday morning about twenty members of the Monday Club of Newton Highlands visited the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston. Under the direction of the docent they spent a most profitable hour inspecting the Greek department of the museum.

At the meeting of the Parliamentary Law Club on April 9th these officers were elected for next year: President, Mrs. Franklin Smith; secretary, Mrs. Howard R. Mason; treasurer, Mrs. W. D. Tripp.

The last literary meeting of the Auburndale Review Club for the season was held on Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. William Knowlton, on Hancock street. A very interesting paper was read by Mrs. J. F. Dutton on "The Dramatic Situation in Boston." The play of the morning being "Strife" by John Galsworthy, Mrs. Dutton closed her paper with a short account of Galsworthy and Mrs. A. R. Wells gave a synopsis of the play.

The last hour was taken up with the reading of "Strife" by Mrs. William Fuller, a member of the Club, and one whose reading never fails to please and completely satisfy her audience. This was no exception to the rule and all went home feeling that the year's study of the "Development of the English Drama" had ended most successfully.

The Social Science Club had a most able, thoughtful and altogether charming paper presented at its meeting on Wednesday morning by the Rev. Harry Lutz, minister of Channing Church, entitled, "Life in Literature." He said in part: If the ancient author of Bible times could say, "Of making many books there is no end?" What could he say of the present day flood of literature? When the mass of worthless matter is eliminated, there is still much left that is not worth while. Literature that lasts has human life for its subject. In his "Essay on Man" Pope says, "The proper study of mankind is man."

Imagination is the vanguard of progress and reaches beyond the present to what may be. Not all products of the imagination, however, are worthy. If the concepts come from a mind diseased or abnormal, they cannot take real form. But the creative imaginings of the normal healthy mind, go beyond experience, and if true, they live and endure; but if false, they are consigned to oblivion. Often a writer is not appreciated in his own day and his work is not recognized until the future reveals its worth. There must be harmony between the author and the reader, if the book is to ring true. Since the subject of all literature is human life, it would seem that the more one reads, the more one would be educated. Not so. Abraham Lincoln had no scholastic education, he read very few books, but he learned how to read human hearts. He studied human life, and derived his knowledge at first hand. Under a given set of circumstances he could tell how men would act. Wisdom consists not in a knowledge of books, but in the subject of books—life itself. Books may be likened to spectacles, some magnify, distort or color the vision wrongly. It is well occasionally to take them off and look at the subject with the naked eye of meditative thought.

Education and culture do not consist merely in a knowledge of books. Of present day fiction he deplored the mass which is being accumulated by the public libraries at the expense of more solid and lasting literature. He also deplored the modern tendency to read every book that comes along, in order to be able to talk about them, and gave many valuable hints in regard to reading. He likened omnivorous reading to a debauch and said that it takes much longer to sober down from the literary spree.

Of all forms of literature poetry, he said, best portrays life and in concluding his paper he quoted many of the old favorites which picture life at its best. His audience listened with the closest attention and felt at the end that they had a most inspiring morning.

His audience listened with the closest attention and felt at the end that they had a most inspiring morning.

THE NEWTON HIGH SCHOOLS

The Senior play, entitled "A Fool For Luck," is expected to be a great success. Many tickets have been sold. There will be dancing after the play on both Friday and Saturday nights for the seniors and their invited guests.

The extra technical and clerical divisions of the Technical High were addressed in the assembly hall on Wednesday morning by the Hon. H. E. Bothfeld.

The first game of the season is to be played on Claflin Field Friday, April 12, at three o'clock, between the High School of Commerce and the local nine. It is expected to be a sunny, lively game, and will be a good opportunity for the new men to be tried out.

The French Club will hold its regular meeting Friday, 12, in the library of the Classical High.

ALASKAN MOSQUITOES.

They Are Small and Silent, but Work With Fire Tipped Stings.

Mosquitoes in this icebound northern country, Alaska, are a plague beyond relief. They come to life about the middle of May, before the ground is thawed out and while many feet of ice still cover the lakes and all but the swiftest rivers. Stagnant, sun heated water is not in the least necessary. They breed in the glaciers wherever a bit of earth or manure has melted a little pool. Their wrigglers are seen in running ice water. By the 1st of June it is uncomfortable to sleep without protection, and from that time on until September, when the first frosts have numbed them, especially during the warm, rainy season of July and August, they become a never ceasing scourge, swarming in thousands.

The Alaskan mosquito is small, brown, silent and very much in earnest. He never sings a warning note about selecting a spot to his taste, but comes in a bee line with his probe and gets into action. Every inch of your clothing is industriously bored, so that you look like an animated brown cocoon, and the slightest exposed spot on wrist or neck is promptly set on fire. I experimented with a small hole in my glove. After the first mosquito had found the opening others came in quick succession to the spot. He left some microscopic "kind lady and no dog" sign there. If I killed the first and left his carcass it served as a warning not to at all. The others came the faster, and the more I killed the more eager the survivors became, perching quite unmoved on the remains of their confreres.—World Today.

EUGENIE'S ESCAPE.

How the Empress Got Out of France After Sedan.

As soon as the hot headed citizens of Paris learned in September, 1870, that their emperor, Napoleon III., had surrendered to the Prussians at Sedan these Parisians rose in a riotous mob and made posthaste for the Tuilleries. They were armed and after royal blood and plunder. The empress had to flee for her life. Assisted by the Austrian and Italian ministers, she made a hurried flight from the palace, but found the mob ahead of her in the garden; back again and then out by a secret way into a side street, where they entered a carriage. A street gamin recognized the empress here, but the shouting of the mob was so great that the boy's cry of warning was not heeded.

Once the carriage was stopped by a mob, but the party alighted and managed to escape. Finding themselves near the residence of Dr. Evans, the American dentist, they took refuge there, and the doctor took upon himself the responsibility of Empress Eugenie's safety. The empress put on a dress belonging to Mrs. Evans and, with Mme. Breton, her friend, was driven by Dr. Evans to the suburbs. Dr. Evans explained that the women were a patient and her attendant whom he was taking to a sanitarium. Two days later the fugitives reached a coast town, whence they escaped to England.

Plants That Shoot Arrows. The arrows are crystal needles of oxalate of lime. They are of microscopic dimensions, and they are shot from minute capsule shaped bodies found in the tissues of such plants as the Indian turnip and the Polyneesian taro. An extraordinary spectacle may be viewed in the field of the microscope when the "bombs" contained in a drop of taro pulp begin to discharge their arrows. Sometimes only one or two needles and sometimes groups of four to ten were discharged at once, the bomb recoiling as the projectiles left it. It has been suggested that the intense burning and pricking sensations experienced in chewing such plants as those just mentioned are due to the release and discharge of these crystal arrows when the plant tissues are crushed in the mouth.—Harper's Weekly.

A Fine Distinction. Sometimes a small boy can draw a fine distinction. Two fishermen of the sportsman type, equipped with all the latest appliances for angling, were walking a mountain road when they met a barefooted boy with a tin can in his hand and a carelessly trimmed branch of a tree slung over his shoulder.

"Hello, sonny?" exclaimed one of the men. "Going fishing?" "No," drawled the youngster, with only a glance at the splendid outfit, "I ain't gona fishin'. I'm just gona down to the creek to catch some fish."

Air in the Lungs. In one minute, in a state of rest, the average man takes into his lungs about 48.8 cubic inches of air. In walking he needs 97.8 cubic inches; in climbing, 140.3 inches; in riding at a trot, 201.3 cubic inches, and in long distance running, 347.7 cubic inches.

An Optical Delusion. Affable Stranger—I beg your pardon, but isn't this Miss Greenleaf? The Lady—No; I am Miss Redpath. A. S.—Ah, excuse me! I must be color blind.—Boston Transcript.

Revenge. She—You ask me to marry you. Can you not see your answer in my face? He (absently)—Yes—er—er—it's very plain.—Life.

Take a good book slowly. You see much finer country in a mover's wagon than you do from a car window.

THE USE OF TOBACCO.

Cut It Out One Day Each Week Is the Advice of a Doctor.

If a man who uses tobacco will give it up for one day each week he will keep himself from becoming a "tobacco fiend." This is the advice of a well known doctor, who says that quite a number of men, including himself, have adopted this plan. "By leaving off tobacco for one day a week you give your system time to get rid of the effects of the drug," he said.

"You will then enjoy your tobacco far more, too, because you have become unaccustomed to the davor, and it is therefore more enjoyable when you resume smoking."

"The effect of tobacco is a general sedative action on the nervous system, which diminishes the power of taste and smell. That is why ten tasters seldom or never smoke."

"Leave it off for a day, and the sense of taste recovers. Not only that, but leaving off tobacco for one day voluntarily breaks the tobacco habit, exercises the self control and prevents one from becoming a slave to the habit."

"Slaves to the tobacco habit suffer from irritable hearts, loss of appetite for breakfast, eye trouble, sometimes going as far as blindness, chronic catarrh of the throat and nervous depression."—New York American.

STUYVESANT'S LOST LEG.

Doubt as to Which It Was Shown In Paintings and Statues.

There is no doubt Peter Stuyvesant had a wooden leg. The historians tell of how he stomped about the streets of New Nieuw Amsterdam, leaving a dot and dash trail in the road like a Morse code. But there is one point on which historians seem perplexed—or it may be that the renders of history are unobserving—which leg had the good Peter lost?

In the Wall street section those who roam may see at least five representations of the late lamented governor of the Dutch colony. Three of these are painted on the panels of signs, and two are statues, like Peter's leg, made of wood.

One of the statues and two of the paintings represent the governor wearing a chair leg attached to his right nether limb, while in the others painters and sculptors have chosen to represent that it was his left leg he had lost.

All show the leg bedecked with ribbon bows, and all show him as a benign individual—not at all in keeping with the character given him by the historians in question—wearing knickerbockers and a felt chaparran and offering a roll of manuscript to whomever looks.—New York Times.

London Through the Ages. The occupation of the site of London dates back much farther than most readers are aware. The city that Julius Caesar found occupied a site which had been inhabited for unnumbered thousands of years. It is now known that during paleolithic and neolithic times—the two great divisions of the stone age—man dwelt on the site of London, but it first became the settlement of a community at the opening of the historic age, when it was a stronghold of the Celts. The remains of its Roman period are the finest of the kind in Great Britain.

The Anglo-Saxon and Danish periods are finely represented, and even later periods, such as the Tudor, furnish relics that have been buried by that strange process of superincumbent growth which makes the soil under a great city resemble the fossiliferous strata of geology.—Youth's Companion.

Bathing an Elephant. The elephant's bath takes a week to carry out in every detail. It requires the services of three men, and it costs $300. This treatment is necessary for a circus elephant, and if the animal is a valuable one the proprietor of the circus does not consider the money wasted. The first process consists in going over the immense body with the best soap procurable; 150 pounds of soap is used, and the elephant's ears are especially carefully attended to. When the soaping and drying are completed the elephant is well sandpapered and after that rubbed all over with the purest Indian oil until the mouse gray skin is supple and glistening. This last touch is the most expensive part of the bath, as $150 has to be spent on the oil alone.—Philadelphia Record.

A Puzzle For Willy. The new school superintendent was chock full of new pedagogy. "Never ask leading questions when examining your pupils," he commanded his teachers. "Do not hit at the answers. Make the learner find them unassisted."

This is how the young lady teaching Greek history obeyed: "Willie, who dragged whom how many times around the walls of what?"—Everybody's.

Ambiguous. "Did your late employer give you a testimonial?" "Yes, but it doesn't seem to do me any good."

"What did he say?" "He said I was one of the best men his firm had ever turned out."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

POINTS FOR THE MOTORIST

Attachments such as removable studded leather treads, while not likely to cut or gouge the rubber, are generally so cumbersome that they destroy resiliency. In other words, the tire, instead of absorbing obstructions, rebounds from them and thus transmits the shock to the chassis, defeating the very purpose for which pneumatic tires were designed.

These conditions show the necessity for a satisfactory anti-skid. Many of these depend on some form of rubber elevation to check the skidding of the car. The experience of many motorists is that such rubber non-skids if used with care are satisfactory while they last, but that in some cases the studs or other elevations wear away rather quickly. One set of figures recently compiled showed that after traveling one thousand miles, the average non-skids tire was worn perfectly smooth. Since most non-skid are considerably more expensive than those with plain treads, manufacturers everywhere are trying to make the anti-skid feature more durable.

Finally, there is the original type of anti-skid invented by Michelin, in which the rubber tread is reinforced by a tread of steel-studded leather. In the Michelin Anti-Skid the leather tread is an integral part of the tire and thus does not affect its resiliency, while the steel studs naturally wear longer than rubber and grip better on wet or icy roads.

THEATRES

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.—Miss Billie Burke will begin her second week in "The Runaway" at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, on Monday evening, April 15th. Miss Burke has made the biggest kind of a hit in her new play and her admirers are saying that she is on the way to becoming one of the very cleverest comedienne on the American stage.

Of course there are some very enthusiastic persons who think she is that already. And certainly there is no other actress of the day who can more accurately depict the moods of innocent girlhood. At all events Miss Burke has completely conquered her audiences wherever she has appeared in this role and her receipts have been extraordinary. The packed houses have laughed with her in her joy and if they have smiled at her in her grief and passion, it has been because they knew that it would all come out right in the end and that the child's love for the kind-hearted artist would be fully returned and with interest.

TREMONT TEMPLE.—Beginning Monday evening, the latest of motion pictures, telling the whole story of Homer's Odyssey will be shown at Tremont Temple, they will reveal the famous characters and scenes that are described in the great Greek poet's famous epic, and they come direct from Italy, where they were made by the Milano Company, 1000 people having been engaged in their production, and the total expense being more than $200,000. The story told by the pictures involves the adventures of Ulysses, his departure from Ithaca to Troy, and his return homewards after the siege of that famous city. They promise much in the way of entertainment and as an educational influence, and they will attract not merely the general public, but also the many thousands of students and scholars who are familiar with the Greek poet and his masterpieces of literature.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.—"The Gallipoli," which John Craig is giving for the first time at the Castle Square next week, is one of the best and merriest of Richard Harding Davis's farces. The picturesque surroundings of the ancient Greek city of Athens give a color and flavor to the play that is wholly novel, and there is not a moment in it that does not contribute to the smiles and laughter of the audience. Mr. Davis has invested it with a frank and genial humor that does not relax its hold upon the audience from the beginning to the end of the play.

LADIES' HOME CIRCLE

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' Home Circle the following report was given by the secretary:—
It is hard to realize that another year has passed, and brought us again to our annual meeting. As we look back and think of the years of work and pleasant associations, we remember that in a few months we will celebrate our twenty-fourth birthday. Our work this past year has been the same as usual—trying to reach out a helping hand to the unfortunate ones about us.

Through our relief committee we have tried in every case to give the assistance that would be the most helpful. In some cases nourishing food has been needed for the sick. Then again, coal, clothing, or perhaps money to help pay rent, or to provide necessary food for a family. Three Thanksgiving dinners were provided.

At Thanksgiving there came to us a dollar, from a widow, whom we have helped in the past. Her children are now getting old enough to help in the support of the home, and she wished to contribute toward a dinner for someone, in appreciation of what had been done for her. Truly, "The Widow's Mite," but it seemed one of the most beautiful and yet pathetic gifts that has ever come to us. A small gift of money was sent to the Pomroy Home at Christmas.

Necessary supplies have been furnished for our room at Newton Hospital.

The room at Soldiers' Home has also been well cared for by our committee.

Gifts were sent to the men in our room at Christmas and flowers on Memorial Day. It is a constant problem as to how we shall get the money to carry on the work we want to do.

We have had two whist parties, a rug and food sale, and sold refreshments at an entertainment in Auburndale. All these have added to our fund.

Alderman Jones of Auburndale has secured for us a share of the Kenrick Fund.

At many of our meetings we have had entertainments, followed by a social hour and refreshments. On February 15, Mrs. B. E. Taylor, chairman of the Social Service Committee of Newton Federation, spoke to us on the work of establishing "A Bureau for Centralizing Newton Charities." All clubs were urged to assist in raising a fund for this purpose. Our club gave a whist party in Auburndale March 29. The proceeds for this fund.

We extend a most cordial greeting to the new members who have joined us during the year.

Our loving sympathy has been extended to all who have had sickness or sorrow in their homes, by flowers and friendly letters.

During the year one more of our number has been called to the "Home" beyond to join the great "Circle" that have finished their work.

Another year's Home Circle history stands completed, and as we pause to thus briefly look back, we feel that we have not accomplished as much as we would wish, but we have tried to do the best that lay in our power.
GEORGIETTA HADLOCK,
Secretary.

B. K. KEITH'S THEATRE.—What is unquestionably one of the strongest all-star bills ever seen in Boston is promised for B. K. Keith's Theatre next week, headed by Edward Abeles & Co., Eddie Leonard; and Lydia Barry. As the star of "Brewster's Millions," Edward Abeles has made thousands in all parts of the country laugh, and in his latest vehicle he has one of the best roles that ever fell to his lot. The comedy is entitled "He Tried To Be Nice," and deals with the mishaps that befall a young husband who attempts to be nice to his wife. Eddie Leonard, who last season headed his own big minstrel company, will appear in a new act, assisted by Mabel Russell. As the author of "Big Brown Booboo Eyes," Mr. Leonard is already famous, and his latest original songs are said to be even better than his classic. Lydia Barry, the singing comedienne, has an extensive repertoire of exclusive songs, all new, and she is bound to create even a bigger sensation than she did upon her last appearance here. Other big features will be Walsh, Lynch and Co., in a rural comedy sketch, entitled "Huckins' Run," Klass and Bernie, two novelty entertainers; Aitken-Whitman Trio, three wonderful contortionists; Strength Brothers, the muscular marvels, and others.

PARK THEATRE.—Hattie Williams, Boston's favorite musical comedy star, returns to the scene of her former triumphs—the Park Theatre—on Tuesday evening, April 16th, with an all-star cast in a new farce with music entitled "The Girl From Montmartre," which is now in the seventh month of a sensational successful run in Berlin. Miss Williams—a Boston girl—has scored many big hits in musical comedy productions, but in "The Girl From Montmartre" she is said to have an even greater vehicle for the display of her talents as comedienne, a singer and dancer. "The Girl From Montmartre" is described as a farce with music and is said to be simply brimming over with clean, bright fun and side-splitting situations. Charles Frohman is said to have surpassed all previous efforts in the mounting and casting of this production and called in the help of no less an important stage director than R. H. Burnside, formerly of the New York Hippodrome to complete the elaborate staging. The production reveals the very heart of Bohemian Paris with all its lights, brilliancy of scene, of saying and of song. Scores of handsomely gowned women will fill the eye while a half dozen of the cleverest comedians in the entire field of musical comedy will lend their efforts with those of the star in making the performance a notably brilliant one.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.—The Aborn English Grand Opera Company now on its third annual spring season at the Boston Opera House, will abdicate during the first half of the coming week, so that the Metropolitan Opera Company may occupy that famous temple of music for its visit of three days next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The Aborn organization will resume its run on Thursday night, April 18th, and for the latter half of the week, will present Ambrose Thomas' charming opera, "Mignon." This popular work has not been given in Boston in many years, and its revival by the Aborn forces will therefore figure as an attractive novelty. Its music, many of the gems of which are familiar to music lovers in general, is in the opera comique class, more brilliant and vivacious than the accepted grand opera fare, therefore affording a welcome variety when given among heavier compositions. Its libretto is delightfully romantic and dramatic, based on Goethe's famous story of "Wilhelm Meister." There will be five performances of "Mignon," including Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, a special holiday matinee on Friday (Patriots' Day), and the regular matinee on Saturday.

BOSTON THEATRE.—Beginning Monday, April 15, in "The Old Town," George Ade's musical comedy, is a farcically-inclined story which might as well be played without music as with the tuncful illustrative score furnished by Gustav Luders, providing of course, that David Montgomery and Fred Stone continued to play the two leading characters. Beside Montgomery and Stone in the cast are a number of well-known entertainers and the original English pony ballet. The pony ballet introduce several novel dancing specialties and a big number in which they all play characteristic Scottish music upon the Highland bagpipes. The burden of the fun making, of course, is borne by the two stars, Montgomery and Stone, and they are well equal to the task set them by the librettist.

STRONG PROTEST AGAINST DRUGGISTS' LICENSES

Largely Attended Hearing Given at City Hall to Representative Body of Citizens

The aldermanic chamber Monday evening was not large enough to hold the crowd of good citizens who attended the hearing given on the matter of granting six class liquor licenses to druggists. The floor was filled and the gallery packed with people and many stood in the corridors at the rear of the chamber. The hearing was given at the request of a citizens' committee formed within the past three weeks to stir up a public sentiment on the matter, and petitions carrying over 600 names were filed with the board remonstrating against the granting of licenses. Mr. Frank M. Forbush of Newton Centre represented these petitioners and presented resolutions asking the board to refuse the licenses from the Elliot Church, Newton, signed by Thomas Weston, Jr., and Rev. John F. Brant, and from the First Church, Newton Centre, signed by Rev. E. M. Noyes and John Y. Mainland. Mr. Allan C. M. C. A., was the first speaker and called attention to the vote of 4 to 1 last fall for No license. He claimed that the large amount of liquor reported as sold by druggists was used as a beverage, and that the farce of signing a statement that it was for chemical, mechanical or medicinal purposes, created a contempt for law. He believed the situation could be better controlled by the certificate plan, and then said it was not a question of control, but of extinguishing the whole liquor traffic. Mr. Emery then gave instances of three young men whom he claimed were ruined by drug store rum and urged the board to make it as hard as possible for a young man to do wrong and as easy as possible for him to do right.

Mr. Thomas Weston spoke most impressively, saying that Newton was doing splendid work for its young men in the Technical High School and in the Y. M. C. A., but while we voted last fall to be a temperance city, the licenses granted our druggists amounted to just so many saloons. Mr. Weston said that it had been proved that the use of liquor weakens the will power, and will power was what we wanted for our young men. He urged the board to stop the liquor traffic for the sake of the young men and to do something to make it disgraceful for anyone to get liquor, and closed by saying that the police could control the situation if no licenses were granted and that if they were granted, there would surely be an increase in the quantity sold during the year.

Dr. G. M. Winslow appreciated the work which had already been done to improve conditions and said we are simply urging you to progress just a little faster. Make the situation in the city accord with the No vote of last fall and do it now instead of in the future.

Dr. M. E. Gleason said that from a physician's standpoint he never knew a life to be saved by liquor, but had known of many lost thru its use. He did not believe all the physicians in Newton would prescribe more than 10 gallons of liquor for all the sickness in the city.

Rev. E. M. Noyes read a resolution passed by the executive committee of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs in protest and then said we all meet on common ground. All are interested in the good name, the welfare and the morality of our city. From the published facts he believed that granting these licenses annulled the vote of the city on the liquor question; the figures show that the drug store traffic is increasing; the present system is a school for hypocrisy and a training in perjury, demoralizing to the whole community; children who buy soda and candy at drug stores see what is going on; the remonstrants represent the majority sentiment of the city; there is no need for the sixth class which can be superseded by the law of 1906 (certificate of fitness).

Mr. Noyes said further we have tried the license system for many years and it was now time to try another system. If we found out how it worked we could compare the two systems. He claimed that any druggist who had sold liquor during the past year to persons who used it as a beverage, was not a fit applicant and could be legally refused a license.

Mr. Thomas W. Procter represented the druggists and said that there were many reasons to continue the present system. He then explained the various kinds of licenses and emphasized the fact that in voting on the liquor question, the law expressly limited the matter to the first five classes of licenses. Mr. Procter claimed that the control of the matter was better exercised by the city under the license system. The certificate of fitness is granted by a state board, while the license is granted by a local board which controls the police and the entire enforcement. The committee has investigated the entire question, the applicants are responsible men and the board can discriminate if it chooses.

Mr. Chas. R. Darling said that the sentiments in opposition expressed tonight were entitled to grave consideration and respect, but it did not represent the prevailing sentiment in Newton. It was an exaggeration to say that the drug stores attracted trade for liquor, and they do not flaunt it in the face of anyone. For a fair statement he believed that some druggists may have gone beyond the line and sold for a beverage. But most families in Newton have a use for liquor at some time during the year and should be allowed to get it without paying for a physician's certificate. The present law is the result of a long agitation and it should be applied in a reasonable spirit. It is your duty to grant these licenses and then control them. Refuse licenses to offenders and exercise your discretion in a proper manner.

Ex-Mayor George Hutchinson said he was reluctant to speak on the matter, but he had had some experience and when mayor, had made a careful study of the question. Mr. Hutchinson said he did not believe the state board of Pharmacy, which issued thousands of certificates, were supposed to know local conditions, and it is not reasonable to suppose that the aldermen would have the same responsibility as when it issued the sixth class license. On the other hand, the courts do not back up cases for violation of the license law, and altho the Newton court was particularly high class, it does not meet this emergency. Mr. Hutchinson believed the committee should carefully consider each application and refuse all who are unfit. There was great danger in the certificate of fitness method, greater than the situation of today, and he would leave the matter as it is with careful discrimination as the safer course.

The hearing closed at 9:20 o'clock. When the matter was reached in the usual course, Alderman Moore read the report of the committee which is printed in full in another column.

Alderman Calkins said he appreciated the unstinted work of the committee and regretted that he could not concur. Where principle and not policy is involved, each member must decide for himself. On three fundamental propositions there are no disagreements—that liquor in large quantities is sold and be sold by druggists as a beverage. The figures show that the sales equalled 1 1/2 pints a year for each of 40,000 people, and each month the druggists sell enough for a tumblerful to each registered voter in Newton. Newton is a strong No license city and the voters mean what they say. While the law is mandatory if the applicant is fit, Mr. Calkins offered to vote for one license if the committee would recommend one as being fit. Mr. Calkins claimed more control over the druggists by the certificate method and believed the city was justified in having that plan tried. Reports from other cities showed that conditions are better than under the license system and as we cannot discriminate practically, give the certificate one year's trial.

Alderman Moore differed from Mr. Calkins as to the better method of control, saying that the license could be revoked for any cause satisfactory to the board. He also believed that the publication of the figures would reduce the amount sold during the coming year. He also read a letter from one of the chiefs of police quoted by Mr. Calkins showing that one-third of the druggists in that city had been convicted of illegal liquor selling during the past year.

Alderman Bemis said he was surprised that no one had claimed that the liquor sold was for the three purposes stated in the license, and asked how can the board vote, knowing that the law was not being enforced. He believed that to continue these licenses would injure the community. It was not a question of how much liquor was being consumed, but of granting licenses to persons who continually break the law.

Alderman Cox said that no evidence had been presented to indicate that the law had been broken. The publication of these figures had caused more trouble than could be remedied in two years. Mr. Cox suggested that the petitioners form a vigilance committee and bring violators of the law into court.

Alderman Blakemore caused a laugh by reading a transcript of Alderman Cox's remarks on this subject last year.

Alderman Murphy said that a refusal to grant licenses will create a condition which the city does not want. It is our duty to disregard this petition, the signers of which did not know anything about the sixth class licenses until a few weeks ago. Prohibition is impossible and we must solve this question in the interests of temperance. Newton has not an ideal condition, but no city is better or cleaner. Why change and experiment with the morals of the community—leave well enough alone. Mr. Murphy referred to the mill cities which were happy and prosperous until the recent advent of agitators, and believed that Newton was undergoing a similar experience with the liquor question.

Alderman Moore read letters endorsing the license system from Ex-Aldermen Matt B. Jones and Benjamin S. Palmer.

Alderman Heard said that there was an attempt here to inject a moral issue into this question, and to substitute form for substance. The only way to cure an evil is to strike at its root and not at its form. Personally he preferred the careful opinion of men who had studied the question to a voice vote at an open church meeting. The present agitation is a hastily aroused sentiment on a question which members of this board had studied for some time.

The following licenses were then granted by a vote of 14 to 6, Aldermen Barker, Bemis, Blakemore, Calkins, Early and Gordon voting against and Aldermen Cabot, Chadbourne, Cox, Hatch, Heard, Higgins, Jamieson, Jones, Miller, Moore, Murphy, Pratt, Sullivan and President Gray voting in favor.

FARLOW PARK HEARING

At Annual Meeting of Newton Improvement Society Next Tuesday

The annual meeting of Newton Improvement Association will be held at Hunnewell Club, Newton, Mass., on the evening of Tuesday, April 23rd, 1912, at 7:30 o'clock.

In addition to receiving the report of the Committees and electing officers for the ensuing year, it is expected that there will be a general discussion as to contemplated improvements in Farlow Park; the question of securing a playground for Wards 1 and 7 and other matters of special interest.

It is expected that the Mayor will be present at the meeting.

SPEED LIMIT HEARING

In spite of the advertising given the hearing last Friday night at City Hall on the question of establishing a speed limit for automobiles on the south roadway of Commonwealth avenue in this city, less than twenty persons were present, most of whom represented automobile associations.

Alderman George M. Cox, chairman of the committee, presided. Mr. Howard Emerson said he represented the Newton Centre Improvement Association and spoke of the annoyance and danger now existing on the avenue. He favored a limit of 25 miles an hour. Mr. George M. Angier for the Waban Improvement Association said that in his opinion the danger was caused by demonstrators, who used the avenue for trying out their cars.

He favored a stricter police supervision and a speed limit of 25 miles. Mr. Lewis R. Speare spoke for the Mass. Automobile Association and said that there had never been any determined effort on the part of the police to control the reckless driver. He believed that every effort should be made in this direction before placing a speed limit in effect. Newton had a fine reputation thruout the state for the fair deal it gave automobilists, and while that reputation made most motorists more careful when in the city, there are others who took advantage of it. In his opinion, it was not safe to place any limit. In some places 25 miles would be entirely unsafe, while in others 30 miles might be too slow. The present law, Mr. Speare thought was sufficient. Boston is able to obtain convictions under it. Every automobile club in the state wants to get after the reckless driver.

Mr. G. D. Strachan, secretary of the newly organized Newton Automobile club favored a speed limit in order to give the chief of police something definite to work with.

Mr. E. A. Gilmore of the Bay State Automobile Association, and a resident of Waban, endorsed all that Mr. Speare had said, adding that if one police officer on a motor cycle wasn't enough, then have two.

Mr. Speare then said that he thought it a dangerous plan to change the law of the state, and intimated that if the city placed a speed limit on the avenue, the automobile associations would oppose its approval by the Highway Commission. No other city in the state has it and Mr. Speare said if Newton obtained a speed limit, Worcester and other places would probably follow suit.

Mr. E. E. Hills said that the city ought to try every other plan before fixing a speed limit.

The hearing lasted about an hour and the committee took the matter under advisement.

HISTORY OF FARLOW PARK

Original Letter of Mr. Farlow and Action Taken Thereon

the establishment of the park and a list of the estates assessed betterments in consequence of the laying out of the park.

Mr. Farlow's letter is as follows:—
Newton, May 8, 1880.
Hon. R. M. Pulsifer,
Mayor of the City of Newton,
Dear Sir:

For want of a better the boys of this village have been using for a playground the past few years, the land belonging to me bounded by Vernon, Eldredge and Church streets. Being almost directly in the centre of the village, that land seems admirably adapted not only for a convenient playground for the boys, but, if slightly enlarged, would serve equally well the purposes of a public park. Having been for a long time a warm advocate for the establishment of a public park in each and all of the villages composing our city, I have been lately looking over the estates on Vernon street adjoining mine, with a view to giving a practical form to my ideas as far as this village is concerned.

The estates of Messrs. French and Ellis on Vernon street and the unused portion of the Baldwin street lying between them forms one quarter of a square, the other three quarters of which, are made up by the land before named as owned by me. By removing the buildings from the French and Ellis lots and adding the land embraced in those estates and the unused portion of Baldwin street lying between them, to mine, a most excellent site for a public park can be secured by a very small outlay on the part of the city.

Under the provisions of the park act, the city can as I understand, take those estates for park purposes by condemnation process, in case amicable terms can not be agreed upon with the owners. Such being the case I consider the present opportunity of securing so desirable an improvement for the city at such small cost, too good to be lost or neglected.

I have therefore to propose, and hereby agree to donate as a free gift to the city of Newton, the land here-embraced in those estates and the portion of Baldwin street lying between them to be added to mine hereinafter named, and to be judiciously planted with trees, shrubbery and grass, and provided with walks and other necessary park conveniences, the entire area to be enclosed by a suitable iron fence or granite curbing and forever maintained and kept in good order and condition as Free Public Park.

Hoping for favorable response to this from the City Council, I remain, Sincerely yours, J. S. FARLOW.

Received Oct. 4, 1880.
Later extended to May 1, 1883.
Deed dated April 23, 1883.

Following the offer of Mr. Farlow there was a delay of two years during which legislation was obtained, Chapter 44 of the Acts of 1882, authorizing the city to lay out parks and to assess betterments for the same. This act was accepted at the state election in 1882. The formal hearing was held Feb. 21, 1883 and the park laid out on March 6, 1883. On May 29, 1883, the sum of $25,000 was appropriated for the purchase of the French and Ellis estates.

The assessments levied on account of Farlow Park will be found in another column.

AINSWORTH-HUTCHINS

One of the season's prettiest weddings was solemnized last Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. Freedom Hutchinson, 650 Centre street, when his only daughter, Miss Eleanor Butler Hutchinson, was united in marriage to Mr. George Raymond Ainsworth, son of Dr. George Cook Ainsworth of Brookline. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Harry Lutz, pastor of the Channing Unitarian Church in the beautiful decorated reception room of the bride's home.

The ceremony was attended by only the families of both parties, followed by a reception at which 500 were present, from the Newtons, Boston, New York and Washington. The bride was attended by Miss Eleanor H. Heywood of Holyoke, a cousin, as maid of honor, and the best man was the youngest brother of the groom, Mr. Forester Ainsworth of Brookline, Yale '14. The flower girl was Miss Virginia Hutchinson of Newton, also a cousin of the bride.

The bridal party consisting of the ushers, flower girl, maid of honor and the bride on the arm of her father entered the reception room, where they were joined in marriage in front of a pink rambler background.

The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white satin trimmed with lace duchess and rose point, belonging to her mother and a pearl rope girdle, knotted and hanging down in front and a pearl Juliet cap. She also wore a magnificent pearl and diamond necklace and carried a bouquet of Swainsonia and Gardenias. The maid of honor wore a gown of pink and blue chiffon trimmed with silver lace and carried a large bouquet of pinks. The flower girl was becomingly gowned in Irish lace, with pink sash and ribbons and carried a large basket of rambler roses.

At the reception the couple were assisted in receiving the guests by Mr. and Mrs. Freedom Hutchinson, parents of the bride, Dr. George Cook Ainsworth, father of the groom and Mrs. Frederick E. Harwood of Brookline, formerly of Newton, aunt of the groom. The ushers were Mr. Edward H. Ascherman of New York city, Mr. Putnam B. Smith of Newton, Mr. Channing Harwood, Dartmouth, '14, and Mr. Ernest Parsons of Brookline.

The couple left immediately after the reception on an extended wedding trip and will be at home to their friends after June 1 at 60 West 10th street, New York city.

BRINE-MORRISSEY

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Gertrude Morrissette of Boyd street, the daughter of the late Richard J. Morrissette and Mr. Edward D. Brine of Newtonville, took place Wednesday evening at the Church of Our Lady, where the ceremony was performed by Rev. A. S. Malone.

The bride wore white ivory satin with pearl and chintilly lace trimmings, her veil being caught with lilacs of the valley. She carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas. Her sister, Miss Angela Morrissette, was the maid of honor and wore turquoise blue crepe meteor, trimmed with pink chiffon, and carrying Killarney roses. Mr. Arthur M. Brine of Newtonville was the best man.

Owing to a recent bereavement in the family of the bride, there was no reception. Mr. and Mrs. Brine leaving immediately for a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Va. After June 1st they will be at home at 28 Union street, Watertown.

Banking Needs of Wholesalers and Jobbers

Dealing each day with men in a variety of different lines, the officers of this bank are constantly in touch with conditions in practically every trade and industry.

But on account of our location in the midst of the wholesale and jobbing district of the leather, shoe and textile lines, we are particularly well prepared to meet the banking requirements of individuals and firms engaged in business of that nature.

Our nearness to the South Station makes it especially convenient for suburbanites to keep their personal checking account here.

CLAFIN CLUB

The monthly meeting of the club was held Wednesday evening and was Ladies' Night. There was a large number present at the banquet to which Mr. W. T. Rich, president of the club, welcomed the guests in a short address. He later introduced Rev. Peter McQueen, the well-known traveler and lecturer, who spoke on the Panama Canal work and general conditions in the zone and nearby territory.

He showed some 200 beautifully colored slides. His views of Mexican cities of the present, and of Aztec ruins, also of pictures of men prominent in the political upheaval now in progress, were of great interest.

The banquet was in charge of a group of ladies, under the leadership of Miss Caroline Gilman and was as usual well served and enjoyed.

CAMP UTOPIA

Boyhood days must pass away. Years of work must follow play. But in the years that are to be. Our hearts, Utopia, will turn to thee.

Chorus

Utopia, Utopia, thy sons in legion sing,
Utopia, Utopia, long shall thy praises ring.
At thy fair name our hearts shall beat,
Utopia, that knowest not defeat.
See, now beneath thy banner old,
Thy sons are forming true and bold,
And come what may on land or sea,
Our hearts, Utopia, will turn to thee.
And when we face life's bitter fight,
And when around us is the night,
Then thy fair banner ever bright,
And thou, Utopia, shall be our light.

Written at random by Robert Basil Fitzgerald, 15-year-old son of our Advisory Director, M. E. Fitzgerald, Principal of Oliver Wendell Holmes School, Dorchester, Mass.

—The Beacon Club met Wednesday evening at the home of Dr. May, Waban avenue, and had as a speaker Prof. F. B. Loomis of Amherst College, who has recently returned from a trip to Patagonia and took as his subject "A Summer in Patagonia," which proved of much interest to the members and guests. The last meeting of the year is usually wholly taken up with business but this year it is planned to give the members a treat in the way of an entertainment and the committee will soon announce an interesting program for the evening of May fifteenth.

—The musicale given at the home of Mrs. E. E. Conway, Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Woman's Guild of the Church of the Good Shepherd was a success in every way. A large audience was present and were fully appreciative of the excellent program presented under the direction of Mrs. Theo. H. Piser. Of those who took part the only one resident in Waban are Miss Champlin and Mrs. Adler. Mrs. Adler accompanied the various artists. Those taking part were Miss Ruth Ivy, violin; Miss Gladys Berry, Violoncello; Miss Mary Harger, soprano; Mr. George Sykes, tenor; Miss Mary Champlin, pianist.

HON. W. H. FURBER DEAD

Hon. William H. Furber, second mayor of Somerville, and a resident of this city since 1890, died Wednesday morning at his home on Centre street, Newton, after an illness of about five weeks. Altho he had been in failing health for about a year, his death was unexpected.

Mr. Furber was a native of Boston, where he was born Oct. 1, 1828. His father died when he was young and at the age of nine he left school and went to work. He went to Somerville in the fifties and was elected an alderman when the city government was formed, serving in 1872 and 1873. In 1874 and 1875 he was chosen mayor of the city. He also served as trustee of the public library in 1873-74-75.

He married Miss Joan Parker, who survives him with one daughter, Mrs. Edward Burbeck with whom he made his home.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at his late home on Centre street and were attended by a large number of friends and associates. The city of Somerville was represented by Mayor Charles A. Burns, City Clerk Fred W. Cook and the president and vice president of the board of aldermen. There were many floral tributes including a beautiful piece from the Somerville city government. Rev. H. Grant Person, pastor of Eliot church was in charge and a male quartet sang several selections. The interment was at Mt. Auburn cemetery.

The board of aldermen of Somerville have passed these resolutions: Whereas, this board has learned with profound sorrow of the death of Honorable William H. Furber, who passed away at his home in our neighboring city of Newton, be it therefore

Resolved: That the city of Somerville, through its mayor and board of aldermen, assembled at this time as a special mark of respect to his memory, recognizing the ability and value of his service to the city both in legislative and executive capacity, expresses its appreciation of his achievements as a citizen and as a public official and its deep sympathy for his bereaved family.

He was born in Boston, October first, 1828, and came to Somerville during its existence as a town. He was a member of the first board of aldermen of 1872 and of the board of aldermen of 1873 and 1874 and 1875. His administration was creative and in the list of our city's valuable assets are many public works for which he was largely responsible. Probably the best known of the many accomplishments of his municipal life was the laying out of Broadway Park. This tract of land, comprising about sixteen acres of low land, poorly drained and with a most undesirable class of buildings, was converted under authority of the legislature and mainly through his efforts into a well laid out and beautiful park which is today enjoyed by the people of our city and admired by the thousands of passers-by.

Though removed from our city for a number of years, he still retained his interest in her government, and his continued attendance at the annual inauguration exercises of city governments evidenced his loyalty to the city which has honored him and which he has done so much to honor.

Resolved: That these resolutions be spread upon the record and that a copy be sent to his family.

COMMODORE SAWYER DEAD

Commodore Frank E. Sawyer, U. S. N., a resident of this city since his retirement from active service in 1907, died suddenly last night at his home on Church street, Newton. Commodore Sawyer had been a guest and speaker at the dinner given Wednesday night at the Second Congregational church, West Newton, to the Suffolk West Association of Congregational churches, and had made a witty and interesting speech. He appeared to be in his usual health. On arriving home, he was taken ill and died in twenty minutes.

Commodore Sawyer was born in Piermont, N. Y., and was 60 years of age. He entered the Annapolis Naval Academy from Massachusetts in 1868 and graduated in 1872. He was appointed an ensign in 1873, a master in 1878, a lieutenant in 1885, a lieutenant commander in 1899, and a commodore upon his retirement June 30, 1907. He has served on the Hartford and Ashutol on the Asiatic station, on the Richmond in the South Pacific station, on the Swatara on the North Atlantic station and on the Richmond on the South Atlantic station. He has also been on the receiving ships Franklin, Wabash and Vermont. For a few years he was on the coast survey and Hydrographic office work. During the Spanish war Commander Sawyer was on duty on the Fern and participated in several small engagements in Cuban waters. In the Japanese war he commanded the gunboat Helena stationed at Newchwang. While on duty in one of the large foundries in Pittsburgh in 1897 he was severely burned by an explosion of gas.

Commander Sawyer is a widower and is survived by one daughter, Miss Caroline Sawyer. He was a member of the Hunnewell club.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at his late home on Church street at ten o'clock.

LOSE OPENING GAME

Boston High School of Commerce defeated the Newton H. S. baseball team in its first scheduled game of the season last Friday afternoon on Clafin Field by the score of 7 to 6. Although the day was not particularly adapted for baseball, a fair attendance was present to watch the local team on its first appearance on the diamond.

The game was rather a poor one from a spectator's standpoint, the two teams making a total of five errors, most of which resulted in runs. The players were unable to cover much ground on account of the wet condition of the field and the pitchers had much trouble in controlling the ball.

Bob Spalding, who had much success in the box for the local team last year started the game, but was removed after three innings, after being hit rather freely and passed five men, giving the visitors a lead of four runs. Wilmet Whitney replaced him and held the visitors scoreless until the eighth inning, when two free passes, a double and a single netted them three runs, a lead which the home team could not overtake.

Newton scored a single tally each in the third, fifth and sixth inning and annexed three more in the seventh, when Roquemore was passed, went to second on Hyatt's sacrifice and to third when Capt. Harry Nash beat out an infield hit. On Beal's single to left, Roquemore scored and Nash and Beal both scored on Whitney's slashing double to center.

ROXBURY LATIN BLANKED

Newton High School enjoyed a batting fest against the Roxbury Latin team last Tuesday afternoon on Clafin Field, making a total of 16 safe hits for a total of 18, which netted them 15 runs, while the visitors were allowed but three hits and blanked. Spalding began the game in the box and after holding the Roxbury Boys to one hit for five innings, was relieved by Higgins, who also held them at his mercy for two innings, allowing two hits and striking out five men.

Whitney pitched the last two innings, the visitors being unable to solve his delivery. After Newton had piled up a total of 12 runs, Coach Dickinson sent several second string men into the field and their heavy stick work annexed three more runs.

HENRY S. DAWSON, Manager

A Prophecy

By CAROL H. PIERCE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

When the civil war was coming on Enoch Armsby, a Connecticut Yankee, who had taken it into his head to run a plantation on the Mississippi river some twenty miles south of Vicksburg, found himself a northern man with southern interests. Despite the differences between him and his neighbors they didn't drive him out. His son, Zeke, who had lived in the south longer than in the north, enlisted in the Confederate army, and this disposed the southerners more than ever to let the father alone.

Enoch Armsby told his southern friends that there were reasons why the north would prevail.

"I guess," he said, "nothin' can stand against the south for fightin', but it isn't fightin' that's goin' to win. The northern people are full of resources. When they come down here you'll find that they will convert a ferryboat into a man-of-war, build bridges with cotton bales, and when they capture one o' your railroads they'll git out a time table and run it nearer the schedule than you fellows can do it in time of peace."

"I reckon one southerner can whip five Yankees," would be the reply.

"S'posin' they do. S'posin' they kill three out o' the five Yankees and make prisoners of the other two. The two they don't kill will invent some way o' gettin' out o' jail and go on fightin'. They will be joined by three more Yankees and be as strong as ever. That'll go right on."

The Federal forces slowly made their way down the river and in time the great event of the war in that region, the siege of Vicksburg, began. Zeke Armsby participated in the fighting that took place in the rear of that city, was captured and confined with a lot of Confederate prisoners of war in a manufactory of undertakers' supplies. When the news reached his father the neighbors said:

"Mr. Armsby, reckon yer son 'll have a chance to show that Yankee ingenuity yo' been braggin' about now. Reckon he'll find a way fo' gettin' out."

"I guess Zeke 'll git out if any one can."

"How's he goin' to do it? That factory is on a point o' land stickin' out into the river. There's a high wall on one side and water on the other. The Yanks ain't such fools as to give their prisoners boats, are they?"

"I guess not," the father admitted. "Well, we'll see what Yankee ingenuity 'll do. There's several hundred southerners in that building, and if one northerner invents a way to git out we'll give up the point about the superiority of yo' people."

One morning one of Mr. Armsby's neighbors stood on the bank looking up the river, shading his eyes with his hands. Another person saw him, and, having nothing to do, walked slowly out to see what the first was looking at. Another and another joined the party, and finally Armsby himself appeared.

"Somep'n queer?" asked one of the party.

"Powerful queer. I'd reckon it was driftwood, only fo' somep'n shinin' on it. 'Thar—did yo' see the flash?"

Every one saw it and wondered. The driftwood or whatever it was came rapidly nearer, for the current of the Mississippi is by no means slow, and as the thing approached many were the comments made upon it. Some said it was a log that had been squared, some that it was an oblong box, while others noticed that it was smaller at each end than in the middle. As it rolled something, either glass or metal, occasionally caught the rays of the sun and sent out a flash.

"By gum, it's a coffin!" exclaimed one of the watchers.

"A coffin?" exclaimed the others. "What can a coffin be doin' sailin' down the river?"

"It is a coffin, sho'."

While these remarks were being made the coffin—for such it was—was approaching the bank on which the party was standing.

"There must be a co'pse in it," remarked one, "or it would roll over."

"That thing that reflects the light is the plate."

The coffin floated by, and as it did so the upper part of the lid was lifted off by the said co'pse, and a pale face rose and looked at the party with a frightening effect.

"By jing," exclaimed Armsby, "it's my boy Zeke!"

"Reckon," said several others. "Dad," cried the young man, "come out in a boat and git me. I haven't got no cars."

Armsby ran downstream to where a boat was tied, rowed out to the coffin and towed it ashore. Then Zeke told them that in the undertaker's supply manufactory (his prison) he had discovered a pile of coffins. He had launched himself in one of them before daylight.

"Feller citizens," spoke up one of the party, "we'll neve' conquer sich people as that as long as God Almighty lives."

A conference was held, and it was decided that the people of the county be recommended to have nothing to do with the war. They felt assured that a people who would use coffins for boats instead of burying corpses would be found invincible. Enoch Armsby simply said, "I told you so," and when the Confederacy collapsed became the most influential planter in those parts.

—When you want a plumber call B. M. Thomas, 272 Newton North St.

—Mrs. H. J. Danforth of Manchester, N. H., is visiting at her home on Boyd street.

—Mr. Roy Warren is in charge of repair work at Elmwood Garage. Try him, "none better."

—Say, if I were you I would get that car repaired at Elmwood Garage, Elmwood Street, Newton.

—Rev. Alton H. Robinson of Newton Centre will preach at the morning service next Sunday at Channing church.

—Mr. and Mrs. William Macpherson of Eliot street, Waterville, have moved into the house at No. 3 Melville terrace.

—The meeting of the Young Ladies' Guild of Eliot Church, which was postponed, will be held on Tuesday of next week.

—Mr. and Mrs. Bernard O'Neill (Mollie Morrisey) of Somerville are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.

—"World Literature in Education" will be the subject of Rev. Harry Lutz' lecture Monday evening in the parlors of Channing church.

—The Woman's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. held a very successful and largely attended sale on Saturday afternoon at 407 Centre street.

—The lecture on "Mohammedanism" will be repeated by request at the evening service next Sunday at Grace Church, by Rev. Dr. Laurens MacLure.

—The Freedman's Aid Society of Eliot Church held a meeting Thursday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. George R. McFarlin on Hunnewell terrace.

—Rev. J. Edwin Lacount and family of Hudson, Mass., will take up their residence at the Methodist parsonage 30 Wesley street, the latter part of next week.

—Dr. and Mrs. George S. Butters and family attended the Memorial service of Mrs. Butters' brother held last Sunday afternoon at Trinity church, Springfield.

—The Woman's Association held an all day meeting Tuesday in Eliot chapel. Luncheon was served at the noon hour. There was a large number of members in attendance.

—Rev. Floyd Webb of Kansas, a student at the Boston University School of Theology, delivered the sermon at the morning and evening services last Sunday at the Methodist church.

—Sessions were resumed on Thursday of last week at Mount Ida School. The students have all returned and entered upon the last term of the year. There will be a graduating class of thirty-five.

—Mrs. Elizabeth A. Alden, widow of the late George E. Alden, died last Sunday at her home 547 Centre street, after an illness of about a year. Mrs. Alden was 78 years of age and has lived here for nearly thirty years.

She leaves no children. Funeral services were held at her late home Tuesday afternoon, in charge of Rev. Harry Lutz, pastor of Channing church, and the interment was at Newton Cemetery.

—At the meeting of the Men's Club of Grace Church, held Monday evening in the parish house, City Forester Bucknam gave a very interesting lecture on "Parks and Playgrounds." At the close of the lecture, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mr. A. N. Bullens, president; Mr. Walter R. Forbush, vice-president; Mr. Herbert H. Howe, secretary and treasurer. Executive Committee, Mr. E. N. Pierce, Mr. Frank Justice, Mr. William Hanson and Mr. Frank M. Barber.

—The Newtons were well represented at a concert by advanced students of the New England Conservatory of Music, given at Jordan Hall in the Conservatory Building on Monday evening, April 16th. Miss Helen Chapin of Newton Centre rendered Rheinberger's Sonata in E minor for the organ, evincing a perfect mastery of the great instrument given by Eben D. Jordan to the Conservatory, and the Misses Mae G. and Wilhelmina G. Cotton of Newtonville rendered Schumann's Variations in B flat for two pianofortes. Both numbers were received with enthusiastic applause by a large audience.

DIED
 ALDEN—At Newton, April 14, Elizabeth A., widow of George E. Alden, aged 78 years.

THEATRES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.—Something decidedly new and novel in the way of vaudeville productions is announced for B. F. Keith's Theatre next week, in Joseph Hart's latest production, "The Opening Night," a forty-five minute playlet in three scenes, written by George V. Hobart. "The Opening Night" tells an intensely interesting story full of fun, pathos, and realism, and is in three scenes. The first picture shows a flat in the Bronx, New York City; the second the exterior of St. Gregory's Church, and the last the stage of the new "Uncle Sam" Theatre in the Bronx, on its opening night. A company of twenty-five comedians, including a church choir of exceptional ability, is required to present this striking novelty. "The Opening Night" will be but one feature of a splendid bill, a big spectacular number being B. A. Rolfe's "Courtiers," a brilliant company of musicians, who dress in Colonial costume and appear in a beautiful stage setting. Nate Leppla, a great German trickerster; Harry H. Richards and Bessie Kyle in a comedy called "A Regular Club Fellow"; Lew Brice and Lillian Gonne, two clever kinds; and Dean and Price in a novel specialty.

BOSTON THEATRE.—One of the pleasing announcements of the Spring season is the re-entry to the legitimate stage of Andrew Mack, the sweet-voiced tenor, who will again be seen in his famous romantic character of Tom Moore. Andrew Mack is too well known both for his portrayal of these dashing Irish romantic roles and his sweet, silvery singing voice to need further introduction to the theatre-goers, but a few words regarding a play woven around the incidents in the life of the celebrated Tom Moore are always of interest to the admirers of his poems and works. In fact, there are few, if any, of the Irish celebrities today who hold the warm place in the hearts of the public the world over as that occupied by the memory of Tom Moore. Theodore Burt Sayre, who has put the character of Tom Moore in stage story form for Mr. Mack has built an absorbing lifelike tale of the incidents in the career of Tom Moore that have become historical facts.

—The citizens of Auburndale held a meeting Monday evening at LaSalle Seminary, the object of which was to start a Civic League, a non-partisan movement to ascertain the sort of men qualified for public office. The next meeting will be held Monday evening, April 29. Dr. Winslow, Dr. Godfrey and Mr. H. A. Wentworth are among the gentlemen interested in the movement.

—Mr. Lincoln Steffens gave a stirring address on the Labor Question Monday evening before the Auburndale Brotherhood at their meeting and banquet in the Chapel of the Congregational Church. He also gave a graphic account of his experiences in the San Francisco exposures and dynamiting episodes which was highly interesting. The large audience was aroused by the earnestness and eloquence of his delivery and the meeting closed with an animated and exciting discussion.

MINSTREL SHOW

A most enjoyable program was presented on Friday and Saturday evenings at the Minstrel Show given in Lincoln Hall, Newton Highlands, under the auspices of the choir of St. Paul's Church. Enthusiastic audiences that taxed the capacity of the hall were present at both performances. The entertainment was replete with good singing and bright local hits and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. Mr. Stewart Bosson scored a big hit as the "Rube" end-man. He was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Paul Revere Knight. Mr. Ralph Menard as the female impersonator came in for a large share of applause. The song, "The Girl of the Red, White and Blue," was beautifully rendered by Master Harold Collins, who appeared in girls costume and merited the enthusiastic applause he received. The solos by Mr. Harry C. Ayer were also received with much enthusiasm and Mr. Gus Ulmer as bass soloist was justly popular with the audience. The chorus singing was real "classy" and the solos by the end-men the best ever. Great credit is due Mr. E. H. Robinson who directed the rehearsals and composed the finale, "Be True to the Flag," especially for this occasion. The Two Belles by the Misses Lucas and Nutter were well received, as was also the singing by Mr. E. S. Drowne.

The Interlocutor was Mr. Howard Whitmore. The end-men, Mr. Stewart Bosson, Mr. H. E. Johnson, Mr. C. F. Johnson and Mr. Colby.

Master James Guiler and Master John Lowell both sang very creditably. Members of the chorus were Paul Tewksbury, P. S. Sampson, H. G. Hawkes, E. W. Fisher, A. E. Freeman, T. P. Pratt, W. Brown, C. P. Tobin, F. O. Lindstrom, M. Wrigley, R. W. Guiler, W. H. Chappell, J. R. Sweeney, P. E. Bent, H. P. Newell, J. B. Dawson, G. H. Hardie, James Guiler, J. C. Ackroyd, S. W. Torrey, A. R. Torrey, P. A. Jones, K. G. Dow, J. A. Lowell, J. Kingman, W. G. Sampson, T. T. Huckleby, S. C. Johnson, E. S. Drowne, R. Huntman, R. H. Johnson, A. M. Lowe, G. A. Duke, E. H. Cooper, E. F. Cady, C. A. Clark, F. W. Cole, J. H. Turabull, F. W. Johnson.

The orchestra was composed of R. W. Stearns, trombone; A. Benbow, drums; J. M. L. Ramseyer, cello; S. R. Smith, cornet; H. W. Dowd, 1st violin; J. H. DeGross, 1st violin; E. F. Habershtro, 2d violin.

SARAH HULL CHAPTER

A meeting of the Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R., was held at the Newton Club House on Wednesday. After the business hour a fine entertainment in charge of Mrs. S. L. Eaton was given and consisted of a four-act comedy, "Betsey of Baltimore," given by Miss Iza Roberts of Boston. It was indeed a rare treat. The hostesses were Mrs. William F. Bacon, Miss Kate W. Fox, Mrs. Samuel L. Eaton, Mrs. John Leavitt, Mrs. Adelbert Fernald, Mrs. T. W. Trowbridge.

"Tommy," said his brother, "you're a regular little glutton. How can you eat so much?" "Don't know; it's just good luck," replied the youngster.—Christian Intelligencer.

AUTOMOBILE SMASHED

An automobile containing Mr. Harry N. Atwood, the aviator, his father, Mr. Samuel S. Atwood, Mrs. Atwood, Miss Hilda M. Norman and Leo F. Melanson, the chauffeur, ran into an electric car, Saturday evening on Auburn street, Auburndale. The accident took place where the tracks to Riverside cross Auburn street, and Mr. Atwood claims that the car did not stop before it moved across the street. The railway officials state that the usual stop was made, but Mr. Atwood was driving so fast that he was unable to stop his machine. The automobile was badly wrecked. Mr. Atwood, senior, received a broken knee and the rest of the party were shaken up.

ALCOHOL CHAT

Points for your consideration. We have always had a respect for our business, particularly that part of it which relates to the manufacture of Alcohol. We have earnestly tried since February 2, 1872, to make the products of our Still, (Alcohol and Spirits) the best types of their kind. It is possible now to obtain from leading family Druggists and Grocers, Graves' Grain Alcohol in sealed 8, 15, and 32 ounce bottles, each of which has over the cork a strip label bearing our firm name signature. If your dealer can't supply you, he is missing an opportunity to give you the best thing made in Alcohol. If he wants to substitute on Alcohol, might he not want to substitute on something else? Ask for what you want and insist on getting it.

EDITORIAL

For President,
WILLIAM H. TAFT

UNDER THE GILDED DOGE

The message of the Governor sending in the "City of Boston" bill, which was mentioned in this column last week, was heard by the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs on Wednesday. The Massachusetts Exchange which is the ostensible father of the measure was present in force to favor its ill considered offspring and it was also favored by a few of the men who have always urged annexation measures. Mr. Slocum briefly opposed it saying it contained nothing new and was not worth discussing, and ex-mayor Johnson of Waltham said it was a colossal humbug. Weston, Lynn and Brookline also had representatives in opposition. There is little danger that the measure will receive a favorable report and the splendid work done by Alderman Miller and his associates on the Legislative committee of the Newton aldermen on similar measures, insure a speedy interment when it is reported.

The public opinion bill was defeated in the Senate by a close vote and the referendum amendment to the constitution had a large majority in the House but not the necessary two thirds. In the House the past week, Mr. Bothfield favored passing the bill over the Governor's veto in the matter of obtaining employees for state institutions, and Mr. Ellis and Mr. White voted to sustain the governor. The vote was sustained although the bill had a good majority. All three representatives favored the voting-machine bill, so-called, voted against the increase in salary of a messenger on the Treasurer's department, in favor of the increase in salary of the judges of the land court, against the increase in salaries in the adjutant general's department, and against ratifying the income tax amendment to the national constitution, which passed 116 to 94. The county commissioners of Middlesex were authorized to build a district court house in Cambridge at a cost of $50,000 and incidentally increasing the salaries of the commissioners from $2000 to $2500 has been moving along its legislative path.

In the Senate the demand for a constitutional convention to amend the national constitution so as to provide for a direct election of U. S. senators was modified so as to call upon the Congress to propose this amendment in the usual way. As a constitutional convention would have power to open up any question when it met, the Senate has adopted the far wiser course, in these times when the foundations of the constitution are being threatened.

SCHOOL GARDENS

After the unusually severe winter, it is with pleasure we look forward to spring days, and out-door employment.

At this time we are making plans for helping our small citizens in the School Gardens.

The work last season was encouraging and we assure our friends that this year we expect to do very much better.

We need money to pay for the services of a director who will teach the children and keep order, and for seeds and tools.

Please remember us as you have kindly done in the past by generous contributions. We promise better results through the careful work of interested and happy children.

ONE OF THE COMMITTEE.
April 17th, 1912.

Contributions may be sent to Mrs. L. S. Drake, chairman, 24 Bennington street, Newton, or to any members of the committee: Miss Fannie M. Adams, Mrs. J. F. Bothfield, Mrs. Joseph L. Colby, Mrs. Frank A. Day, Mrs. Percy N. Kenway, Mrs. Clarence C. Smith, Mrs. E. W. Townsend, Mrs. Charles O. Tucker, Mrs. Fred H. Tucker.

SPENCER-SELFRIDGE

The wedding of Mr. Frank S. Spencer of Hunnewell Hill, Newton and Miss Lillian Selfridge, the granddaughter of Mrs. O. B. Selfridge of Lima, Ohio, took place on Wednesday evening at the Market Street Presbyterian Church at Lima. The bride wore a gown of white charmeuse material, trimmed with princess lace, and a tulle veil fastened with pearl band. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and Kaiserine roses. The maid of honor was Miss Anna K. Spencer of Newton, sister of the groom. The bridesmaids were the Misses Marie Decker, Marguerite Mitchell, Evelyn Davison and Edith Finlay, all of Lima. They wore gowns of shaded green cloth over white crepe material and carried shower bouquets of Kaiserine roses, fern and sweet peas.

Mr. Frederic C. Spencer of Newton, brother of the groom was the best man and the ushers were the Messrs. Bryce and Calvin Selfridge of Lima. James H. Hughes of Cleveland and Richard H. Gould of Newton Upper Falls.

A largely attended reception followed at the Elks' Club, the house being decorated with green, pink roses, snailsh and baskets of sweet peas. After a wedding trip in the South, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer will make their home in Boston.

COLLEGE TEA

Miss Helen Louise Gustin of Gramercy street was the hostess last Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at a college tea. Miss Gustin and her mother, Mrs. Clinton Homer Scovill received and about 150 young ladies, mostly friends of Miss Gustin from Radcliffe college were present. The dining room was most attractive, the color scheme of pink being carried out in the decorations and in the pink tulips and candle shades on the tables. Miss Gustin was assisted at the tables by the Misses Natalie Walker, Lucy Phinney, Elizabeth Jackson, Cornelia Love, Mildred Clark, Elizabeth Cooper, and Marie Johnston, all of Radcliffe College. Miss Julia Schmalz and Miss Dorothy Clark of Wellesley College and Miss Norma Allen of Simmons College.

WHY RENOMINATE PRESIDENT TAFT?

Congressman Weeks States Many Reasons to Newton Republicans

In response to an inquiry of Congressman John W. Weeks for a statement of reasons why Republicans should support President Taft for a renomination, I have received the following reply:—
April 18, 1912.

Dear Mr. Brimblecom:—

I take pleasure in replying to your request for my reasons for advocating President Taft's renomination. It is always good public policy to renominate a President when he is a candidate for a second term, if his service during his first term has been satisfactory and the Republican party has never failed in its more than fifty years' existence in giving a President, elected as such by its one renomination if he were a candidate; on the other hand it refused to give its most popular President (General Grant) a third nomination when he was a candidate for a third term.

But you ask has Mr. Taft been a satisfactory President?

To this my reply would be that I believe any intelligent examination of his record will demonstrate that if accomplishment is the standard on which to base satisfaction, then I believe it should be most satisfactory. No President in the history of our Government has succeeded in getting so many party platform promises on the statute books in the Congress succeeding his election as he. Your space will not permit me to go into detail in enumerating the successes of his administration which include, a sane conservation of natural resources.

A positive advance in Forestry Legislation.

A successful attempt to obtain accurate information to be used in connection with tariff revisions.

A thorough overhauling of department organizations bringing about large economies.

A foreign policy which has combined firmness, moderation and skill to such a degree that many critical situations have been adjusted in such manner that the prestige of our country has been greatly advanced and we are on the most friendly relations with all nations.

Postal Savings Bank Legislation, which has produced results far in excess of those anticipated by its most enthusiastic advocates.

He, in spite of great opposition, secured amendments to the Interstate Commerce Commission to safeguard the public interest and provide for the creation of a Commerce Court, a measure of great importance to both railroads and shippers.

A stock and bond commission has been created and has reported a method to be applied to future issues of railroad securities.

Collecting customs duties has been reformed and many rich smugglers have been obliged to disgorge.

Publication of election receipts and expenditures has been decreed by Act of Congress.

An income tax amendment has been brought to a successful issue.

The President has thrown his great influence in favor of broadening the scope of the Hague Tribunal and has consummated many arbitration treaties.

The Bureau of Mines has been established, the scope of the safety-appliance act has been widened, the enactment of the boiler inspection law and the workmen's compensation and employers' liability acts have been advanced—all of these being of special value to the wage earner.

These are only a few of the acts of the administration which have received general approval, in addition to which the President has enforced the laws as he has found them and has obeyed the laws himself.

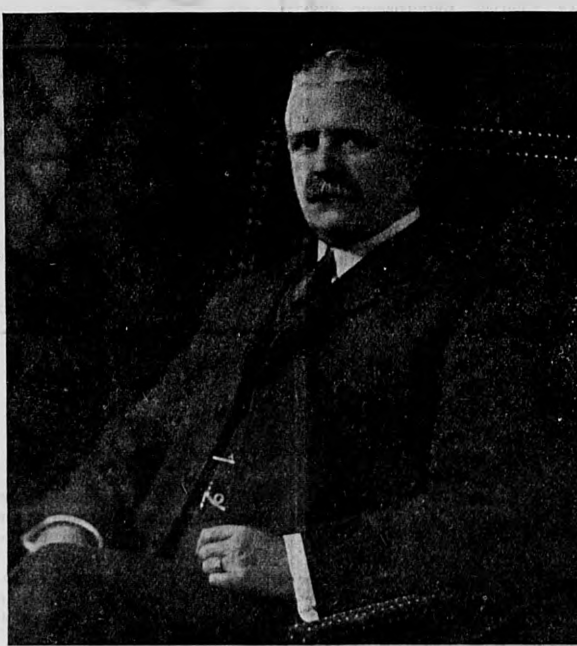

Those are some of the positive reasons why I support the President; there are equally positive ones why I do not support his opponent. Colonel Roosevelt has already served as President substantially two terms and I am opposed to extending that period in the Presidential office to any man.

But even if such action were advisable in the case of another, Colonel Roosevelt could not properly take advantage of it because he made a solemn promise to the people of the United States that under no circumstances would he accept another nomination. In addition to this he wrote last year, that no friend of his would mention his name as a candidate for the Presidency, adding that any movement in his behalf would be a "genuine calamity" and he has repeatedly stated in public and to his friends, as recently as within three months, that he was not and would not be a candidate.

People may forget that he has been treacherous to his friend, President Taft, or that he has plotted with and against the Wisconsin Senator, but they should remember and compel him to observe his promise not to run again. However, even if the field were open to him as it properly is to others to be candidates for the Presidency, I am opposed to the platform which he advocates.

I see nothing but disorder and dis-appointment in the New Nationalism and I have no sympathy whatever either with the recall of the Judiciary or, worse, of Judicial decisions. I believe in representative Government based on principles, not persons, and in an independent Judiciary; without these the stability of our Government is gone and we sink to the level of Mexico or to even more unstable States. Colonel Roosevelt should remember that he has been greatly honored by the Republican party and not become a wreck, not only of his party but of his own reputation.

JOHN W. WEEKS.

The Newton Taft League was organized this week at a meeting of Newton Republicans and these officers chosen:

President, Hon. George Hutchinson. Vice presidents, Charles E. Riley, Paul Champagne, Charles F. Avery, Edward K. Hall, Henry B. Day, Vernon E. Carpenter, Edward J. Frost.

IMMANUEL ASSOCIATES PERFORM

The Immanuel Associates of the Immanuel Baptist Church pleased a large audience Tuesday evening at the Hunnewell club house when it presented the three-act comedy, "The Elopement of Ellen," under the direction of Mr. Fullerton C. Vose.

The play has its foundation in a college famous for pretty girls particularly among them June Haverhill in the person of Edith L. Cotton, who has successfully appeared in previous theatricals. She is much interested in household economics and coming to the home of a nearby resident, as a maid she meets, much to her discomfort, two young men she had met previously. Many trying scenes are endured in her position, but all ends well, for in time she comes with the son of her employer. Many humorous and pleasing scenes were introduced during the performance and the cast was awarded generous applause. Those who assisted Miss Cotton in the production were Florence E. Burnham, Georgia M. Winslow, William H. Cady, Fullerton C. Vose, Beverly G. Secord and Harold Moore.

William D. Ward acted as head usher and was assisted by Samuel A. Gardner, Walter H. Paine and Richard M. Hill. Theodore H. Morton was stage manager and D. Webster Anders arranged the program.

Officers of the Association are: President, Harold Moore; vice-president, Fred W. Hubbard and secretary-treasurer, William H. Cady.

CONGREGATIONALISTS MEET

The 71st meeting of the Suffolk West Association of Congregational churches was held Wednesday afternoon and evening at the West Newton Congregational Church. In the afternoon, addresses were made by Rev. William A. Knight of Brighton on "Dwelling with the King for His Work," by Supt. of Schools William D. Parkinson of Waltham, and Mr. Charles Swain Thomas of the Newton High School on "The Home, the School and the Church," and by Rev. Samuel W. Dike of Auburndale on "The Efficient Organization of the Local Church." There was a banquet for about 125 at six o'clock with Mr. George W. Kimball as toastmaster. In the evening there were devotions, led by Rev. E. E. Shumaker of the Shawmut Church and Rev. C. A. Vincent of Roxbury spoke on "The Challenge to the City Church," and Rev. A. W. Vernon of Brookline on "The Challenge to the Suburban Church."

HEARING

Boston, Mass., April 16, 1912.
To the Board of Aldermen
of the City of Newton.

Gentlemen:
The West End Street Railway Company, by the Boston Elevated Railway Company, its Attorney, respectfully petitions to be allowed to maintain and use an alteration of and an addition to its existing locations as follows:

In Monument Square, double curved tracks from the north at Centre Street and double curved tracks from the east at Washington Street, connecting with double curved tracks petitioned for by the Middlesex and Boston Street Railway Company, substantially as shown by red lines on plan of A. L. Plimpton, Civil Engineer, dated, April 15th, 1912, filed herewith, together with all necessary curves, cross-overs, switches and connections; said alterations being in substitution for existing tracks as shown by dotted black lines on the aforesaid plan.

Also, that permission be given said company to establish and maintain the overhead single trolley electric system of motive power in the operation of its cars on said new tracks, to erect, maintain and use the necessary poles, also wires, appliances and electrical appliances and apparatus and to make the under-ground and surface alterations of the streets necessary for that purpose.

West End Street Railway Company, By Boston Elevated Railway Company, its Attorney,
By WM. A. BANCROFT, President.

In Board of Aldermen, April 15, 1912. Upon the foregoing petition it is ordered by the Board of Aldermen of the City of Newton that a hearing be had thereon on Monday, the 6th day of May, 1912, at 7.45 o'clock p. m., before said Board in the City Hall, in that part of said Newton called West Newton, and that notice of the time and place of such hearing be given by publication of the foregoing petition and this order thereon fourteen days at least before the day of said hearing in the following newspaper published in said City of Newton: Newton Graphic.

By order of the Board,
FRANK M. GRANT, Clerk.

Notice is hereby given, that the subscribers have been duly appointed executors of the will of Martha E. Boynton, late of Newtonville, in the County of Middlesex, State of Massachusetts, deceased, testate, and have taken upon themselves that trust by giving bond. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to the subscribers.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURY, Editor.

Club women all over the country are beginning to turn their minds toward San Francisco and the biennial of the General Federation. The Massachusetts delegation will leave Boston on June 17 and the option of several routes is offered. Already the Massachusetts State Federation has received a number of entreaties along the way. A recent invitation is that of the Seattle Federation of Women's Clubs together with the Chamber of Commerce of that city to be their guests during the stay there July 8 and 9. The clubs of Salt Lake City have also sent a similar invitation. Hospitality of this sort indicates the fraternal feeling among the club women of the country and is one of the sources of the strength of the club movement.

The Newton Centre Woman's Club has just completed its twenty-fifth year and in recognition of this fact the charter members and honorary members are invited to join the club at luncheon at the Brae Burn Club on Thursday of last week. The occasion was delightful in bringing old friends together and giving opportunity for leisurely converse before the business of the annual meeting.

The president, Mrs. William E. Shedd, presiding, the time-honored custom was followed of opening the business meeting with a prayer, offered by Mrs. Bertrand E. Taylor. After the address of the president there followed annual reports from the secretary, Mrs. Ewing; the treasurer, Mrs. Charles L. Smith; the auditor; the corresponding secretary; the chairman of the lecture committee, Mrs. Frank H. Stewart; the social service committee, Mrs. Frank E. Anderson; the current events committee, Mrs. John A. Daniels; the social and hospitality committee, Mrs. F. H. Williams; and the membership committee, Mrs. W. W. Webber. The changes in the constitution as previously recommended by the board were next brought up and voted upon. Then came the report of the nominating committee from Mrs. H. H. Kendall, followed by the election of these officers: President, Mrs. Frank H. Stewart; Vice presidents, Mrs. Albert M. Fowle and Mrs. Morton E. Cobb; recording secretary, Mrs. George C. Ewing; treasurer, Mrs. Charles L. Smith; corresponding secretary, Miss Helen Fellows; auditor, Mrs. B. P. Gray. Mrs. H. H. Kendall gave a report of the work of the Playground League, of which Newton has reason to be proud; Mrs. B. E. Taylor spoke for the Newton Federation; and Mrs. Bailey, on the value of State and General Federation work.

The West Newton Woman's Educational Club held its last regular meeting of the year at Players' small hall on Friday, April 12, Mrs. Thomas M. Elwell, president, in the chair. It was a happy day and many donations were received for the Newton Hospital. The afternoon was in charge of Mrs. George D. Byfield and Mrs. George Ashenden. A delightful musical program was rendered by Miss Van Cleave's orchestra. The speaker on this occasion was Mrs. Francis B. Hornbrook, who gave an exceptionally fine paper on "Florence Nightingale and the Evolution of Modern Nursing." At the close of the meeting a social hour was enjoyed in the tea room which was most artistically decorated by Mrs. F. E. Nowers and Mrs. Z. A. Van Wart. The color scheme was yellow and partook of the spirit of Easter. The pourers were Mrs. Alvin H. Clifford and Mrs. Robert Gorton. The ladies assisting, Mrs. F. E. Nowers, Mrs. R. A. Van Wart, Mrs. F. L. Cook, Mrs. Quinn and Mrs. Ernest Robinson.

On Tuesday the members of the Newtonville Woman's Guild met at the New Church at one-thirty for luncheon, which was followed by the business of the annual meeting. The reports were full of interest and showed the completion of a good year by this energetic club. The treasurer's report shows that the club has in addition to the necessary running expenses, given $10 to the Flower Mission, $10 to the School Gardens, has purchased two season tickets for the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, $5 for a prize medal awarded a high scholar and raised $133.05 for the Bureau of Newton Activities. All this was besides the usual charities, which includes $150 for the Nonantum Day Nursery Association, $100 for the Newton Hospital, $25 for the District Nursing Association and $25 for the Associated Charities. Two new committee chairmen were elected, Mrs. Fred Mann for the Social committee and Miss Margaret McGill for the Program committee. The following list of officers for next year were elected: President, Mrs. Irving O. Palmer; vice presidents, Mrs. H. V. Jones, Mrs. Samuel Thurber, Jr., Mrs. F. W. Pray, Mrs. J. L. Jellerson, Mrs. E. E. Davidson, Mrs. W. O. Hunt, Mrs. F. E. Spaulding, Mrs. E. K. Hall, Mrs. John Martin, Mrs. Maynard Maxim, Mrs. C. W. Rolfe, Mrs. T. A. Hildreth; recording secretary, Mrs. J. J. Fossenden; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. W. Thayer; clerk, Mrs. Nathaniel Adams; treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Byers; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Lincoln Righter; auditor, Mrs. F. J. Hartshorn; chairman of finance, Mrs. E. E. Hopkins; directors (terms to expire 1916), Mrs. W. H. Allen, Mrs. A. C. Molr.

Mrs. Enoch C. Adams, retiring president, Mrs. H. H. Carter, for a long time chairman of finance and now retiring and Mrs. W. P. Upham, the retiring chairman of the Social committee, all received flowers. At the close of the business meeting Miss Sarah A. Drew, a member of the State Federation Art department, spoke upon the appreciation of pictures.

Mrs. Francis E. Stanley, one of the vice-presidents, was in the chair at the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning. After a brief business meeting Captain Hughes of the Salvation Army spoke concerning the work of that organization along philanthropic lines.

He said in opening his talk that the work has been much misunderstood, but that is nothing new. The Army seeks to bring out the better side of people and no one is ever turned away. If the sinner falls again and again, he is helped again and again until he can help himself. The outcast is given food and lodging and he pays in work. Forty-four thousand were given employment last year through the handling of the cast off articles contributed. Out of 6292 rescued girls, satisfactory employment was found for 5589. Five hundred and twenty-eight day schools have been established to educate children. Every case is investigated, but none are turned away because of color or religion. Fresh air farms have been established where each child is given a stay of two weeks and the mothers often accompany them.

He spoke of the large attendance at their Sunday Schools and of the conversion oftentimes of the parents through the children. Concerning the financial management he stated that only about 25 per cent is used for expenses, although it has been reported that a much larger portion is thus used.

The New England headquarters is located in the People's Palace and there also are 287 rooms, which are rented, bringing in from 25 to 35 cents per bed. He stated that gifts of clothing, shoes, etc., are always acceptable as also the ever useful check. A rising vote of thanks was given the speaker for the interesting account of this work.

from ten o'clock in the morning until three in the afternoon. Luncheon will be served at 1 P. M. A most attractive program has been arranged for the occasion.

At the last meeting of the Pierian Club of Upper Falls, Mrs. Joseph Temperley entertained at the home of Mrs. Charles Mills. Mrs. W. M. Mick of Newton Centre gave a talk upon Shakespeare's plays depicting particularly the character of King Lear.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands had a very interesting afternoon this week at the home of Mrs. C. T. Bartlett, president of the club. Mrs. Calliope Baites spoke upon "Greeks in America." Mrs. Baites told of personal work among the foreigners in the city of Lowell, of the assistance given to poor unfortunates in the hospitals, who from ignorance and lack of knowledge of English fail to comprehend what the doctors are trying to do for them. She said that while the men are obliged to attend the night schools, it is not compulsory for the women, and she wished that it might be, for so many of the women do not learn the language and thereby become more or less handicapped to the men. She showed many pictures of the Greek girls and her whole talk was much enjoyed. Piano duets were rendered by Mrs. Wallace and Mrs. Robbins. A social hour with refreshments closed the afternoon.

GYPSY MOTHS LIVE HIGH

Several millions gypsy moth caterpillars are fed on lettuce in greenhouses in Waban. They have been hatched artificially and grow fast on their juicy food, being now in their third or fourth molt.

They eat themselves to death, and after they are dead they will cause others to die. Instead of being given respectable burial they will be carted into forest lands of the State and suspended in the air so as to poison the atmosphere where their kin live in greatest numbers. Their wilted bodies will rest in little hammocks near the tree tops during the hot season, and the ground below them may become littered with the dead bodies of gypsies, poisoned by their presence. Thousands of places have been designated already as the final resting places of these lettuce-fed caterpillars from Waban.

Such, in general terms, is the cycle of the wilt disease with which the State forester, Professor F. W. Rane, has experimented for some time and which he has adopted as a means of exterminating the gypsy moths.

Those lettuce heads on which the sick stock in the Waban greenhouses is fed cost the State about $50 a week. Almost one thousand heads a week are required to feed them, and they will eat much more as they grow larger. Cabbage has been tried, but it is not so profitable a feed, scientifically, as lettuce.

A lettuce diet was selected for scientific reasons. Only the scientists can tell how it all happens, but it has been demonstrated to be a practical fact that lettuce gives the gypsy caterpillars the wilt disease. It has to be treated before it is fed to them, but the treatment is simple. The lettuce heads are merely soaked in water, and the combination of lettuce and water not only kill the caterpillars but loads their bodies with a poison or disease that infects all their neighbors.

Where there are only a few clusters of gypsy moth eggs this disease cannot be used to advantage yet, and those clusters should be creosoted at once. By the 10th day of May the eggs will hatch, under normal weather, and the caterpillars will escape into the trees. Orchards which have not been cleaned of gypsy moths should be cleaned without delay.

NEW CHAPEL OPENED

The chapel at Mt. Ida School was formally opened on Friday evening. Professor E. C. Moore, preacher at Harvard University and also professor of religion at that institution, conducted the service and gave an interesting address on the subject of "Christian Idealism." At the close of the exercises, Professor Archibald T. Davison of Harvard University, gave an organ recital showing the scope and possibilities of the new organ which has recently been installed. The organ which has been carefully constructed mechanically, was built under the direction of Professor Davison and has two manuals and over 700 pipes and is capable of twenty variations. Mr. Davison was assisted by Mr. Kidder, soloist of the Harvard Glee Club. The new chapel has a seating capacity of 125 and nearly every seat was occupied by the students and faculty.

A NEW MINISTER IN NEWTON

At the recent session of the New England Conference the Rev. J. Edwin Lacombe of Hudson was appointed by Bishop William Burt to succeed Rev. Geo. S. Butters at the Newton Methodist Episcopal Church. Mr. Lacombe is the son of Mr. Eugene Lacombe of Somerville and a grandson of the Rev. E. D. Lacombe who gave many years to the ministry in Massachusetts. He prepared for college at the Somerville Latin School and graduated in arts from Boston University in 1899 and received his S. T. B. in 1903. That year he joined the New England Conference and was stationed at Newton Lower Falls, where he remained two years and from there was sent to Gardner, where he served three years. From Gardner he came to Hudson and he had completed four years when he was sent to Newton. Mr. Lacombe is an attractive man and has been very successful in his ministry thus far. He is a clear and strong preacher, is dignified in bearing, has an enviable reputation as a scholar and is a thoroughly trained minister. He has marked social gifts and is a musician of taste and cultivation. His wife was Miss Sarah Gage and she is also a Boston University student and Mrs. Lacombe has added great efficiency to her husband's ministry. They have three children, a boy, and two little girls. Mr. Lacombe is peculiarly adapted to Christian work in this community and the people of Newton will greatly enjoy his ministry. We predict and wish for him marked success at the Newton Methodist Episcopal Church.

MRS. WILKINSON DEAD

Mrs. Emily Grant-Wilkinson, the daughter of Erasmus and Lucy Grant, passed away at the Boston Homeopathic hospital Monday morning at 12.30 o'clock after an illness of several months. She was born in Nashua and when six years old went to Rhode Island returning here at the age of 11, where she continued her studies in the public schools and at the Crosby Institute on Park street. While still quite young she showed marked musical ability and studied with the late E. T. Baldwin who later moved to Manchester. She studied the organ in Berlin, Germany, with August Haupt, the leading organ teacher of the world, and the piano with Madame Schiller and with Sherwood and Behrmann, three prominent teachers in Boston.

Mrs. Wilkinson played the piano at the first peace jubilee in Boston. In the early 70's she had much to do with moulding the trend of music in Nashua and was one of the organizers and pianists of the old Orpheus Glee club. She was organist at Pilgrim Congregational church and it was during her service there, the organ in use at the present time, was purchased. She was also organist at the Church of the Good Shepherd. Accepting the position of organist at the Warren Avenue Baptist church she moved to Boston and for the past 15 years made her home on Carleton street, Newton. Mrs. Wilkinson served as organist at Berkeley Temple and for 13 years was organist at Tremont Temple. She had also played the organ at a number of other Boston churches and was a member of the American Guild of organists. She was surpassed by none as a teacher of the organ and piano, having natural aptitude for imparting her knowledge to others. Her sight reading and transportation easily marked her as a genius. Mrs. Wilkinson did a great deal of musical work among the poor and taught a good many worthy young people without a thought of recompense, being generous to a fault.

She is survived by her husband George W. Wilkinson, to whom she was married in November 1894. The funeral services were held Wednesday morning in Lorimer hall, Tremont Temple, Boston, Mass., and interment was in Woodlawn cemetery.

STRONG PROTESTS AGAINST DRUGGISTS' LICENSES

Waterhouse, Thomas W. White, William Hahn, John J. Noble, Walter E. Mars, Hermon G. Spaulding, Winthrop M. Quinlan, Walter G. Colligan, Wilber A. Paine, Hiram G. Martin, Arthur Hudson.

All the members were present save Alderman Williamson, and President Gray was in the chair.

Mr. H. S. Allen favored the petition of the Telephone Co. for poles on Bowers street, and no one appeared at the hearing on petition of A. M. Boothby to use gasoline on Crafts street. Mr. O. W. Walker favored a concrete sidewalk under the betterment law on Beacon street, near Walnut street, saying that for 12 years this walk had been very poor in the spring, fall and winter. It was much used by persons taking the cars and by school children. Mr. W. Z. Ripley sent a written protest.

Mayor Hatfield sent in communications favoring requests of the board of health for $3,416.66 additional for garbage contract, and $700 for tuberculosis work.

Petitions were received from John Franey relative to personal injuries, Mumford et al for sewers in Stearns and Clark streets, L. E. Coffin for sewer in Lewis street, A. L. Moriarty for personal injuries, the Telephone Company for attachments on East side Parkway, Sylvan avenue and Suffolk road, Paul Champagne relative to injuries to horse, Laubner et al for sewer in Ward street, Hunt et al for street sprinkling on Parker street, and the N. & W. Gas Light Co. to open certain streets for laying mains. Hearings were ordered on May 6 on petitions of H. C. Wiggins to keep gasoline on Marlboro street, Marion, Raymond, on Otis street, and George Deffen on Park street, and on petitions of the Boston Elevated and the Middlesex and Boston Co. for connecting tracks in Nonantum square.

Petitions of William P. Sweeney for common victualler license, of Daniel P. Lynch for a wagon license and of James W. Fenno for auctioneer license were granted.

These licenses were also granted: Billiard Tables, Bowling Alleys, Pool Tables; Sweeney & Cronin, Michael L. Flaherty, George F. Hall, Neighborhood Club, W. H. On recommendations of committees, $89,994.94 was granted for city expenses, $75 appropriated for settlement of claim of William T. Farley, $1560 appropriated for purchase of an air compressor for Street Department, the Edison Co. granted attachments on Woodland road, Washington street, and Mills street, concrete sidewalks under the betterment act laid on Winona street and Ware road, sewer ordered in Hull street, $1941 appropriated for sewer construction work, $800 appropriated for purchase of automobile for the Buildings Department, $275 authorized for clerical assistance for Police Department, $250 additional for sewer in Kenmore road and the rule of the board relative to ordinances changed and simplified.

Leave to withdraw was given on matter of sewer in East side Parkway, on the petitions of J. Rootier, Hyman Melman and Morris Shuman for junk licenses, and no action necessary reported on matter of sewer in Bracebridge road.

Hearings were ordered for May 6 on the widening of Margin and Chestnut streets under the betterment act.

The action taken at the last meeting in granting leave to withdraw on the laying out of Dunster road was reconsidered and the matter referred to committee again.

On motion of Alderman Moore the mayor was requested to confer with the B. & A. officials relative to the widening of bridge over Boylston street.

FAVORS DRUGGISTS' LICENSES

Full Report of Aldermanic Committee on 6th Class Licenses

The Committee on Public Franchises and Licenses has transmitted its recommendations for licenses of the several classes which this board has jurisdiction to grant, and in addition thereto would submit this further report:

Its attention has been called to statements and figures appearing in certain local papers respecting sales of spirituous liquors by druggists holding Sixth-Class Licenses granted by this Board. Those figures were deductions made from tabulations transmitted monthly by this Committee to the members of this Board and as far as stated were approximately correct. Their publication has aroused in the minds of some a fear that conditions in Newton are notorious, that our drug stores are in effect saloons, and Newton instead of being a no-license city, is a license city notwithstanding a four to one no-license vote at the last election.

The attitude of your Committee on the question of temperance is too well known to require re-assertion. It is also known that this Committee for a number of years has been studying the question of Sixth-Class Licenses and Permits to Transport Liquors. Since June 1, 1910, records of all shipments from the books of the expressmen doing business in Newton, and records of all sales, from the books required by law to be kept by druggists, have been taken and tabulated. You will pardon our stating that a representative of one of the leading temperance organizations in the Commonwealth has complimented the Committee on having made the most careful tabulation of statistics relating to Sixth-Class Licenses of any municipality brought to his attention.

The question is one of CONDITION. So long as man has an appetite for liquor, so long will liquor be manufactured and sold. Wise legislation can in a measure control, education alone can eradicate it.

What form of legislation, therefore, will result in the greatest good to the greatest number? Will conditions be improved or made worse by granting Sixth-Class Licenses?

The Statutes provide two forms of licenses under which druggists may be permitted to keep and sell spirituous liquors. The Sixth-Class License permits a druggist to sell spirituous liquors upon certificate of the purchaser that the liquor is to be used for "medicinal, mechanical, or chemical purposes." The Statutes require that at least one such license shall be granted in every city and town. The Mayor and Aldermen are SOLE judges of an applicant's fitness, and should they decide no applicant to be a fit person to hold such a license, they could by refusing to grant the license make nugatory the Statute. Should there be one fit applicant for such license in Newton and the Board should refuse to grant his application, the Board would be guilty of violating the law of the Commonwealth. The other form of license is the so-called "Certificate of Fitness" and is issued by the State Board of Pharmacy, which permits the druggist to sell spirituous liquors only upon the prescription of a registered physician, except that pure alcohol may be sold without a physician's prescription under a license issued by the United States.

It has been stated, in view of the no-license vote at the last election, that fundamentally this Board has no right to grant any Sixth-Class Licenses for the coming year. The Committee cannot adopt this conclusion. First, because the Statutes providing for an expression of the citizens as to whether licenses for the sale of liquor shall or shall not be granted, relates expressly to licenses of the first five classes and does not relate to the druggist or Sixth-Class license. As was heretofore stated, the law of the Commonwealth requires the Board to grant at least one Sixth-Class License in Newton.

Second, because its investigation has led it to the opinion that there is no general demand for a change. The Committee has corresponded with and interviewed several hundred citizens of Newton, men representing all walks in life, ministers, employers of labor in this city, former members of this government, and citizens of this Commonwealth, and citizens pronounced temperance views. With the result that less than ten per centum have favored any change. Of the business men interviewed, and who have in their employ more than fifteen hundred men, not one complained that he had been annoyed or that his business had been disturbed by the sale of liquor to his men by any Newton druggist, nor did one suggest a change from the present system of license. The Police Department reported that of the five hundred and sixty-nine arrests for disturbances and drunkenness during the past year, not one case has been traceable to a sale by any druggist of the City; nor has any citizen reported any specific case of abuse of his license by a druggist.

Irresponsible complaints have been made and in many instances made by presumably intelligent persons. Only recently a gentleman of standing in the community stated to member of this Committee, that not one third of the liquor sold by licensed druggists in Newton, was recorded in the books required to be kept by law. When requested to appear before the Committee and submit proof of his statement, he refused. Of the several complaints made during the past several years, in only one instance has the complainant been willing to favor the Committee with any statement. Third, because its investigation has led it to the opinion that conditions in Newton are better, than in many other no-license municipalities which do not grant Sixth-Class Licenses.

Newton had twenty-three licensed druggists, their total sales for a period of eight months in 1911 were 43,143 or an average of 84,380 sales for twelve months. This would indicate an average of about 2,800 sales or about nine or ten sales daily for each of the twenty-three druggists. Of these sales less than one per centum were made to women.

These figures appear large, but not so large when compared with those of a neighboring city having a population only two-thirds that of Newton, and which within a few years granted to two druggists Sixth-Class Licenses. The books of one of those druggists showed for the year 61,000 recorded sales, and of the other 67,000 recorded sales, a total of 128,000 sales, or twice as many as the total sales of all twenty-three druggists in Newton.

The total amount of money expended for liquor in the twenty-three drug stores in Newton, holding Sixth-Class Licenses, covering a period of eight months in 1911, was $19,000, or an average of $28,500 for twelve months. This would indicate average yearly sales for each store of about $1250. These twenty-three druggists sold a total of 128,000 gallons of liquor, ranging in quantities from seventeen gallons sold by one druggist to 912 gallons sold by another. To some, this variance indicates that the man selling only 17 gallons is evading the law by not having recorded his sales—this the Committee does not believe, because it has proved the amounts from the books of the express companies delivering the liquors to this druggist.

Others, that the man selling 912 gallons is not using reasonable discretion as to whom he should sell, but it must be kept in mind that location, population, popularity, and other conditions that tend to draw volume of trade may account in a measure for the difference. Covering a period of six months in 1911, as compared with the corresponding six months in 1910, eleven of these twenty-three druggists showed a decrease and eleven showed an increase in sales, and one had his license revoked by his conviction for making illegal sales.

While the Committee has not been influenced by the suggestion that a refusal to grant Sixth-Class Licenses would result in a change in the no-license vote, or that kitchen barrooms would spring up all over the city, although recent events have shown in one near-by city, the arrest in one day of twelve proprietors of such places, or that those who purchase the bulk of the liquor sold in Newton might on receiving their weekly wage go into Boston and squander what otherwise would go to their wives and families, or has it been unduly alarmed by the possibility of loss of life through inability to get quickly a necessary stimulant, yet it deems these suggestions pertinent and worthy of consideration.

The Committee would call the attention of the Board to one other phase of the liquor problem, and which from their silence, those who oppose the granting of Sixth-Class Licenses, apparently approve, viz: Permits to Transport Intoxicating Liquors.

Section 2, Chapter 421 of the Acts of 1906, requires the Mayor and Aldermen in Cities in which Licenses of the first five classes are not granted to annually grant one or more permits to transport into the City spirituous or intoxicating liquors.

The transportation business affects to a large extent a different class of citizens than the Sixth-Class Licenses business. The bulk of the sales by druggists are to citizens whose occupations are in Newton and who do not have occasion to visit Boston frequently and whose finances are such that they are precluded from purchasing liquors in quantity. With the exception of the liquor consigned to the druggists and the beer and light wines supplied the Italian colonies, (and which are only a small part of the liquor brought into and consumed in Newton) the bulk of the liquor brought into the City of Newton goes into the cellars of the rich and well to do.

Newton Aldermen have never been charged with favoring class legislation. This Board should insist on one law for all, and that law should be the same for the rich and poor. If it shall be desirable to abolish liquor from Newton let the Board be consistent and grant neither the Sixth-Class License nor the permit to Transport Liquor, but before doing that let application be made to the Massachusetts Legislature to so amend the laws that this may be done without violating existing laws.

After careful consideration in all its phases, your committee is of the opinion that it would not be justified in assuming this Board to be greater than the Law, but rather by virtue of the Law this Board must grant at least one Sixth-Class License and one Permit to Transport Liquors, and further that it voices the conservative sentiment of a majority of Citizens of Newton in stating that it believes the policy heretofore existing in granting Sixth-Class Licenses and permits to Transport Liquors, is in the interest of temperance and good morals, and that the majority of the citizens of Newton desire these two classes of licenses.

In conclusion, your Committee would record its appreciation of the honest, loyal, effective work of Chief Mitchell, Special Officer Goode, and the other members of the Police Force. To them is due the credit of keeping Newton clean and free from the conditions that exist in many of the cities and towns of Greater Boston.

THEATRES

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.—When Frances Starr makes her initial appearance here in her new play "The Case of Becky," at the Hollis Street Theatre next Monday, April 22, she will be welcomed by probably the largest and most discriminating audience of the year. The magic of David Belasco's name, coupled with his record of past performances in this city, already assures this. Miss Starr's first appearance at the Hollis has aroused, therefore, unusual expectation. Her excellent work here in former plays deserves this compliment, but the strange nature of her new drama, "The Case of Becky," written by Edward Locke and founded on a famous medical case treated and recorded by Boston's own Dr. Morton Prince, has stimulated speculation as well as interest. The play is really a romance, telling a fascinating love story. The means of the telling are, however, strange and weird.

President Taft, during the three years of his administration, has earnestly served the interests of the people, collectively, and has accomplished, in that time for them, ten times more than his predecessor ever did. He is also undoing the evils that were bequeathed to him, and pledges himself to carry corrective measures to completion, if re-elected. He now has plans under way which will effectually prevent the exactions of special privilege, and of which Colonel Roosevelt unjustly accuses him, without proposing any alternative.

It is in the interest of every sane business man, as well as all the people, in this struggle for right and justice, to re-nominate President Taft.

Requests to the amount of $70,000 to various charitable and educational institutions throughout the country, are made under the will of Oliver I. Kimball of Newton, allowed in the Probate Court at East Cambridge by Judge Morton. Mr. Kimball died January 30, and left an estate valued at $800,000 all in personal property. H. P. Wood and D. Willard Levitt of Boston, the executors, have filed a bond for $1,500,000 each.

The bequests are as follows: $10,000 each to the American Sunday School Union of Philadelphia, American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions of Boston, W. R. Moody of Northfield, Mass., for the support of two schools in that town, $5000 each to Lynn Y. M. C. A., Lynn Hospital, Lynn Home for Aged Men, Lynn Normal and Industrial Institute, Utica, Miss., and Moody Bible Institute, Chicago; $1000 each to Associated Charities of Lynn, Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, New England Watch and Ward Society, Salvation Army, Voorhes Industrial School, Denmark, S. C.; Evangelical Association of New England, Lawrence Crittenden League, Boston North End Mission, New England Sabbath Protection League and Free Home for Consumptives, Dorchester.

NEWTON HARVARD SCHOLARSHIP

The Harvard Men of Newton announce the offer of a scholarship of $150 for a Newton boy who shall be a student in Harvard College during the year 1912-1913.

Applications for this scholarship may now be received by the headmasters of the High and Technical High Schools, or by Dr. George L. West of Newton Centre.

The executive committee of the Harvard Men of Newton in whose hands rests the award of the scholarship, is as follows: Dr. George L. West, Chairman, William F. Bacon of Newton, James A. Lowell of Chestnut Hill, Frederick S. Pratt of West Newton, Thomas Weston, Jr., of West Newton, Howard Hackett of Newtonville, George W. Pratt of Newton Centre. Mr. Pratt is the treasurer of the committee.

Newton boys who are not graduates of the High School or the Technical High School are eligible for this scholarship.

LEAP YEAR PARTY

Members of the Young Woman's Club of St. John's Episcopal Church scored a prominent success both socially and financially Saturday evening, when they held the last in the series of dances at the North Gate Club. It was a Leap Year Party and was arranged and carried through entirely by the young ladies, leap year customs being strictly adhered to. The hall presented an unusually attractive appearance, being decorated for the occasion with palms and ferns, and the chandeliers festooned with red streamers and Japanese lanterns. There were forty couples in attendance, and the elegant costumes of the ladies added greatly to the beauty of the scene. The Club has more than its share of graceful dancers and Saturday evening was an occasion which they all improved, while the sterner sex was so well represented that its members had to be careful and not do the wall-flower act. A very interesting feature of the dance was two Germans, some novel figures being used. The following gentlemen acted as matrons: Messrs. Clarence N. Cook, John B. Hebbard, Norman Bankart and Elsie Avery. The ushers were Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Hebbard, Mrs. Bankart, Mrs. Avery, Miss Etta Yelland, Miss Ruth Nicholson and Miss Martha Condit.

N. H. S.

Last Friday and Saturday evenings the senior class of the Technical High School presented the play, "A Fool for Luck."

All the parts were well taken, and the stage settings were artistic and charming.

The priggish, stammering Englishman, the mirth-provoking policeman, the spinster aunt, whose efforts at chicken raising were thwarted by the blundering Bobberton, all were capital.

The Technical Orchestra contributed to the pleasure of the audience by rendering several selections under the direction of Mr. Leon Varum.

To Miss Wetherbee and Miss Davidson should be given much credit for the excellent coaching which made the play a success.

The cast included Joseph Doherty, William Connors, L. F. Carter, Harold Turner, George Kye, Mary Welch, Anna Mae Cavanaugh, Catherine Sullivan, and Della Boyd. Edward Gray was manager and was assisted by James F. C. Hyde and Fred Hawkins.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts Middlesex, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of George W. Lawrence, late of Newton, in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Joel E. Lawrence and George W. Barber, who pray that letters testamentary may be issued to them, the executors thereof named, without giving a surety on their official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex, on the twenty-ninth day of April A. D. 1912, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Newton Graphic, a newspaper published in Newton, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

FARLOW PARK HEARING

At Annual Meeting and Election of Officers of Newton Improvement Association

The assembly hall at the Hunnewell Club was well filled Tuesday evening at the annual meeting of the Newton Improvement Association, and the hearing which followed on the matter of improvements on Farlow Park.

President O. M. Fisher was in the chair and the records were read by Hon. A. R. Weed, and Mr. L. D. Towle was appointed to look into the matter.

Mr. Elliott B. Church for the playground committee reported that the committee had had the assistance of Mr. F. R. North of the National Association, and had looked over the village most carefully. At Cabot the Secretary, Grosvenor Calkins. The treasurer, Mr. F. W. Stone reported a balance of $104.39 in the treasury.

Mr. F. H. Howes made a report for the committee on Underwood school, which was printed some months ago in the Graphic, and resolutions were adopted expressing appreciation of the work done by the city government in altering and repairing that school, recommending a postponement in the matter of a public convenience.

A report from Hon. A. R. Weed for the Nonantum Square committee was read by Mr. Calkins.

Mr. F. A. Day for the committee on service of the Boston Elevated said that they had been assured that steps would be taken to relieve congestion in Nonantum square as soon as the Cambridge subway was in operation. Improvements had been made to the waiting room facilities at Oak Square. Complaints relative to the use of the large cars had been answered by the Company by an endeavor to improve the trucks and roadbed to prevent swaying, and a promise to do more in these directions. The standing cars in Nonantum Square, the company claim are necessary if cars are to start on time for Boston. Mr. Day thought the attitude of the company as being very friendly and a sincere effort to do all that was possible for its Newton patrons.

Alderman Calkins informed those present of the petitions now pending to widen tracks in Centre street to allow the use of the large cars to Cambridge and to make a physical connection between the tracks of the Elevated and those of the Newton companies. Mr. Stone thought it unwise to widen tracks even three inches in Centre street and a committee, consisting of Mr. F. A. Day, park Mr. Macpherson had undertaken the work of supervision, and the committee had finished the equipment. Later in the summer Mr. Adams had been engaged to continue the supervision, in connection with the Newtonville Association. The committee had also urged the need of supervision for all playgrounds in the city.

Mr. C. H. Barney for the nominating committee reported the following list of officers for the ensuing year and they were duly elected:—

President, Mr. Loren D. Towle; Secretary, Mr. Elliott B. Church; Treasurer, Mr. Frederick W. Stone; Executive Committee, Messrs. Frank A. Day, Hon. H. E. Bothfeld, Hon. A. R. Weed, Fred H. Tucker, Frank H. Howes, William H. Emerson and Vernon B. Sweet.

Mr. F. H. Howes made a short report for the Newton Free Library saying that the shelving was entirely inadequate for the number of books and that plans had been made for an addition which would last for 20 years. This part of Newton, Mr. Howes said was deeply interested in the library, the statistics showed that while the average use of books for the whole state was about 3 1-2 per capita, here it was 14 books per capita.

Resolutions were adopted urging immediate action by the city government on the proposed enlargement.

Mr. Fisher then turned the meeting over to Mr. Frank A. Day as chairman, for the purpose of giving Mayor Hatfield an opportunity to learn the wishes of the district as to proposed work on Farlow park.

Mayor Hatfield explained the situation and called attention to two maps displayed on the stage, one showing Farlow park as it is, the other showing the pond and bridge removed and a small triangular res-

Another View of the Farlow Park Controversy

To the Editor of the Graphic:—

The following correspondence explains itself. Believing it to be the duty of every citizen to take an intelligent interest in public affairs, I venture to offer it as a possible solution of the problem.

April 25, 1912. H. B. S.

VERNON COURT HOTEL
Newton, Mass.

April 22, 1912.
Messrs. Francis Murdock, G. Fred'k Simpson, and James F. Clark.
Dear Sirs:—I am in receipt of the appeal entitled Save Farlow Park, and I thank you for the honor you do me in calling my attention to the subject.

I beg leave to say that I am impressed with a sense of the importance of two things:

First, That nothing beautiful should be wantonly destroyed; for

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever";

Secondly, That a suitable and conveniently located playground should be provided for the hundreds of boys and girls of the Bigelow and Underhill schools and other young people.

With some diffidence I venture to propose what possibly might prove a compromise.

It is this: That a border, say twenty or twenty-five feet in width, on Vernon, Eldredge, and Church streets, be separated by a wire network from the interior, and made as attractive as flowers, statues, fountains, and other ornaments can render it; and that the interior be given up for playgrounds and liberally equipped with proper apparatus.

In such way I should hope that ornament might be combined with utility, and all be satisfied.

Believe me with great respect,
Truly yours,
HOMER B. SPRAGUE.

Newton, April 24, 1912.

Mr. Editor:—

I was one of those present Tuesday night at the hearing on Farlow park at the Hunnewell clubhouse, and as a long resident of Newton, I wish to enter an emphatic protest against the unfair and despicable tactics of those persons who sought to prevent anything like a fair expression of opinion on the matter. I trust our honored mayor will not have the impression that residents of this part of the city can see but one side any question and then calmly ignore persons who may differ from them only as to methods of procedure. The attitude of the land owners about Farlow park is as near pure selfishness as anything seen in this community for years. Not content with having a beautiful park in front of their premises for many years—paid for by their ancestors, not by them—they now strive to prevent even a small part of this park from being used for recreation purposes by small children under supervised play. No wonder the leaders in this movement do not want the matter openly discussed, their selfishness will be too apparent for comfort.

In the interest of fair play and in the interest of the children I trust you will publish this letter.

HOSPITAL SUNDAY

Substantial Sum Contributed for Support of Newton Hospital

The Treasurer of the Hospital reports that gifts on account of Hospital Sunday, 1911, to date are:—

From Churches.....$11,815.94
From individuals and corporations.....7,113.10

Total.....$18,929.04

This is the largest amount ever received on account of any Hospital Sunday collection and is greatly appreciated by the officers of the Hospital, as it relieves the constantly increasing burden of maintaining the Hospital at its present standing.

The thanks of the Hospital are most gratefully extended to all of those who have contributed.

NEWTON CLUB

A large number attended the roll off of winning teams Thursday evening of last week. It was necessary to roll four strings before the team captained by Mr. W. T. Halliday won 3 points from the ladies, under Miss Florence Crain. The ladies were given a handicap of 78 and won two of the three games but lost the total which made the extra string necessary. The scores follow:

WOMEN
Miss F. Crain.....	70	82	73	81
Mrs. C. R. Lynde.....	75	68	78	86
Mrs. H. D. Cabot.....	54	70	35	71
Mrs. A. E. Vose.....	68	60	69	67
Handicap.....	78	78	78	78

W. D. Follett.....	111	84	83	93
L. Washburn.....	94	79	86	80
	388	352	350	388

Refreshments and music followed with awards of prizes.

At Interborough Bowling, Tuesday, 23d, Newton Centre, West Newton won over Newtonville by 3 straight.

The tie for second place in last tournament was rolled off Wednesday last and won by J. B. Fuller's team, defeating that of Dr. P. B. Howard.

A successful ladies' bridge was held on afternoon of Wednesday, in charge of Mrs. W. D. Follett and Mrs. T. H. Whittemore, assisted by Miss Dorothy Caldwell and Miss Isabel Blake. Prizes in the order given were won by Mesdames G. N. Bankart, W. H. Rogers, H. A. Young and Fred E. Mann.

The minstrel show will, it is expected, be run two nights, May 1 and 2, owing to the demand for tickets. It promises to be a great success.

The Children's May Party scheduled for April 30 has been postponed, owing to conflicting dates, to Saturday afternoon, May 4th.

MRS. ROSS DEAD

Mrs. Marian Ward Ross, the wife of Mr. H. Wilson Ross, superintendent of the Newton Cemetery, died last Sunday at her home on Walnut street, Newton Centre, after several months' illness with tuberculosis. Mrs. Ross was 38 years of age and was the daughter of the late T. Albert Ward of Chestnut hill. Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon in the chapel of the Newton Cemetery, in charge of Rev. E. M. Noyes, D.D., of Newton Centre.

PATRIOTIC NIGHT

Monday evening was observed as "Patriotic" night by the W. C. T. U. who were entertained by Mrs. Eva Fogwell of Greenough street. The room was decorated with flags and a patriotic program arranged. A silk flag was presented to Mrs. Dinmore for answering the largest number of questions in revolutionary history correctly. Mrs. Beardsley sang a patriotic selection. It was voted to hold a social and entertainment May 13 at Mrs. Rand's to aid in fulfilling the pledge towards the new State Headquarters on Massachusetts avenue, Boston. The entertainment for the sailors at the Boston Baptist Bethel will be furnished by the Union May 27, under the direction of Mrs. Plaisted, Superintendent of Work among Sailors.

Acknowledgement was received of the protest of the W. N. Union to the Aldermen against the renewal of druggists' licenses and a report was given of the hearing. At the close of the meeting a social hour was enjoyed, with ice cream and cake served by the hostess.

The difference between the man who "takes a job" and the one who "accepts a position" is that the former really wants to work!

THROUGH SERVICE FOR NEWTON HIGHLANDS

April 23, 1912
To the Citizens of Newton Highlands and Newton Centre:

The Management of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company will, commencing May 1st, 1912, provide Through Service from Newton Highlands to Park Street, Subway, via Lake and Beacon Streets without change of cars. It is intended by the Management to continue the Through Service referred to providing the business will justify it. The leaving time will be the same as established March 1, 1912, giving on week-days a 15 minute service from 7 to 9 A. M.; 4 to 8 P. M.; Sunday, 4 to 11 P. M., and 30 minute time the balance of the day.

Through cars will go by way of Beacon Street, connecting at Coolidge Corner with cars for Brookline Village, Allston and Brighton.

The running time from Boylston and Centre Sts. to Park St. Subway is 45 minutes, Newton Centre Square to Park St. Subway is 39 minutes, Commonwealth avenue and Centre St. to Park St. Subway is 37 minutes, fare 10 cents.

We wish to call to your attention the fact that this is the most direct line to the centre of the City of Boston, the Terminal, Park Street Subway, being only a short distance from the shopping and theatrical centres.

Respectfully yours,

PUBLICITY FOR PERKINS

Why should George W. Perkins contribute $15,000 to help Mr. Roosevelt carry the Republican primaries in New York City?

Is it because Mr. Perkins is an ardent believer in the initiative and referendum?

Is it because his ardent soul is set on the recall of judicial decisions?

Is it because his confidence in "a pure democracy" is such that he is willing to make any financial sacrifice in order that the Nation may achieve this goal?

Is it because he believes that Theodore Roosevelt is the only statesman who is wise enough and patriotic enough to be President?

Or is it because Mr. Perkins finds in Mr. Roosevelt the most serviceable weapon for destroying the Sherman Anti-Trust law?

Mr. Perkins is Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Harvester Trust. He is a director of the Standard Oil bank. He was formerly a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. Mr. Perkins helped collect the life-insurance money for the Roosevelt campaign fund of 1904, and he is a very practical man.

If he gave $15,000 to the Roosevelt campaign fund in New York, how much has he given to the Roosevelt campaign fund in other States, and why?—New York Mail.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Newton Centre Improvement Association was held Tuesday evening in the Mason School hall, with a fair attendance. Satisfactory reports were received from the various officers and committees and it was voted to hold the usual Fourth of July celebration. These officers were elected: President, Mr. William H. Rice; vice president, Mr. Sumner Clement; secretary, Mr. Howard Emerson; treasurer, Mr. George C. Ewing; executive committee for three years, Mr. S. Harold Greene, Mr. Arthur W. Rayner, Mr. A. Leslie Harwood, Jr.

In the long fight for righteousness the watchword for all of us is spend and be spent. It is of little matter whether any one man fails or succeeds; but the cause shall not fail, for it is the cause of mankind. We, here in America, hold in our hands the hope of the world, the fate of the coming years; and shame and disgrace will be ours if in our eyes the light of high resolve is dimmed, if we trail in the dust the golden hopes of men.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

REPUBLICANS OF MASSACHUSETTS

The contest to be decided at NEXT TUESDAY'S PRIMARIES is not Theodore Roosevelt's. It is YOURS.

Roosevelt is the leader in YOUR cause, not his own.

It is your battle, not his.

Next Tuesday's primaries are your opportunity to express your will. No party boss speaks for you; your own ballot does it. ROOSEVELT MADE THIS POSSIBLE DESPITE THE MACHINE. He forced the primary law. IT IS NOW UP TO YOU TO MAKE THE MOST OF IT.

Roosevelt stands for the rule of the people.

Do you? Then VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT.

He stands against every crooked interest and every crooked political boss.

Do you? Then VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT.

He stands for rigidly enforcing the pure food laws he had enacted—not for driving out of public office those who, like Dr. Wiley, would enforce them.

Do you? Then VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT.

He stands for laws to protect the workingman's health and to compensate him for injuries.

Do you? THEN VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT.

He stands against making the farmer pay for tariff benefits conferred on the trusts by reciprocity or otherwise.

Do you? Then VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT.

He stands for a protective tariff that will benefit the wage-earner, the farmer and the consumer in precisely the same degree as it benefits the manufacturer and IN NO LESS DEGREE.

Do you? Then VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT.

YOUR VOTE IS NEEDED NEXT TUESDAY IF THE PEOPLE ARE TO TRIUMPH IN THEIR STRUGGLE FOR HUMAN RIGHTS. YOUR ACTIVE SUPPORT IS VITAL TO THE CAUSE. HELP GET OTHER VOTES BESIDES YOUR OWN. ROOSEVELT'S FRIENDS IN THIS CONTEST ARE VOLUNTEERS. THEY HAVE NO MACHINE. EVERY MAN IS ON DUTY BECAUSE HE BELIEVES IN THE PRINCIPLES FOR WHICH ROOSEVELT STANDS, AND WANTS A CANDIDATE WITH COURAGE AND CONSCIENCE—ONE WHO INSPIRES AND COMMANDS THE FAITH OF THE PEOPLE.

Do you want to stand with Roosevelt? Then vote next Tuesday and get your friends to vote for Roosevelt and Roosevelt delegates.

MASSACHUSETTS ROOSEVELT COMMITTEE, 15 State St., Boston
MATTHEW HALE, Chairman C. E. WARE, Jr., Treasurer

This is a Fair Statement of the Governor's Solution of the Railroad Situation.

The Merger Bill which the Governor sent to the Legislature today with a special message urging its adoption, secures to the State an extraordinary control over the transportation situation. The New Haven Railroad and the Boston & Maine Railroad are permitted to make a lease—or if they so decide, they can make a complete consolidation—to be operated under the name of the "New England Lines." In either case the consent of a new Public Service Commission with mandatory powers of the strongest character must be obtained; and the Governor incorporates the provision for the creation of the Public Service Commission in the Bill as an integral part of this scheme. The tunnel under Boston connecting the two roads may be built either by the city (in which case the railroad must lease it at 4 1-2 per cent for 25 years) or by the railroad (in which case the Commonwealth may at any time take it on a valuation.) The city may construct a highway across Boston for the tunnel to run under—or the tunnel may go by the Atlantic Avenue route. All the improvements planned will cost a very large sum of money and with this, in addition to their present great investments, the "New England Lines" cannot fail to do everything in their power to increase the business of their home territory. So comprehensive are the terms which the Governor proposes that it seems that this Merger Bill should be the final solution of our transportation problem. At all events this constructive measure with its sweeping guarantees will be a good exchange for the Boston Railroad Holding Co. To the greater potentialities of the consolidated corporation, the Governor put forward the higher powers of the consolidated board. Moreover, he urges strongly that this legislation will open the way into Boston for other railroads, so we may have the additional advantage of competition, should such desire to come. No corporation, however powerful, he says in his message, can be greater than the State, if we make the law as big as the business. In any settlement the State must have the paramount position.

For President,
WILLIAM H. TAFT

On the 4th of March next, I shall have served 1-2 years, and this 1-2 years constitute my first term. The wise custom which limits the President to two terms, regards the substance and not the form, and under no circumstances will I be a candidate for or accept another nomination.—President Roosevelt, Nov.
8, 1904.

"I have not changed and shall not change that decision thus announced."
—President Roosevelt, Dec. 11, 1907.

I wish to enter an emphatic protest against the sneering insinuations made at the Farlow park hearing against the aldermen from that district. I have had over twenty-five years personal association with the men who have represented the community at City Hall. I have seen them work over municipal problems until twelve, one, two and even three o'clock in the morning. I know of one alderman who gave nearly all his time for about three weeks in settling only one matter, and nearly every alderman gives freely of valuable business hours to his public duties. I have learned to seriously question my own opinions when they differ from those of members of the board, and I still have more confidence in the serious judgment of our aldermen on matters which have been under consideration for over a year, even when opposed by specious public sentiment worked up by a few interested citizens, and where the average citizen has not given five minutes of serious thought to the matter. I know of no surer way to deter good men from entering our municipal government, than to allow the flippant and sneering remarks of Tuesday night to pass without challenge or comment. I cannot believe that the second sober thought of our people will endorse the laughter and applause which greeted those statements at the recent hearing.

I trust that Newton Republicans have read the letter printed last week from Congressman Weeks giving some pertinent reasons why President Taft should be renominated. If a Republican President with a record like that of President Taft cannot be re-elected next fall, it is certain that no Republican will receive a majority of the votes. I have had too high a regard for ex-president Roosevelt to assail
his reasons or his record at this time.
In common with many other Republicans, I deeply regret his present unwise course of action and his unsound policies. Massachusetts Republicans, in general, and Newton Republicans in particular, should show the country, that here at least, we believe in personal as well as party loyalty, in upholding the Constitution, and in giving President Taft and every other statesman a "square deal" every time and all the time. Let Newton Republicans see to it that our own Coungressman, Hon. John W. Weeks, receives the largest vote of all the delegates to be elected at large, and incidentally that all his colleagues receive the largest vote possible. Remember that it is the votes for delegates which count, not the preferential vote for the various candidates
for President.

The board of aldermen are to be congratulated on having the courage of their convictions and voting to grant the usual sixth class or druggist licenses for the sale of liquor in this city, in spite of the large public sentiment aroused by the fallacious arguments of some of the best people in the city. Alderman Heard bid the nail on the head when he said that the difference was merely as to form.

Both the aldermen and the petitioners against granting these licenses were united in opposing intemperance and in restricting and regulating the ill-legal traffic in this city. It seems to me that the great body of our citizens will agree that the decision of a large majority of the board of aldermen, based upon a careful study of the whole situation for several years, is sounder than the hastily formed, and prejudiced opinions of persons, who,
of the highest personal character,
have had no practical experience with the subject in question.

The presidential primaries next Tuesday ought to bring out a large vote. It will be the first time that the individual voter can indicate his personal choice for president and a small vote will justify the claims of the opponents to the primary system, that the average voter desires the political leaders to act for him. Other states have cast about fifty per cent of their total vote at primaries as compared with about eighty per cent cast at the regular elections. Let every voter in Newton cast his ballot
next Tuesday afternoon and evening and roll up a primary vote somewhere near the ordinary election vote.

Important changes in the street railway tracks are being planned in Nonantum Square by the Boston Elevated and the Middlesex and Boston companies. In the first place a physical connection is desired between the tracks of the two companies, by which trains can be operated from the Newton tracks into Boston. The second plan is to slightly widen the Elevated tracks on Centre street near Jefferson street in order to allow the operation of larger cars to accommodate the increased traffic due to the opening of the Cambridge subway.

Attention is invited to the letter printed in another column, protesting against the 25 cents charge for admission to the High School ball games. There is a strong feeling throughout the city on this subject and our school authorities had better prepare for the storm which is surely coming on school athletics.

There seems to be a popular, altho erroneous impression, that Dr. Wiley was forced out of the government service by President Taft. Let us not forget that in his first public speech
as a private citizen, Dr. Wiley bore strong testimony to the support given him by the President and even went so far as to say that President Taft was the only friend he had in high official life.

Persons who talked so strenuously against the use of a portion of Far-low Park for a playground, will soon have an opportunity to show their earnestness by subscribing for the lease or purchase of land in this part of Newton for playground purposes. If the finances flow as freely as the protests the success of the playground is already assured.

The ministers of the churches around Farlow park ought to preach
some powerful sermons next Sunday on the text, "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not."

tained at bridge on Thursday of last week, at her residence on Commonwealth avenue. There were ten tables arranged and the prizes were very handsome, among them being a beautiful lace centre-piece, cut glass dish, and pepper and salt set. The prize winners were Mrs. Bradford, Mrs.
Bailey, Mrs. Curtis and Mrs. Frank Stewart.

—Mr. John H. Noyes, a resident of this city for 35 years, died quite suddenly last Saturday at his home on Summer street. Mr. Noyes was born in Candia, N. H., and was 69 years of age. For many years he has been engaged in the leather business in Boston. Funeral services were held at his late home on Monday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. Irving C. Tomlinson of Boston. The body was cremated at Mt. Auburn.

—A meeting of the Federation of the Woman's Missionary Societies of the parishes of the Episcopal churches was held Monday afternoon in the new parish-house of Trinity Episcopal church. Miss Wood of Boone University gave a highly interesting and instructive address on Missionary work in China and told of the work that is being done in the colleges, libraries and churches. There was an attendance of about eighty-five, including members from all the Episcopal churches in Newton. The meeting closed with a delightful social hour and refreshments were served.

The following ladies were on the committee in charge of refreshments:
Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Bixbey, Mrs. Masters, and Mrs. Cram.

—Last night the Ladies' Sewing Club of Bowen School held a fair in the school on Langley road. There were several tables the following la-

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

The hearing on Tuesday evening at the Hunnewell Club relative to the taking of Farlow Park for a playground brought out a large number of enthusiastic citizens, showing that public spirit is not dead in Newton when it comes to a matter that touches young and old and rich and poor. There was no one present, who did not believe in having a playground, and the necessity for one was brought home more directly than it has been at any preceding time, so that the hearing did good in more ways than one. The park will be saved for "the babies and the birds," to quote one of the speakers, and for the older people, too, who enjoy the little park for its real beauty, and unless the Club Editor is greatly mistaken the playground, which the boys should have by all means, will be forthcoming much sooner from this agitation of the matter. But anyone should have considered Farlow Park in any way suited for a playground is well nigh unbelievable. The use which the young children have made of it is just the sort of use to which no one objects and the family groups seen there in the summer remind one of similar ones in the great city parks of Europe. Were the park a second Franklin Park in respect to size there might easily have been the diamond for smaller boys and another for the big boys, but the idea of putting even a diamond for small boys within the area bounded by the bridge and the fences of the adjoining property is almost absurd and one has only to go over there and look at it to realize it. Let us rejoice that the park is saved, but also let us see to it that the boys have their playground and not some other year, but this year and without undue delay, too.

Newton Federation

The annual meeting of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs will be held in the New Church parlors, Highland avenue, Newtonville, on Tuesday, May 7, at 10.30. The morning session is given up to the hearing of the reports of officers and committees, the regular business and the election of officers. Luncheon will be served at one o'clock and tickets at sixty cents each have been sent to the clubs. At 2.30 the program will open and will include the presentation of "The Melting Pot" by members of the Monday Club of Newton Highlands together with music. Owing to the limited seating capacity of the hall the members are requested to present their club membership tickets for admission or in case of their being no membership ticket, the member's visiting card with name of club upon it will be accepted.

On May 18 at 8 P. M. the play written by three members of the Auburn-dale Review Club and presented very acceptably by that club a few weeks ago will be repeated at Players' Hall for the benefit of the Bureau of Newton Activities. All who saw it were loud in their praises of the merit of the performance and of the play itself as being worthy of professional performance. Save the date.

The New Hampshire State Federation of Women's Clubs is coming to Boston for its annual meeting as guests of New Hampshire's Daughters May 15, 16 and 17. The meetings will be held at Dr. Hale's Church and Hotel Brunswick will be the headquarters. It is an unusual thing for an out of state Federation to come to Boston, but let Massachusetts' welcome be a cordial one.

Local Announcements

The children's party under the auspices of the Newtonville Woman's Guild will be held at the Newton Club tomorrow, Saturday, afternoon from 2.30 to 5 o'clock. The party is under the management of the Industrial committee, Mrs. A. D. Saling, chairman. Children who have not secured their tickets may obtain them at the door on Saturday afternoon. Miss West will take charge of the dancing and refreshments will be served.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands will hold its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Kerr, 2 Raeburn terrace off Hillsdale road, on April 29.

On Monday afternoon, April 29, the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. meets with Mrs. H. B. Rogers of Charlesbank road, Newton.

The Social Science Club will hold a short business meeting on Wednesday morning, May 1st. A social evening will be enjoyed by the members of the club and guests at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Breck of Fairmount avenue on Saturday evening, May 4th.

A meeting of the Newton Ladies' Home Circle of unusual interest will be held on Thursday, May 2, at 2 P. M. in C. A. R. Hall, Newtonville. Reports from the meeting of Emergency committee of the Newton Federation, of the rummage sale recently held by the club, and the appointment of committees and the choosing of an auditor call for a full attendance.

At the home of Mrs. Henry E. Williams of Norman road on April 22 the Monday Club of Newton Highlands gave a very successful presentation of "The Melting Pot" by Israel Zangwill. The performance went off splendidly and all present were loud in their praises of it. Piano music was rendered by Mrs. Wallace and incidental violin music by Miss Emily Mercer. The following ladies made up the cast: Mrs. Margaret Crandall Miller, Mrs. Kimball, Mrs. Wetherbee, Mrs. MacCallum, Mrs. G. W. Barker, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Turnbull, Mrs. Robbins, and Mrs. Keeler.

Mrs. Wilkins, acting president of the Newton Federation, spoke in place of Mr. Swan of the associated Press, who was scheduled to lecture before the Waban Woman's Club, Monday afternoon, April 22, at the residence of Mrs. Harry R. Chadbourne Sr. Mrs. Wilkins so keenly alive to the needs and so closely in touch with the active work of the Federation gave a charming talk, showing what great factors the different Federation committees are in our city. The women quietly earnestly and with persistence are accomplishing much in civic affairs. Through the efforts of the Education Committee, the playground has become a year round movement with organized and directed play. Sex hygiene and school gardens are other interesting subjects which this committee are studying. Mrs. Wilkins urged the cooperation of all club women in the activities of which they approve, thereby making the Garden City beautiful more as well as a city of natural beauty.

The annual meeting of the Auburn-dale Review Club was held at the Brae Burn Club House on Tuesday, at 11 a. m. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Wm. A. Knowlton, Vice President, Mrs. Amos R. Wells; Secretary, Mrs. Joseph R. Draper; Treasurer, Mrs. Wm. Fuller.

The program committee presented the program for next year. At one half of the meetings papers will be presented on topics of the day, such as Conservation, Civics and Philanthropy, Home Economics and Socialism. The other half of the year will be devoted to a study of Dickens.

Following the business meeting the members were invited, as the guests of the retiring president, Mrs. E. F. Miller, to partake of a luncheon in the sun-parlor. At the close of the luncheon the exercises were in charge of Miss Louise Peloubet, who made a graceful toast-mistress. The first toast, by Mrs. G. M. Winslow, was "Our President," after which Mrs. Winslow presented Mrs. Miller with a bunch of beautiful roses. Then followed a toast to the "Nominating Committee" by Mrs. Charles Pickard the "Club Stock Company," by Mrs. C. E. Valentine, the "Playwrights," by Mrs. Turner, the "Club Babies," by Mrs. Theodore Gore, the "Club Strong Box," by Mrs. M. E. Herron, and last Mrs. A. C. Farley gave a toast to Mrs. Fuller, a member whose ability, willingness to help in any and many capacities, and whose faithfulness to the club interests for many years has won for her a warm place in the hearts of all.

These toasts were all bright, witty, entertaining and amusing. Some were in poetry and some in prose and some in rural dialect, but none lacked interest from the first to the last word, and the day's program closed with a feeling in the minds of all of pleasure and satisfaction and of deep gratitude to Mrs. Miller for enabling the Club to have such a happy day.

On Wednesday morning the Social Science Club held its annual meeting with Miss Grace Weston in the chair. The annual reports showed good work accomplished and a profitable year spent. Plans were made for next year's work, in which will be included a course of seven mornings on the study of Socialism. The stamp savings committee reported that there had been 32 collection days during the year and $372.13 had been collected from the children. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Louis Stoughton Drake; Vice Presidents, Miss Grace Weston, Mrs. H. H. Powers, Mrs. Fred H. Tucker, Mrs. Geo. Angier, Mrs. Joseph L. Colby, Mrs. Everett E. Kent; Recording Secretary, Mrs. C. O. Tucker; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. J. F. Bothfeld; Treasurer, Mrs. H. K. Hobart; Auditor, Mrs. William L. Lowell; Directors, Mrs. James W. McIntyre, Chairman, Mrs. Vernon B. Sweet, Mrs. H. I. Harriman, Mrs. William H. Drury, Mrs. Francis W. Dana.

CHARITY CONCERT

The West Newton Musical Club gave an enjoyable and successful Charity Concert Wednesday evening at the Neighborhood clubhouse.

About 150 well-known people from West Newton, Newton Centre and Newtonville enthusiastically demonstrated their appreciation of a program in which the artists were Miss Kempton, Miss Kimberley, Miss Soden, Miss West, Miss Lucy Allen, Mr. Charles Hackett, Miss Jaynes, Mrs. James, Miss Julia Pickard, Miss Wilhelm Wagner, Mrs. Norman Marshall, Mrs. Edward B. Stratton, Miss Esther Greene, Mrs. Weston and Miss Eichler.

THE TITANIC TRAGEDY

At the evening service of the First Baptist Church Rev. M. A. Levy spoke on "The Shadow of a Great Disaster." He said in part:

Insurance specialists describe certain disasters as "acts of God." They refer to such catastrophes as the earthquake that devastated San Francisco, and the tidal wave that brought death and ruin to the coasts of Japan. The average man speaks of a larger circle of disasters as "mysterious Providences." There can be no doubt that the sins of the fathers are a handicap to their children, and that every evil act disastrously on the doer and his fellow-men. The law is inescapable that the sowing of the whirlwind. We should not attribute to the Almighty events brought about by the unfettered rashness of man. God is responsible for the quicksand, but there are known laws of the quicksand. The man who builds on it foundation, only to see his structure totter into debris, has no right to speak of the disaster as "an act of God." That applies to ordinary industrial accidents, to railroad disasters, and in this appalling instance, to the disaster that befell the Titanic. God does not evade the laws concerning danger-proof machinery; neither does He, for the sake of profit, send out porous steel that makes possible fatal accidents to our limited trains. It is greedy, profit-craving men who do things, and invite catastrophe.

The Titanic is the final response of the shipbuilder to the mania for luxury, speed and profit, at the expense of safety for men and women. There is a deadly competition for ocean traffic, that emphasizes modern comfort and affords inadequate lifeboat equipment. The danger was known, for the officers had been warned; they simply took a chance to the strength of steel, determined to create a record. The result is appalling.

It requires a catastrophe of this kind to teach that the modern demand is too feverish and frenzied. The price of such a lesson seems great, exorbitant, murderous, criminal. This is no time, however, to inveigh against persons in authority, and hold them peculiarly responsible. They should be regarded as victims of circumstances that might have brought catastrophe to the ship of any other system. It is for us, instead, to insist that so costly a lesson shall be learned for all time. The hour has struck for us to demand that safety shall not be sacrificed to speed, that luxurious appointments shall not be accepted as a substitute for life-saving equipment and that, even at a day's delay, at this season, these great ships shall follow the southern course. The disaster is terrible, but course. The disaster is terrible, but it can be turned to good account for the future.

The moral effect of this catastrophe should be tremendous. Sixteen hundred souls called unexpectedly into the presence of the Almighty! We are in the presence of One, who, speaking of a great disaster in Jerusalem, said of its victims, "Think ye that they were offenders above all the men that dwell in Jerusalem? I tell you, Nay; but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." It is the Divine reminder that soul security is everything. We are so engaged and absorbed and abandoned in things of the hour that we forget our souls and neglect our relationship to God. The last sound from the sinking ship, echoing still, is the harmony of "Near-er, my God, to Thee." The dying message of the musicians is a message to modern men,—Get near to God, and get near now.

"So live that when thy summons comes to join The innumerable caravan, that moves To that mysterious realm, where each shall take his chamber in the silent halls of death. Thou go not, like the quarry slave at night, Scourged to his dungeon; but, sustained and soothed By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave, Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

75TH BIRTHDAY

Mr. Alfred L. Barbour celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday on Wednesday evening with a gathering of his family and friends at his home, 22 Perkins street, West Newton, where a most enjoyable evening was spent.

He received a number of very handsome presents and a profusion of flowers, of which he is very fond. Mr. Barbour was born in Cambridge, April 24, 1837, where he lived until 1875 when he removed to West Newton. In early life he was engaged in mercantile business and in the seventies was Deputy Collector in the Internal Revenue service for five years. He was then elected secretary and treasurer of the Cambridge Mutual Fire Insurance Company, which position he held for thirty years, resigning to engage in the real estate and insurance business in West Newton, which he has very successfully carried on for the past six years.

He is the sole surviving member of the original directorate of the First National Bank and for many years has been a trustee and clerk of the West Newton Savings Bank, also a director in the Co-operative Bank. He is senior deacon in the Lincoln Park Baptist Church and one of its most useful and honored members. He has held the positions of vice-president and auditor of the Boston Baptist Social Union and also positions of responsibility and trust in various other Baptist organizations, and is today one of the most highly honored and respected citizens of West Newton.

CAMP UTOPIA

Boyhood days must pass away, Years of work must follow play, But in the years that are to be Our hearts, Utopia, will turn to thee.

Chorus:
Utopia, Utopia, thy sons in legion sing,
Utopia, Utopia, long shall thy praises ring.
At thy fair name our hearts shall beat,
Utopia, that knowest not defeat.

See, now beneath thy banner old,
Thy sons are forming true and bold,
And come what may on land or sea,
Our hearts, Utopia, will turn to thee.
And when we face life's bitter fight,
And when around us is the night,
Then thy fair banner ever bright,
And thou, Utopia, shall be our light.

AGRY-SMITH

An event of great interest to many friends and relatives in Texas and the North was the marriage of Miss Mercedes Smith, daughter of the late Mr. Lowndes Grant Smith, to Mr. George Cram Agray, Dartmouth, '05, formerly of Newton, now of New Orleans, which, owing to the recent mourning in the family of the bride, was celebrated very quietly Saturday morning at 10.30 at Christ Church, New Orleans, in the presence of immediate relatives and intimate friends. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Leland Smith of Houston, Texas, and was attended by her sister, Mrs. Charles J. Slinott as matron of honor. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Warren Cram Agray of New York City. The ushers were Mr. Milton M. Smith of New Orleans, brother of the bride, and Mr. Henry Ketchum, Dartmouth, '03, formerly of Indianapolis, Ind. The impressive ceremony of the Episcopal Church was performed by Rev. William Alexander Barr, dean of Christ Cathedral, New Orleans, who is also a graduate of Dartmouth. Mr. and Mrs. Agray left immediately for a wedding-trip and on their return will reside with Mrs. Charles J. Slinott, sister of the bride, at 1641 Amelia street, New Orleans.

LOSE CLOSE GAME

Newton High School Nine Defeated For Second Time This Season by Harvard Second Team

Newton High School nine suffered its second defeat of the season last Wednesday afternoon in the hands of the Harvard Second team by the score of 7 to 6. The game was one of the fastest and spectacular games of the season, the winner not being decided until the last man was tagged out. The Orange and Black team made a vain effort to tie the score in the last inning, but a well-executed double play by the Harvard boys checked them off.

The home team knocked Bird out of the box in the third inning and Waterman, who replaced him held the local boys in check until the ninth, when a single combined with several errors added two tallies to the score. Spalding did the slab work for the home team and his eight free passes proved costly in most instances.

The visitors held a three-run lead until the ninth, when Capt. Henry Nash led off with a single to right, Beal reached first on Curtis' error and the former player scored on Whitney's bunt in front of the plate. The collegians appeared to go to pieces at this time, two errors in succession scoring Beal, and Whitney made third. Coach Dickinson sent Kite to bat in place of Hyslop, who hit a swift grounder to Avery, who threw to first catching Kite and Milholland relayed the ball to Osborn in time to double Whitney at the plate. Nash and Beal played an excellent game for the home team, and the work of Milholland and Osborn featured for the visitors.

The lineup: Harvard Second—Harvey 2b, Curtis 3b, Conant cf, Avery ss, Phillips rf, Milholland 1b, Randall lf, Osborn c, Bird p, Waterman p, Bradley cf.

Newton H. S.—Hyatt lf, Nash 1b, Beal 3b, Whitney rf, Terrio cf, Tucker 2b, Tapley ss, Conroy c, Spalding p, Derusha cf, Hyslop 2b.

It is with a feeling of personal loss on the part of every man, woman and child in this community that we witness the departure of the Reverend Eugene H. Thrasher and his wife to a new field of labor. He has endeavored himself to all by his true Christian spirit of kindly interest and helpfulness and it will be many a long day ere we shall cease to miss him. If he in his busy life ever finds time to revisit this spot he may rest assured a hearty welcome from one and all.

At a meeting of the Improvement Association held at Hamilton School, April 18th, Dr. Maskell gave a most interesting and instructive lecture on Bacteria. The members learned the importance to the health of the community of keeping all premises clean and free from rubbish, refuse, old tin cans etc., which form breeding places for disease-germs and the insects which carry and spread them. Mr. Frederic G. Melcher of Newton Centre gave a delightful talk in which we saw ourselves "as others see us." He presented a very attractive picture of our little village with its advantages and possibilities. It was much to be regretted that more of our people did not brave the storm and hear such fine lectures, but as the President, Mr. P. C. Baker remarked we did not have the power of "improving" the weather, altho we should have liked to for that occasion.

SHERMAN-FRIEND

Miss Ruth B. Friend, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Proctor Friend of West Newton became the bride of Mr. Harold Briggs Sherman of Newtonville on Monday evening, the ceremony taking place at the West Newton Unitarian Church. Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, the pastor of the church, officiated at the wedding which took place at eight o'clock.

The bride was in white satin charmuse with pearl trimmings and Duchesse lace, and her sister Mrs. Philip H. Mitchell of Providence, R. I., was the matron of honor.

The bridesmaids, Miss Helen Gibson of West Newton, Miss Edith S. Robinson of New York, Miss Marian Sherman and Miss Mary Wilcox of Newtonville, Miss Grace Richardson of Newton Centre and Miss Gladys Chandler of Auburndale, wore white satin with gold lace jackets.

Prof. Philip H. Mitchell of Brown University was the best man and the guests were seated by these ushers, Messrs. Paul Ingraham, Raymond Briggs, F. Marsena Butts, J. Bartlett Melcher and Clinton Willey of Newton and William Hickox of Boston.

A largely attended reception followed at the residence of Mr. Friend on Prince street, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Friend and Miss Louise Sherman, sister of the groom. An interesting feature of the reception was the announcement of the engagement of Miss Marguerite Sherman, sister of the groom and Mr. Arthur William Blake of Portland, Me., M. I. T. '07.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman will reside at 472 Walnut street, Newtonville.

THELEN-BARTELS

The wedding of Miss Elda A. L. Bartels, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bartels of Waban and Dr. Otto H. L. Thelen of Chestnut Hill, took place Wednesday evening at the beautiful home of the bride on Upland road, Waban. The ceremony was performed at 7.30 o'clock by Rev. Philip S. Moxom of Springfield in the presence of the immediate families of the bridal couple.

The bride wore white charmuse and chiffon, with lace and her veil was draped with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of lilies of the valley and white orchids. Miss Helene Bartels was the maid of honor. The best man was Dr. Wilhelm Thelen of Koenigsberg, Germany, and the ushers were Messrs. Roswell Parish, Jr., of Newton Highlands, Robert Estabrook of Newton, Max Bartels of Chelsea, C. C. Erdmann of Waverley and R. Burleigh Bartels of Waban.

A reception followed until ten o'clock, Dr. and Mrs. Thelen being assisted in receiving their guests by Mrs. Christian Thelen and Dr. Wilhelm Thelen.

Dr. and Mrs. Thelen sail for Europe next Tuesday on the S. S. Kaiserin Augusta Victoria and will be at home at Villa Thelen, Koenigsberg, Germany, after May 20th.

TWO MORE ACCIDENTS

Commonwealth avenue was again the scene of two more automobile accidents this week, and curiously enough, both were within a very short distance of the first accident reported two weeks ago.

On Sunday morning Mr. John A. Hiller of Newton Centre, while riding a motor cycle near Prince street, ran into the automobile of Mr. E. S. Litchfield of Brookline. Hiller was thrown off and injured about the head. He was taken home by Alderman G. M. Cox who was passing at the time.

Two hours later, the automobile owned by Mr. F. G. May of Boston, while passing the same point ran into a tree. The accident was caused by a wheel which collapsed. No one was injured.

Waban

The Sewing Circle of the Union Church with friends were entertained at the home of Mrs. Joseph Breck, Beacon street this afternoon, cards and refreshments were enjoyed. The Circle will hold its next meeting with Mrs. Joseph Congdon, Waban avenue, on Tuesday.

THE NEWTON HIGH SCHOOLS

The game between Newton and Stone School, which was to have been held on April nineteenth and was not played on account of the rain, has been cancelled.

On Saturday, April 20th the Newton High defeated Reading High in baseball by a score of 9-5.

A good game is expected Saturday when Newton will match her team against the strong Boston Latin players.

The Freshmen were entertained in the assembly hall of the Technical High on Wednesday morning by a division of the Freshman English class which dramatized sections of "The Tullamann."

Newton was defeated by the Harvard 2d team on Wednesday by a score of 7-6.

For each six months subscription to the NEWTON GRAPHIC, (new subscribers only), paid at $1.00 each, 100 VOTES.

For renewals of old subscriptions to the NEWTON GRAPHIC at $2.00 per year for each year paid, 100 VOTES.

The contestant depositing the largest number of votes before five P. M. on Thursday of each week during the contest will be given a 75 cent seat in the Grand Stand at Fenway Park for the following Saturday afternoon game. (Weather permitting.)

The contest will positively close at twelve o'clock noon on Monday, May 27, and the award will be made as soon as possible thereafter.

The SEASON TICKET will admit to a 75 cent seat in the GRANDSTAND for all games played at Fenway Park—Boston American Ball Games, after the award of the prize to the winner of the contest, and will be good for 48 games beginning May 27, 1912.

CORRESPONDENCE

April 21, 1912.

Editor of the Graphic:—
Once more the writer is forced to protest, for others, at the price charged to see the Newton High School Base Ball games.

With the exception of two or three games they have decided it is better to charge 25 cents and have in attendance twenty-five or thirty sons and daughters of rich families than to charge ten or fifteen cents and load the grand stand with 500 or more good lusty lunged rooters.

At the game Saturday (25 cents charged), there were perhaps 50, some "dead heads"; the Reading team was so poor, the Newtons put in many substitutes, and it was more like being to a funeral than a ball game. The writer attends every game and can afford to pay the 25 cents, but it is a shame to see the hundreds of pupils going home, the day of each game, when a reasonable charge would bring them together.

"SPORT."

N. H. S.

Newton High School has a golf team this season and is looking for matches with other schools. Richard Lyons, the captain, is only a freshman in the school, yet is looked upon as a leading player. He acquired his skill as a caddy on the Brae-Burn Country Club links, where he won the caddy championship. Last year he was in the semi-finals of the school-boy championship and was second last fall for the best gross in the open tournament at Albemarle.

Others who will get out for practice with Captain Lyons are Parker Schofield, Bigelow Emerson, Joseph Hackett, Quinlan, George Hendrick and Paul Waters. Schofield is a promising candidate, and Emerson plays a good game for a schoolboy. He has won prizes in the weekly tournaments of the Hatherly Club at North Scituate. Emerson is manager of the team, as well as player and any other school in the State which thinks that it has a team superior to that at Newton would do well to communicate with them. The boys have been granted certain privileges at Woodland and Albemarle.

A GUIDE TO VACATIONISTS

Is the blood, fresh Springtime tingling your glad? Are you eagerly looking forward to that longed-for vacation? Do you want to know what to do and where to go to find the utmost of out-door enjoyment? Then you should read Alfred E. McCleary's "Quaint Old Cape Cod," which appears in the May number of the New England Resorter, the bright new monthly magazine about New England pleasure resorts, which is out for the first time this week.

The May Resorter is a Fishing Number—distinctly so. In "First Aid to the Angler," Thomas F. Anderson makes an exposition of the wonderful opportunities for the angler in New England.

Then there is a splendid article on "The Lure of New England," by John C. Daggett.

Beside all this, there are a score and more of wonderful pictures of fishing and recreation scenes.

CLEAN UP WEEK

Hartford, Conn., is having a "clean-up week" and is going at it in a way that may well be copied by other cities and towns. The "week" was set apart by the Mayor, property owners, tenants and school children were asked to co-operate with the Board of Health and Street Department, and what is more to the point, it is proposed to follow the matter up. The Board of Health rules that tin cans or any receptacle capable of holding water that may become stagnant, are a menace to health and their removal from yards can be enforced by law, while the law can also force removal of paper and rubbish piles on account of the fire hazard. Hartford is a remarkably clean city, anyway, but there are always some people whose civic pride is not a prominent feature, and the city proposes to stir these people to action. Then, too, during a long winter, every yard and open lot accumulates rubbish that is hidden by snow and ice, but soon becomes not only unsightly but a positive menace in warm weather.

McKenney & Waterbury Co., No. 181 Franklin St., are showing some new things in Lighting Fixtures, embracing the newest ideas of Direct Indirect Lighting. They have the largest display of these goods in the country, all lighted to show effect and everybody intending to improve lights in their homes should not fail to visit this exhibition.

MINISTER SURPRISED

Rev. Edward Hale, minister of the First Unitarian Church at Chestnut Hill, was pleasantly surprised Tuesday, April 16, when he arrived at the Hotel Bellevue, Boston. Instead of an old friend or two, he found many who desired to take note of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination. The assembly included only those who were Mr. Hale's contemporaries in the Harvard Divinity School, or who were students when he was professor of homiletics there.

Rev. George Hale Reed of Belmont presented a silver loving cup on behalf of the company, and Rev. Frederick H. Kent followed with the gift of a purse. Rev. Louis C. Cornish of Hingham read many letters from men in different parts of the country representing varying shades of religious belief, all of whom told of the inspiration of Mr. Hale's teaching.

Mr. Hale on his graduation from the Divinity School in 1886 was ordained assistant to Rev. Edward Everett Hale in the South Congregational Church. He remained five years and then went to Orange, N. J. From there, he returned to Cambridge to accept a professorship. Twelve years ago he resigned to take up the ministry of the Chestnut Hill parish.

"THE DRUID'S PRAYER"

What a quaint, weird title for a musical composition—surely, the name itself ought to furnish a fund of ideas to a versatile composer—and so it has. Our readers no doubt have heard this beautiful waltz played in theatres and at concerts.

Its sublime and rich, harmonious strains are sure to make a strong impression and the piece, which is all the rage in musical circles abroad, is rapidly becoming a favorite on this side of the Atlantic.

A poem entitled "By the Druid's Altar" has been written to the principal themes of this waltz and it promises to rival the well-known "Rosary" in popularity.

The accompanying extract from "The Druid's Prayer" gives one an idea of the beautiful melodies of this charming bit of music, which, like all great works of art, is a joy forever.

The Druid's Prayer.

CORRESPONDENCE

As an observant citizen of Newton it seems to me that it would be a great help to the members of the G. A. R. if they could have the use of automobiles on Memorial Day. As the veterans are getting along in years I think that it would be a fine thing for them to be able to ride in ease and comfort to pay their annual tribute to their dead comrades.

Therefore, I am writing with the hope that many public spirited citizens will offer their automobiles for this special occasion.

No doubt but that it would be deeply appreciated.

Very truly yours,
An Observant Citizen.

THEATRES

BOSTON THEATRE—Everybody is interested in the announcement that the famous Julian Eltinge, the one and only actor on the American stage who has dignified the impersonation of beautiful women by artistic methods, is to return to the Boston Theatre as the star of "The Fascinating Widow," for a limited engagement beginning April 29. This season the production is new in every detail. There are many new and catchy songs, numerous new dancing features, and the musical score has been enlivened and brightened throughout. Special interest will be aroused by Julian Eltinge's Parisian wardrobe of marvelous new gowns, to secure which the actor made a special trip to Paris last Summer. For the benefit of out-of-town patrons special matinees will be given Wednesday, as well as the regular Saturday afternoon performance. This will be Julian Eltinge and "The Fascinating Widow's" one and only appearance in any New England city.

B. F. KELTH'S THEATRE—Something decidedly new and original in the way of farce comedy is promised for B. F. Kelth's Theatre this week. Hazel Weston and company will present one of the funniest and most pretentious travesties ever staged in vaudeville, and is a take-off on the old time melodrama. It is called "More Sinned Against Than Usual." The author, Everett Shinn, terms his offering "a laughing freak in four scenes." Surrounding this elaborate offering will be a splendid vaudeville bill, headed by B. A. Rolfe, the famous cornet virtuoso, and his "Rolfonians." This is the largest and finest of the many companies of musicians Mr. Rolfe has given vaudeville, and will offer a splendid program of popular selections. Other big features will be the Three Leightons, in "A One Night Stand in Minstrelsy," Howard and Lawrence, Norman and Toomey, Rosaire and Doretto, the Two Jolly Tars; and Wartenburg Brothers, the double footed jugglers.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—"The Prince Chap" is a play that is designed to appeal to theatre-goers of all ages. Its author is Edward Peple, who also wrote "The Spitfire" and "The Little Rebel," and in it he has brought out the spirit of childhood in all its simplicity. Its plot is delightfully simple and continuously entertaining. A little girl five years of age is left in the care of a young American artist who is struggling in London to make his way towards fame and fortune. She is the daughter of a respectable woman who has been his model, and who has died leaving him to protect her child. This he does, taking her into his own home, and acting the father to her. The years pass, until in the last act she is a woman of eighteen, and the love between adopted child and adoptive father becomes a stronger passion. They are romantically happy, become husband and wife, and the play ends amid general scenes of rejoicing. The strongest quality of "The Prince Chap" lies in its humanity. Its pathos rings true, and its humor is ever present. The cast at the Castle Square next week will be one of unusual excellence. Mr. Craig taking the part of the young artist, who finally succeeds in love and art. The child in the first act will be acted by Miss Henrietta McDannell of "End of the Bridge" fame, and Mary Young will represent her during the rest of the play. The run of "The Prince Chap" on the Castle Square stage will be for only one week.

TREMONT TEMPLE—Homer's Odyssey has come, has seen, and has conquered Boston. As performed in the latest motion pictures it has apparently reached the Tremont Temple to stay. The third week begins Monday, and there it may be witnessed twice a day at 2:30 and 8:15. To write indefinitely of these pictures would be to say too much. They are the very latest thing, perfect in production and in action. They represent real people, real things and real scenery, and they tell the entire tale of the adventures of Ulysses of Ithaca on his way to and from the siege of Troy. They are genuinely dramatic, and they are of special interest to teachers and pupils whose reading or who have read the great epic poem of the Odyssey. Secure seats early at the Tremont Temple box office.

POINTERS FOR THE MOTORIST

How to Drive Over Repaired Roads

Just at this season of the year when country road commissioners are repairing the highways with crushed stone, motorists find many stretches that look alarmingly harmful to their tires. A little care in driving over places where ruts and hollows have been filled with crushed stone will prevent injury to the tires, says the Michelin man.

The best way to proceed when it is found impossible to avoid a short distance of stony road, is to take it at reduced speed after releasing the clutch. The distance should be estimated so that it will not be necessary to throw in the clutch in the middle of the stony part which would necessitate a fresh start while on the stones.

In case of a long distance of stony road, when it would be impossible to "coast" over the entire distance the best thing to do is to throw in the first speed going over the stony part slowly. It may be explained that the shock of the road increases with the increased speed of the car, the cutting of the tires by the sharp stones will be reduced to minimum when proceeding in the manner suggested.

Williams the property on the corner of Kewadin road and Devon road in Waban, consisting of a new bungalow house and garage with about 18,000 feet of land, assessed for $5500 and which $5200 is on the buildings and $350 on the land.

eration on the west side of the park where small children might play. There was an immediate and unnecessary wrangle over the need of having a hearing at all. Mr. F. O. Stanley declared that as everyone there knew what he wanted it was a waste of time to discuss the matter. Remarks were made by Dr. L. R. Stone, Mr. F. H. Tucker, Dr. M. E. Gleason upon the question, which the mayor finally settled by saying that he had come there to hear both sides.

Mr. Fred H. Tucker was the first speaker and said he favored the retention of the pond and the use of a portion of the park for a playground for small children. He called attention to the little chance existing in Newton for children to play and told of a miniature playground he had made in his own yard when his children were small and the good results which came from it. He believed that children were of more consequence than trees and shrubs and flowers and if you can give a boy something better to do he won't be so apt to sneak off and smoke cigarettes. Mr. Tucker criticized the actions of the church organizations in this matter and suggested that the churches contribute towards the expense of supervision.

Alderman Blakemore told of the work done by the city government in the matter of playgrounds and he believed that this section of the city needed one also. The matter had been under consideration for over a year and if the people in Newton did not know what was going on it was not the fault of the city. The children of the Bigelow district certainly had some rights to play and he had a petition signed by 182 boys of the Bigelow school asking for a chance to play on Farlow park. The attitude of the land owners near that park was antagonistic to what Mr. Farlow intended when he gave the land for park purposes. Mr. Blakemore said that the bridge needed repairs and the pond was a nuisance.

Mr. William C. Brewer, chairman of the Playground commission told of the work being done in the matter of supervision and said that if a playground was provided the commission would see that it was properly looked after.

Rev. H. R. Chamberlin of Immanuel Church said that any church is misrepresented if it did not put people before things, and that the children were more important than the park. Children, he said, are the real assets of the city.

Mr. William Macpherson of the Y. M. C. A., said that his experience in Newton showed very clearly that the boys under 12 years of age should have a chance to play. He cannot do so today in Cabot park, and he therefore plays in the street. He favored the proposed change in the park.

Mr. R. C. Emery said that there were plenty of places where a playground could be located and not destroy a beauty spot like Farlow park.

Mr. W. F. Garcelon said that the children ought to have a place to play but it ought not to be a noisy playground. Properly supervised, he did not believe the park would be as objectionable as it is today. He believed we could still keep the beauty of Farlow park and let the children play there too. He wanted a skating pond in winter and properly supervised in summer.

Dr. M. E. Gleason said that the boy overheard even more supervision than younger children. This part of Newton is entitled to a playground as much as the rest of the city and thought it was a matter for the aldermen to attend to.

Mayor Hatfield here explained that every other part of the city had either given its playground outright or had contributed considerably more than half the expense.

Mr. O. W. Holmes thought the boys were justified in asking for a playground, as our laws are being spotted by their present activities, but he also deemed it foolish to destroy a beauty spot like Farlow park and then make only an inadequate playground.

Mr. E. E. Kent thanked the mayor for his prompt attention in the matter, and thought the city's title to the park would hang by a precarious thread if used as a playground. He gave another interpretation to Mr. Farlow's letter.

Mrs. F. B. Hornbrook said that the rights of the babies who took their daily naps in the park were not being recognized and said that babies and base ball made an incongruous combination. She also thought the pond was most valuable as a bathing and drinking place for our birds. Mr. William Banks heartily endorsed this sentiment in behalf of his doves.

A letter was read from Mr. E. I. Leeds urging that the bridge and pond be retained.

There was an almost unanimous vote in favor of keeping the park as it is, only half a dozen or so voting in opposition.

The matter was then referred to a committee consisting of Messrs L. D. Towle, Frank A. Day, Charles E. Riley and G. Fred Simpson, to cooperate with the mayor in the matter of Farlow park.
